Truman Rejects Subpoena

Jenner Convinced HST Saw FBI Report

Hendrickson Certain Whole Story Not Told

Senate Group Takes Look At Case, Grills Vaughan And Caudle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—An all-Republican Senate inquiry committee took a swift 40-minute look at the explosive Harry Dexter White "spy" case at a jam-packed, televised hearing today.

At the end, Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) said he was convinced that former President Truman received FBI reports linking White to a Soviet espionage ring in 1946.

But Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ), who sat with Jenner at the two-man inquiry, took a somewhat different view.

Asked if he thought the record proved Truman had seen the FBI reports on White, Hendrickson told newsmen:

"Only by implication. I am not completely convinced we have the whole story. It's a pretty strong record, but I want to be fair about it.

"I would like to hear from Truman's own lips whether he saw those reports."

Crux Of Dispute

The crux of the whole dispute is whether Truman actually saw the FBI reports and knew about White's alleged spying for the Soviets when he promoted White from assistant secretary of the Treasury to U. S. executive director of the International Monetary fund.

Truman, who today rejected a subpoena to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee, says he doesn't recall ever getting such reports.

Jenner and Hendrickson, the only members of the nine-man Senate internal security subcommittee on hand for today's inquiry, gave their views to newsmen after hearing testimony by former Asst. Atty. Gen. T. Lamar Caudle and Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan (Ret.), Truman's former military aide.

Caudle testified at the public hearing for 13 minutes, Vaughan for 27. Both had testified briefly behind closed doors earlier in the day.

Vaughan Has Little To Say

Vaughan had little to say beond reiterating that he had no recollection of receiving any FBI report mentioning White.

Vaughan told the senators however that if Atty. Gen. Brownell said such reports were sent to him—as Brownell did say—"I would not question it for a moment."

Vaughan also commented that reports marked directly for the President went to the chief executive within 24 hours.

Besides the Caudle-Vaughan testmony, the subcommittee received a telegram from Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, who was secretary of state at the time the FBI accused White early in 1946.

Byrnes said the FBI report he saw "aroused such serious suspicions" that he thought Truman should try to stop Senate confirmation of White. He said he discussed the matter with the former President, but by that time White had already been confirmed.

Chairman Jenner said there was "no doubt" that the FBI reports went to Truman, as charged by Atty. Gen. Brownell last Friday in a Chicago speech accusing the Truman administration of Communist-coddling.

"Brownell says they did, Byrnes says they did, Caudle says they did, Vaughan says they did," Jen-

Greece Rejects Soviet Protest

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Greek Foreign Ministry said tonight it has rejected the Soviet Union protest against Greece's agreement with the United States to allow American forces to use Greek air and naval bases.

A summary of the Greek reply described as unfounded Soviet objections that the agreement would change the Balkan balance of power.

The agreement is merely an addendum to NATO, the reply said.

It added: "The fact that the military clauses of the peace treaties (of Bulgaria and Romania) have been consistently violated. . . do not allow relaxation in Greece's defensive measures."

Jordan Is Blamed For Border Raids

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP) — Israeli Delegate Abba Eban proposed today an immediate meeting of political and military representatives of Israel and Jordan with Palestine truce officials here in an attempt to prevent further border raids.

He expressed to the Security Council his government's "profound and unreserved regret" for the loss of "innocent" lives at Kibya, Jordan, in an early-morning raid on Oct. 14 in which 53 Arabs died.

Palestine truce observers reported Israeli armed forces carried out the raids, but Israel denied the army was involved. Eban blamed the Kibya incident and other violence on the Arab "political, economic and military siege," against Israel.

Arab Boycott Charged

He told the Council his government had designated him as its representative in the proposed talks here with the Jordan representative and Maj. Gen. Vagn Bennike, Denmark, U. N. supervisor of the truce organization. He said such conferences might bring about agreements which would end the border violence.

Eban's speech was a 15,000-word account of Israel's troubles with her Arab neighbors since Israel became a state.

Eban called on the Council to urge the Arabs to substitute permanent peace treaties for the present armistice agreements. He charged the Arabs were determined not to make peace with Israel nor let Israel live in peace. He said they were boycotting Israel and were constantly threatening Israel's security.

Wouldn't Violate Charter

He said there is nothing in his requests for peace and an end to the border violence which would go against the U. N. charter or the armistice agreement.

The Palestine question arose in the Council when the United States, Britain and France, expressing shock at the Kibya raid, called on the Security Council to meet urgently and act on the problem. The truce supervisor flew here at the request of the Council and reported on the situation.

Wiley Says Top Reds Prosecuted Eight Years Late

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today that "a hostile administration" delayed prosecution of top Communist leaders in this country for eight years after Congress enacted a law to permit such prosecution.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also charged that Communists were allowed to infiltrate the United Nations organization for several years after the Federal Bureau of Investigation warned this was going on.

His accusations were contained in a foreword to a special handbook on how to fight communism and subversion.

Volume To Be Ready Soon

Wiley sent proofs of the new 270-page "Internal Security Manual" to the Senate press gallery today with a note that the volume would not be ready to distribute for several weeks.

It contains extracts of scores of federal laws and presidential orders dealing with communism, subversion, espionage, loyalty and similar matters as well as an index and reference to all congressional investigations and reports in this field.

Citing the eight-year delay in prosecuting 11 U. S. Communist party leaders, he said:

Congress Intent Disregarded

"Often, a hostile administration has practically disregarded the will and intent of Congress and has permitted entirely current statutes to become dead letters."

Wiley said Congress enacted the Smith Act in May 1940 providing 10-year prison terms and fines of up to $10,000 for those advocating the forcible overthrow of the government.

He said it was not until July 1948 that the Communist party leaders were indicted under this act and eventually convicted.

Atom Scientist Warns U. S. To Double Military Effort

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—An atomic scientist asserted today that the United States should double its military effort now or risk the program of "simple annihilation" he believes Soviet leaders have in store for any defeated America.

Dr. Frederick Seitz took a hard slap at the "growing misconception" that the United States can't afford both strong offensive and defensive systems.

Writing in the bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, he said:

"Our present military budget, when viewed in the light of the issues at stake and the magnitude of the Soviet armament program, is about half its proper value. If our actions are to lie within the bounds of reason, our military budget at this time should be limited only by the ingenuity and productive capacity available to do the job required."

Dr. Seitz said the goal of Russian leaders is to establish Soviet control "over the entire planet" and that fear of reprisal from the United States has been the only restraining force so far.

Dr. Seitz, professor of physics at the University of Illinois, was one of the scientists who worked on the plutonium project at the University of Chicago that led to the development of the atomic bomb.

As an evidence of Soviet intentions, he pointed to the Russian military buildup from 1945 to 1950 while the Western powers were permitting their forces to decline and added:

"Since the United States must now be the primary enemy of the Soviet leaders, what fortune can they wish on us? It seems evident . . . that from their viewpoint the most desirable of the practically conceivable goals, for the plannable future, would be simple annihilation.

Eisenhower Off To Canada For State Visit

Ike To Talk Defense, Hopes To Stimulate International Trade

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower left Washington late today on a two-day trip to Canada with a dual purpose—to promote continental defense and to stimulate international trade.

It will be a two-day state visit, highlighted by an address to the Canadian Parliament in Ottawa Saturday. Eisenhower said his speech will be a general discussion of some of the problems that are common to both countries.

Joint Committee Formed

Shortly before boarding his special train for the Canadian capital, Eisenhower announced the formation of a joint committee to deal with "broad questions affecting the harmonious economic relations of the two countries."

"Both governments have recognized," a White House statement said, "that the free world is vitally interested in promoting a healthy flow of international trade." The statement added:

"The activities of the joint committee will constitute one aspect of the efforts of both countries in promoting satisfactory trade relations on a multilateral basis throughout the free world."

Group Of Cabinet Rank

The group, which is of Cabinet rank, will be known formally as the United States-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. It will meet at least once a year, alternately in Washington and Ottawa.

"After receiving reports of the joint committee's work," the announcement said, "each government will have an opportunity to consider measures to improve economic relations and to encourage the flow of trade."

Magsaysay Gets News Of Victory While On Yacht

MANILA, Friday, Nov 13 (AP)—Ramon Magsaysay, son of a blacksmith and guerrilla fighter against the Japanese, heard the climax of his crushing defeat of President Quirino on a U. S. yacht in the shadow of Corregidor island yesterday.

Late but incomplete returns gave Magsaysay 2,269,131 votes and Quirino 1,002,566.

Magsaysay was cruising Thursday in Manila Bay with members of his family aboard the yacht of Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, U. S. Navy commander in the Philippines, when a press boat approached.

Corregidor island, where the remnants of U. S. forces surrendered to the Japanese in World War II, loomed starkly nearby and the long, dark form of Bataan swelled in the background.

"President Quirino has conceded," newsmen yelled across the narrowing span of water. They shouted Quirino's words.

Magsaysay merely nodded. Then he asked for the written statement. The paper fell in the water. A sailor retrieved with a pole and fished it into the hands of the President-elect.

Argentine Planes Collide And Crash, Taking 20 Lives

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 12 (AP)—Twenty persons were killed today when a four-engine military transport and a small military aircraft collided 200 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

The accident occurred near the town of Maximo Paz not far from the border of Santa Fe and Buenos Aires provinces. The mutilated bodies of military personnel found in the wreckage were taken to the morgue in Rosario, the nearest city.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Arturo Toscanini, who has been ill, will return as conductor of the NBC Symphony Orchestra Sunday, Nov. 22, on the NBC radio, the network said today.

"Fictitious" Prosperity Ending, McKay Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP) — Secretary of the Interior McKay said today that America is coming out of its "fictitious" war prosperity but that those businesses which practice thrift and adjust to the situation will survive.

"Competition is coming back," he told a luncheon meeting of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

"I don't believe there will be a depression but there will be adjustments. We can't live on the profits of destruction."

Today's Chuckle

"Been fishing haven't you? Catch anything?"

"Yes, indeed, caught the 8:30 there and the 6:10 back. Got caught in a storm, caught cold; and boy, will I catch it when I get home."

Vaughan And Caudle Testify

Harry H. Vaughan (left) and T. Lamar Caudle (right), almost hemmed in by microphones, testify before the Senate Internal Security sub-committee. Vaughan said he had no recollection of getting any FBI reports on Harry Dexter White when he was military aide at the White House. Caudle, a former assistant attorney general, told the sub-committee that he remembers a 1946 FBI memorandum indicated that White was a member of the Communist underground.

Iranian Troops Kill Two Rioters And Arrest 140

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 12 (AP) — The Royalist government's security forces killed two persons and arrested 140 here today to quell rioting by Communists and extreme Nationalists in behalf of Mohammed Mossadegh, the ex-Premier accused of treason.

Rain helped clear the streets.

Police, troops and tanks clamped the tightest grip on Tehran since Gen. Fazollah Zahedi overthrew Mossadegh in the name of the shah and assumed the premiership Aug. 19.

Soldiers' rifles and police clubs were brought into play to check roving gangs of thousands of youths, some obeying Communist-Nationalist orders for a general strike, who roamed the main thoroughfares shouting "Long Live Mossadegh."

Bullets Break Up Melee

Brig. Teimour Bakhtiar, commander of an armored unit, said two were shot dead when troops fired to break up a melee at the intersection of two streets bearing names of the royal family, Shah Reza and Pahlevi. Squares and bazaars were heavily garrisoned.

The strike, called in sympathy for Mossadegh shortly before an army court martial started a hearing on his case last Sunday, appeared to have collapsed.

Public services, government offices and most shops did business as usual although hundreds of merchants—most of them anti-Communist but pro-Mossadegh—kept their shutters down.

Schools Operate Normally

Schools operated normally. The University of Tehran settled to work after a jittery start in which isolated students shouted pro-Mossadegh slogans and then ducked out of sight.

The demonstrations were on a pattern often evident during Mossadegh's 28 months in the premiership. The use of street crowds for political purposes is an old Iranian custom. Mossadegh, a Nationalist, wooed the Russians and the native Communists for support in the period before the August showdown.

Fastest Jet Passes Navy Carrier Tests

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP) —Douglas Airnraft Co. disclosed today that the F4D Skyray it built for the Navy and which holds the unofficial world speed records for jets, has successfully passed takeoff and landing tests on a carrier.

The aircraft, which recently flew 753.4 miles an hour for the record, made about 20 landings and takeoffs from a carrier in the Atlantic off Norfolk, Va., Oct. 26-30.

On the takeoff the Skyray was catapulted by an explosive charge.

The Skyray was able to land successfully on the pitching deck of the carrier and arresting wires brought it to a full stop within 150 feet.

Inhalator Squad Revives Man, 94, For 100th Time

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP)—Harry Cove, the steadiest customer of the Lansing Fire Department, was revived by the department inhalator squad for the 100th time today.

Cove, who will be 95, Nov. 27, has suffered repeated attacks of arteriosclerosis. Each time the fire department is called and he is revived with inhalator equipment which "breathes" for unconscious persons.

Cove, then, 88, suffered his first attack in 1947. So far in 1953, he has been revived 32 times.

Farmer Kills Three, Self

LEWISBERRY, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Four persons died today in a shooting fray that followed a court decision over the disputed sale of a farm.

Police identified the dead as: Harry G. Snavely, 47; his wife, Helen R., 46; Mearl Snavely, 51, Harry's brother, and John L. Eichelberger, 52, who sold the farm to Harry Snavely last July.

State Police Sgt. W. K. Duhrkoff said the three Snavelys were shot with a shotgun. Eichelberger died in a Harrisburg, Pa., hospital of a chest wound several hours after the other victims had been wounded fatally at the farmhouse that figured in the court case.

Duhrkoff said Eichelberger, an iron worker, shot the three Snavelys, walked 400 yards down a country lane to his own house and shot himself.

Defense Insists Lawyer 'Tricked' By RFC Prober

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Defense counsel contended today Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney, was "badgered" and "tricked" when he testified before senators investigating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1951.

Rosenbaum, 42, went on trial in U. S. District Court on charges of lying under oath six times during two appearances before the Senate banking subcommittee looking into alleged influence and favoritism in the government lending agency.

Rosenbaum's attorney, William E. Leahy, told a jury and Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut that Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who headed the Senate subcommittee, "was not seeking information—was not doing anything toward an investigation of the RFC" when he questioned Rosenbaum.

"He was tricking Rosenbaum into a position where he could prefer charges of perjury," Leahy said. "He (Rosenbaum) was badgered by the senators who ought to be ashamed."

Rosenbaum is the fourth and last defendant brought to trial on perjury charges growing out of the Senate investigation which turned up fur coats, home freezers and alleged influence and favoritism in RFC operations.

Rosenbaum is the man who supplied the money for the $9,450 pastel mink coat of Mrs. E. Merl Young, a former White House stenographer and wife of a former RFC official. Her husband, and his brother, Herschel Young, were convicted of perjury and sentenced to four months to two years in jail. They are free on bond pending the outcome of their appeals. Robert W. Dudley, another Washington attorney, was acquitted.

Virginia Judge's Technique Thwarts Jury Duty Ducking

FAIRFAX, Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—The job has no future, the pay is poor, and the responsibilities, at times, can be tremendous.

So it's no wonder that trying to duck jury service has become a great American custom.

Naturally, most judges attempt to combat this tendency, and at least one, Paul E. Brown, circuit court judge of Fairfax County, Va., appears to have succeeded.

I am quite an authority on the Brown technique. For I, too, came to duck—but stayed on to become a member in good standing of the fall jury panel.

Drop in with me today and you'll see why.

Fairfax county is across the Potomac from Washington, so it wasn't surprising to learn the fellow next to me had a government job. He said his job was very important, and that he was too busy to waste time fiddling around on a jury.

Well, the judge came in and made a little speech. About how important juries are in our scheme of things. About how he needed responsible citizens like us.

After his lecture, he said if anyone still wanted to see him, he would be in his chambers. Around 10 potential second class citizens followed him in.

Brown read the letters they carried with them, heard their pleas, and then politely said no. Finally the man with the important job stepped up.

Brown read his letter, smiled and said:

"I have good news for you. You appear to be the responsible type we need on a jury. The second part of my good news is this: The United States government won't collapse in your absence."

Under the conditions, it seemed silly for me to contend that writing little items for the papers is important. So I settled for an arrangement whereby I'm on call for jury duty two days each week.

Plans To Quiz Ex-President In Probe Fold

Brownell Accepts Invitation To Testify In White "Spy" Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Harry S. Truman spurned a subpoena from the House Un-American Activities Committee today and maneuvers to force the former President to testify on the Harry Dexter White "Soviet spy" case collapsed.

In polite yet strong terms, Truman told the committee by letter that for him to obey the subpoena would shatter the constitutional doctrine of presidential independence of Congress and make the chief executive "a mere arm of the legislative branch of the government."

Chairman Velde (R-Ill) said the committee has no intention of trying to compel the ex-President to appear, though he said the ex-President has "a sacred duty to cooperate in all respects where the public safety and public welfare are concerned."

Brownell Ready To Testify

The committee voted at a two-hour session late today to invite Atty. Gen. Brownell to testify on the White case. Velde said he was trying to reach Brownell by telephone and the committee would be glad to hear him tomorrow.

After the call went through, Velde said Brownell had accepted the invitation, but for some future date still to be determined.

It was Brownell who set the whole controversy over White boiling with charges last Friday that Truman promoted him from assistant Treasury secretary to U.S. representative on the International Monetary Fund in 1946—regardless of FBI reports that White was spying for Russia.

Democrats on the House committee had been demanding that Brownell be the first witness at any hearing, to put his charges on the record before calling any persons he might accuse.

Clark Under Subpoena

Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, Truman's attorney general in 1946 is under subpoena for 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. The committee Republicans insisted, and carried their point, on going through with the meeting scheduled for that hour.

Clark has given no open hint as to whether he would show up. But a committee Democrat who didn't want to be identified said he had been in touch with the justice and learned that Clark will not appear and probably will send a "polite letter."

And Rep. Walter (D-Pa) told newsmen he expects committee members merely to get together and "say good morning and goodbye." Walter said he didn't think Clark would or should appear.

Across the capitol, the Senate internal security subcomittee bored in on the White case from a different angle today.

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Truman's former military aide, testified he couldn't remember receiving any FBI reports on White. But if any were sent to him for the President, he said, he was sure Truman got them.

Appearing, he said, with Truman's specific permission, Vaughan testified he "would not question it for a moment" if Brownell said FBI reports pertaining

Strong Red Cell In GE Indicated

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said testimony before his Senate investigations subcommittee today leads him to believe there is a "concentration of Communists" in the General Electric's huge Schenectady plant.

The senator said a witness, whom he declined to name, had told him "there are no secrets from the Communists at GE." That included McCarthy said, the super-secret Knolls atomic power laboratory operated by the company for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The company produces various secret materials under government contract.

McCarthy told newsmen that 11 witnesses testified during the first day's session of a closed hearing into what he has called "alleged Communist infiltration and alleged espionage" at GE's Schenectady works.

Of these 11—eight men, three women—he said four refused to say whether they were members of the Communist party. He said one also refused to say whether he had been engaged in espionage.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower left Washington late today on a two-day trip to Canada with a dual purpose—to promote continental defense and to stimulate international trade.

It will be a two-day state visit, highlighted by an address to the Canadian Parliament in Ottawa Saturday. Eisenhower said his speech will be a general discussion of some of the problems that are common to both countries.

Joint Committee Formed

Shortly before boarding his special train for the Canadian capital, Eisenhower announced the formation of a joint committee to deal with "broad questions affecting the harmonious economic relations of the two countries."

"Both governments have recognized," a White House statement said, "that the free world is vitally interested in promoting a healthy flow of international trade." The statement added:

"The activities of the joint committee will constitute one aspect of the efforts of both countries in promoting satisfactory trade relations on a multilateral basis throughout the free world."

Group Of Cabinet Rank

The group, which is of Cabinet rank, will be known formally as the United States-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs. It will meet at least once a year, alternately in Washington and Ottawa.

"After receiving reports of the joint committee's work," the announcement said, "each government will have an opportunity to consider measures to improve economic relations and to encourage the flow of trade."

Magsaysay Gets News Of Victory While On Yacht

MANILA, Friday, Nov 13 (AP)—Ramon Magsaysay, son of a blacksmith and guerrilla fighter against the Japanese, heard the climax of his crushing defeat of President Quirino on a U. S. yacht in the shadow of Corregidor island yesterday.

Late but incomplete returns gave Magsaysay 2,269,131 votes and Quirino 1,002,566.

Magsaysay was cruising Thursday in Manila Bay with members of his family aboard the yacht of Adm. Richard H. Cruzen, U. S. Navy commander in the Philippines, when a press boat approached.

Corregidor island, where the remnants of U. S. forces surrendered to the Japanese in World War II, loomed starkly nearby and the long, dark form of Bataan swelled in the background.

"President Quirino has conceded," newsmen yelled across the narrowing span of water. They shouted Quirino's words.

Magsaysay merely nodded. Then he asked for the written statement. The paper fell in the water. A sailor retrieved with a pole and fished it into the hands of the President-elect.

"Fictitious" Prosperity Ending, McKay Says

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP) — Secretary of the Interior McKay said today that America is coming out of its "fictitious" war prosperity but that those businesses which practice thrift and adjust to the situation will survive.

"Competition is coming back," he told a luncheon meeting of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

"I don't believe there will be a depression but there will be adjustments. We can't live on the profits of destruction."

Today's Chuckle

"Been fishing haven't you? Catch anything?"

"Yes, indeed, caught the 8:30 there and the 6:10 back. Got caught in a storm, caught cold; and boy, will I catch it when I get home."

Vaughan And Caudle Testify

Harry H. Vaughan (left) and T. Lamar Caudle (right), almost hemmed in by microphones, testify before the Senate Internal Security sub-committee. Vaughan said he had no recollection of getting any FBI reports on Harry Dexter White when he was military aide at the White House. Caudle, a former assistant attorney general, told the sub-committee that he remembers a 1946 FBI memorandum indicated that White was a member of the Communist underground.

Iranian Troops Kill Two Rioters And Arrest 140

TEHRAN, Iran, Nov. 12 (AP) — The Royalist government's security forces killed two persons and arrested 140 here today to quell rioting by Communists and extreme Nationalists in behalf of Mohammed Mossadegh, the ex-Premier accused of treason.

Rain helped clear the streets.

Police, troops and tanks clamped the tightest grip on Tehran since Gen. Fazollah Zahedi overthrew Mossadegh in the name of the shah and assumed the premiership Aug. 19.

Soldiers' rifles and police clubs were brought into play to check roving gangs of thousands of youths, some obeying Communist-Nationalist orders for a general strike, who roamed the main thoroughfares shouting "Long Live Mossadegh."

Bullets Break Up Melee

Brig. Teimour Bakhtiar, commander of an armored unit, said two were shot dead when troops fired to break up a melee at the intersection of two streets bearing names of the royal family, Shah Reza and Pahlevi. Squares and bazaars were heavily garrisoned.

The strike, called in sympathy for Mossadegh shortly before an army court martial started a hearing on his case last Sunday, appeared to have collapsed.

Public services, government offices and most shops did business as usual although hundreds of merchants—most of them anti-Communist but pro-Mossadegh—kept their shutters down.

Schools Operate Normally

Schools operated normally. The University of Tehran settled to work after a jittery start in which isolated students shouted pro-Mossadegh slogans and then ducked out of sight.

The demonstrations were on a pattern often evident during Mossadegh's 28 months in the premiership. The use of street crowds for political purposes is an old Iranian custom. Mossadegh, a Nationalist, wooed the Russians and the native Communists for support in the period before the August showdown.

Fastest Jet Passes Navy Carrier Tests

EL SEGUNDO, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP) —Douglas Airnraft Co. disclosed today that the F4D Skyray it built for the Navy and which holds the unofficial world speed records for jets, has successfully passed take-off and landing tests on a carrier.

The aircraft, which recently flew 753.4 miles an hour for the record, made about 20 landings and take-offs from a carrier in the Atlantic off Norfolk, Va., Oct. 26-30.

On the takeoff the Skyray was catapulted by an explosive charge.

The Skyray was able to land successfully on the pitching deck of the carrier and arresting wires brought it to a full stop within 150 feet.

Inhalator Squad Revives Man, 94, For 100th Time

LANSING, Mich., Nov. 12 (AP)—Harry Cove, the steadiest customer of the Lansing Fire Department, was revived by the department inhalator squad for the 100th time today.

Cove, who will be 95, Nov. 27, has suffered repeated attacks of arteriosclerosis. Each time the fire department is called and he is revived with inhalator equipment which "breathes" for unconscious persons.

Cove, then, 88, suffered his first attack in 1947. So far in 1953, he has been revived 32 times.

Farmer Kills Three, Self

LEWISBERRY, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Four persons died today in a shooting fray that followed a court decision over the disputed sale of a farm.

Police identified the dead as: Harry G. Snavely, 47; his wife, Helen R., 46; Mearl Snavely, 51, Harry's brother, and John L. Eichelberger, 52, who sold the farm to Harry Snavely last July.

State Police Sgt. W. K. Duhrkoff said the three Snavelys were shot with a shotgun. Eichelberger died in a Harrisburg, Pa., hospital of a chest wound several hours after the other victims had been wounded fatally at the farmhouse that figured in the court case.

Duhrkoff said Eichelberger, an iron worker, shot the three Snavelys, walked 400 yards down a country lane to his own house and shot himself.

A York County court earlier today had ended a two-year dispute over the sale of the 68-acre farm by awarding Harry Snavely and his wife $316 for property damages allegedly inflicted by Eichelberger.

Virginia Judge's Technique Thwarts Jury Duty Ducking

FAIRFAX, Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—The job has no future, the pay is poor, and the responsibilities, at times, can be tremendous.

So it's no wonder that trying to duck jury service has become a great American custom.

Naturally, most judges attempt to combat this tendency, and at least one, Paul E. Brown, circuit court judge of Fairfax County, Va., appears to have succeeded.

I am quite an authority on the Brown technique. For I, too, came to duck—but stayed on to become a member in good standing of the fall jury panel.

Drop in with me today and you'll see why.

Fairfax county is across the Potomac from Washington, so it wasn't surprising to learn the fellow next to me had a government job. He said his job was very important, and that he was too busy to waste time fiddling around on a jury.

Well, the judge came in and made a little speech. About how important juries are in our scheme of things. About how he needed responsible citizens like us.

After his lecture, he said if anyone still wanted to see him, he would be in his chambers. Around 10 potential second class citizens followed him in.

Brown read the letters they carried with them, heard their pleas, and then politely said no. Finally the man with the important job stepped up.

Brown read his letter, smiled and said:

"I have good news for you. You appear to be the responsible type we need on a jury. The second part of my good news is this: The United States government won't collapse in your absence."

Under the conditions, it seemed silly for me to contend that writing little items for the papers is important. So I settled for an arrangement whereby I'm on call for jury duty two days each week.

Defense Insists Lawyer 'Tricked' By RFC Prober

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Defense counsel contended today Joseph H. Rosenbaum, Washington attorney, was "badgered" and "tricked" when he testified before senators investigating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in 1951.

Rosenbaum, 42, went on trial in U. S. District Court on charges of lying under oath six times during two appearances before the Senate banking subcommittee looking into alleged influence and favoritism in the government lending agency.

Rosenbaum's attorney, William E. Leahy, told a jury and Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut that Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who headed the Senate subcommittee, "was not seeking information—was not doing anything toward an investigation of the RFC" when he questioned Rosenbaum.

"He was tricking Rosenbaum into a position where he could prefer charges of perjury," Leahy said. "He (Rosenbaum) was badgered by the senators who ought to be ashamed."

Rosenbaum is the fourth and last defendant brought to trial on perjury charges growing out of the Senate investigation which turned up fur coats, home freezers and alleged influence and favoritism in RFC operations.

Rosenbaum is the man who supplied the money for the $9,450 pastel mink coat of Mrs. E. Merl Young, a former White House stenographer and wife of a former RFC official. Her husband, and his brother, Herschel Young, were convicted of perjury and sentenced to four months to two years in jail. They are free on bond pending the outcome of their appeals. Robert W. Dudley, another Washington attorney, was acquitted.

Plans To Quiz Ex-President In Probe Fold

Brownell Accepts Invitation To Testify In White "Spy" Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Harry S. Truman spurned a subpoena from the House Un-American Activities Committee today and maneuvers to force the former President to testify on the Harry Dexter White "Soviet spy" case collapsed.

In polite yet strong terms, Truman told the committee by letter that for him to obey the subpoena would shatter the constitutional doctrine of presidential independence of Congress and make the chief executive "a mere arm of the legislative branch of the government."

Chairman Velde (R-Ill) said the committee has no intention of trying to compel the ex-President to appear, though he said the ex-President has "a sacred duty to cooperate in all respects where the public safety and public welfare are concerned."

Brownell Ready To Testify

The committee voted at a two-hour session late today to invite Atty. Gen. Brownell to testify on the White case. Velde said he was trying to reach Brownell by telephone and the committee would be glad to hear him tomorrow.

After the call went through, Velde said Brownell had accepted the invitation, but for some future date still to be determined.

It was Brownell who set the whole controversy over White boiling with charges last Friday that Truman promoted him from assistant Treasury secretary to U.S. representative on the International Monetary Fund in 1946—regardless of FBI reports that White was spying for Russia.

Democrats on the House committee had been demanding that Brownell be the first witness at any hearing, to put his charges on the record before calling any persons he might accuse.

Clark Under Subpoena

Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, Truman's attorney general in 1946 is under subpoena for 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. The committee Republicans insisted, and carried their point, on going through with the meeting scheduled for that hour.

Clark has given no open hint as to whether he would show up. But a committee Democrat who didn't want to be identified said he had been in touch with the justice and learned that Clark will not appear and probably will send a "polite letter."

And Rep. Walter (D-Pa) told newsmen he expects committee members merely to get together and "say good morning and goodbye." Walter said he didn't think Clark would or should appear.

Across the capitol, the Senate internal security subcomittee bored in on the White case from a different angle today.

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, Truman's former military aide, testified he couldn't remember receiving any FBI reports on White. But if any were sent to him for the President, he said, he was sure Truman got them.

Appearing, he said, with Truman's specific permission, Vaughan testified he "would not question it for a moment" if Brownell said FBI reports pertaining

Strong Red Cell In GE Indicated

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said testimony before his Senate investigations subcommittee today leads him to believe there is a "concentration of Communists" in the General Electric's huge Schenectady plant.

The senator said a witness, whom he declined to name, had told him "there are no secrets from the Communists at GE." That included McCarthy said, the super-secret Knolls atomic power laboratory operated by the company for the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

The company produces various secret materials under government contract.

McCarthy told newsmen that 11 witnesses testified during the first day's session of a closed hearing into what he has called "alleged Communist infiltration and alleged espionage" at GE's Schenectady works.

Of these 11—eight men, three women—he said four refused to say whether they were members of the Communist party. He said one also refused to say whether he had been engaged in espionage.

Butler Says "Shocking Situation" Exposed By Reds-In-Unions Probe

11 Labor Officials Clam Up At Inquiry

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md) said today a three-day Pittsburgh hearing by a Senate subcommittee "exposed a shocking situation" with all but one of 12 union witnesses refusing to say if they are members of the Communist party.

Butler headed a task force of the Senate subcommittee on internal security probing Communist infiltration of unions in western Pennsylvania.

Eleven union officials invoked their constitutional rights and declined to answer questions whether they are or ever have been members of the Communist party.

Ten witnesses either were union local or international officials in the big United Electrical Workers (independent). Their refusal to answer any committee questions about the Communist party or its activities brought from Butler the statement:

"It is indeed a shocking situation when so many men in one organization hide behind the fifth amendment of the Constitution and decline to say if they are members of the Communist party."

The Pittsburgh hearing is the first of a series in various cities across the nation.

The committee is seeking to determine the "exact extent and the power of Communist elements" in the American labor movement.

Sen. Butler said the Pittsburgh session "has been fruitful" but he declined to elaborate.

Only one of the 12 union witnesses would say flatly that he is not a member of the Communist party. He is Campbell Beveridge, 51, of Pittsburgh, a shop steward in the UE.

Beveridge is also the only union man appearing as a witness who was not identified by several former FBI undercover agents as a member of the Communist party.

Willard Bliss, editor of a UE publication for union workers at the General Electric plant in Erie, Pa., told examiners:

"I would defend this country (the United States) against anybody (who would attack it)."

Bliss, speaking in a loud, firm voice, also denied that his union paper is controlled by the Communist party.

MECHANICAL EAVESDROPPERS — Newsreel and television camera microphones make it difficult for former President Truman and Samuel Rosenman to exchange a confidential aside at the Truman press conference in New York yesterday. Rosenman, for many years a White House adviser during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, was a member of the ex-president's party at the conference, during which Truman made public his letter to the House Un-American Activities Committee turning down the committee's subpoena.

to White were sent to him for relay to Truman.

That's exactly what Brownell has said happened—both in December 1945, and February, 1946, before White's nomination for the monetary fund post was approved by the Senate.

At the close of the brief hearing, in the presence of hundreds of spectators and busy television and newsreel cameras, subcommittee Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) said he has "no doubt" information derogatory to White reached Truman's hands.

The Senate inquiry exploded into the open with a secondary figure on the witness stand—T. Lamar Caudle, a North Carolina lawyer who was assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division in 1946.

Caudle told the senators he saw a 1946 FBI memorandum on White. He couldn't recall details, but said the report indicated White was a member of the Communist underground.

"It is apparent to me—there is no question about it—that derogatory information on White was communicated to him (Truman)."

Jenner said he has no immediate plans for any further inquiry as far as the White case is concerned. However, he said the subcommittee will continue its investigation of eight other government officials who, Jenner said, were promoted during the Truman administration after the FBI submitted derogatory reports about them.

As for the White case, Jenner said the subcommittee is waiting to find out what was in the second FBI report on White.

Cuss Words Bring Ban On War Movie

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP) — A Korean War film, scheduled to open on Broadway, Nov. 24, has been banned because the words "hell" and "damn" are heard in it, Paramount Pictures Corp. reported today.

A Paramount spokesman said the movie "Cease Fire" was banned by the Breen office, the agency set up by the film industry as final authority on all films.

Production code provides that "pointed profanity and every other profane or vulgar expression however used, are forbidden."

Reds Hold Firm Against Speedup In Talks To POWs

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Communists held firm today against an Indian plan for speeding up interviews with Red prisoners of the Korean War and the explanation centers remained empty for the eighth straight day.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, told the Reds Monday to speed up their interviews. Otherwise, he said, India would have to take over the job of screening Communist POWs.

The commission meets again today.

Thimayya planned to visit the Red center at Kaesong to get the Communist answer sometime this week, but has not done so yet.

However, the Reds have insisted for the eighth straight day on interviewing 356 Chinese in one compound who they didn't get to in the first round. The Chinese, angered by annoyingly long interviews and the Red slowdown in the face of an overwhelming propaganda defeat, refuse to go back.

The Swiss say they will leave the commission if force is used.

The Reds appeared to be caught in a trap. Either they can go ahead with the boomeranging explanations on the Indian plan or take the blame for wrecking them.

Meanwhile, diplomatic staff advisers continued their efforts to draw up an agenda for planning a Korean peace conference. The Reds insist that Asiatic neutrals must be invited.

More Praise Than Criticism For Velde Subpoena Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Praise and some criticism came to Rep. Velde (R-Ill) today for subpoenaing former President Truman to testify to the House Un-American Activities Committee.

A quick leafing through a pile of about 100 telegrams and letters indicated they were about 6 to 1 in favor of Velde's action.

The messages arrived before Truman rejected Velde's demand.

Many of his correspondents urged Velde to go ahead with questioning Truman despite President Eisenhower's comment that he wouldn't have subpoenaed the former President.

"Let the President mind his own business. Proceed with the investigation," wired Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson of Chicago.

Another Chicago couple, Gladys and Victory La Bedz, said they disagreed with what they termed Eisenhower's "interference in your exposure of communism in government."

But Samuel Unger telegraphed from Springfield, Mass.: "As a Republican I deplore your shockingly bad taste in subpoenaing a former President."

And Patrick Murray of Lynn, Mass., told Velde: "God bless your American guts."

Among his committee colleagues, Rep. Scherer (R-Ohio) said he thought Truman was dodging Velde's summons by pleading, in effect, the constitutional protection against self-incrimination.

Rep. Clardy (R-Mich) commented that Truman's "absolute refusal" points up "the soundness of the committee's opinion."

Two Democratic members of the committee took an anti-subpoena view. Rep. Frazier of Tennessee said it should never have been issued, and Rep. Walter of Pennsylvania said a bad precedent was involved. Walter predicted that Velde "will welcome an opportunity to forget all about this."

Prior to June, 1950, when the war began, Korea ranked 12th among countries of the world in population, with some 30 million inhabitants.

Lawyers Named To Defend Wable

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP) —The Westmoreland County Court appointed three attorneys today to defend John Wesley Wable, charged with murder in the phantom shootings of two truck drivers as they slept in their parked rigs along the Pennsylvania turnpike.

President Judge Richard D. Laird named Atty. A. C. Scales of Trafford as chief defense counsel. He will be assisted by Attys. B. Patrick Costello and Richard McCormick, both of Greensburg.

Wable, 24, of Ohiopyle, near Uniontown, asked the court to appoint counsel because he couldn't afford to hire an attorney.

Meanwhile, Dist. Atty. L. Alexander Sculco said he will ask the grand jury tomorrow to indict Wable for the slayings last July.

He is accused of killing Harry F. Pitts, of Bowling Green, Va., near the Donegal Interchange of the Turnpike and Lester B. Woodward, of Duncannon, Pa., near the Irwin Interchange.

Wable, 24, of Ohiopyle, near Uniontown, asked the court to appoint counsel because he couldn't afford to hire an attorney.

Meanwhile, Dist. Atty. L. Alexander Sculco said he will ask the grand jury tomorrow to indict Wable for the slayings last July.

He is accused of killing Harry F. Pitts, of Bowling Green, Va., near the Donegal Interchange of the Turnpike and Lester B. Woodward, of Duncannon, Pa., near the Irwin Interchange.

Higher Benefits For Aged?

President Eisenhower's proposal to provide federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance of 10½ million more workers will come in for careful scrutiny in the current House Ways and Means subcommittee's hearings. Also high on the agenda are proposals to liberalize the "retirement test."

This latter is the requirement that to be eligible those 65 years of age or over but under 75 may not have earnings as distinguished from investment or other income — of more than $75 a month. No retirement test applies for those who have reached 75.

President Eisenhower on August 1 sent a special message to Congress asking that in 1954 it extend coverage to about 10½ million persons not now on the rolls. He recommended mandatory coverage for some 6½ million — self-employed farmers, domestic servants not now covered, professional persons. Optional coverage would be provided for an estimated four million others, including clergymen and employes of state and local governments.

The message was sent in the waning hours of the 1953 session to permit extensive study by Congress before the end of the 1954 session. Originally Social Security extension had been on the President's "must" list for 1953. In his State of the Union message the President had recommended: "The provisions of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Law should promptly be extended to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the Social Security system."

The Social Security Act of 1935 had as its ultimate goal the provision of retirement income, as a matter of right, for all of the nation's aged. More than 47 million workers were paying Social Security taxes as of Oct. 1, 1953, according to the Social Security Administration, with almost 64¾ million workers and dependents fully insured under the OASI program. More than 5¾ million are now receiving benefits.

Various proposals are brought forward for liberalizing the retirement test. A bill introduced at the last session by Rep. Kean (R., N. J.), a member of the Ways and Means Committee and a congressional authority on Social Security, would have increased from $75 to $100 a month the amount a beneficiary under 75 can earn.

Rep. Lane (D., Mass.) introduced a bill that would have provided "a direct federal pension of at least $100 per month to all American citizens who have been citizens for 10 years or over" The Lane proposal is in line with recommendations of Townsend Plan supporters.

The American Assembly, a conference sponsored by the Columbia University Graduate School of Business, on November 8 recommended adjustment of the retirement test "so as to reduce any possible deterrent effect on those seeking employment after retirement age." One suggestion was a "sliding-scale" test by which a worker's benefits would be reduced by only a fraction of the amount by which his earnings exceeded a specified maximum.

OASI benefits range from $25 a month to the maximum of $85 for a single person; from $45 to $168.75 for a family. "Average" current payments: single, $50.81; couple, $77.71, widow or widower, $40.81; child, $15.55.

Vice President's Role

Until recent years the office of vice president of the United States was one of dignity, titular honor and little else. Its incumbent is the presiding officer of the Senate with a deciding vote only in the event of a tie.

Many who have occupied the office have been men of distinction, deemed worthy to succeed if a president should die or be incapacitated, but have passed from the scene little noted.

Charles G. Dawes, vice president in Coolidge's full term, was an able Chicago banker. The only opportunity to cast a deciding Senate vote found him asleep at his hotel. John Nance Garner, in FDR's first two administrations (he was cast aside in 1940 for Wallace) essayed successfully the role of reconciling disaffected senators with the White House, and so did Alben W. Barkley under Truman.

This Vice President Nixon has done in the 10 months of the Eisenhower administration, and he has taken assignments beyond his constitutional duties. As the President's emissary of good will, he has created a favorable impression by explaining this country's hopes and aims in New Zealand, Australia, Malaya and Southeast Asia.

There is accumulative evidence that Vice President Nixon has been given a grooming in the duties and responsibilities of the presidential office. That certainly is worthwhile. In any dire emergency a vice president should be fitted to take over the world's most important office without too great a hiatus.

Military Fiscal Probe

Fouled up state of Pentagon accounting and business administration methods was brought to light during the congressional investigation of the ammunition shortages last spring. Corrective measures were suggested at the time, but it would be the height of optimism to suppose that affairs have changed a great deal since.

Hearings have now been started by a Senate Preparedness Investigation subcommittee to see to what extent the fiscal policies of the armed forces conform to a special section inserted in the National Defense Act of 1949. This directed the services to standardize their accounting and budgetary systems. According to Senator Flanders, who heads the investigating committee, he and his colleagues will try to discover whether the failure to follow the provisions of the 1949 law are due to faults in the law itself or in its application.

The average civilian has little comprehension of the layerings of authority, of the bureaus, the committees and the interlocks and overlaps which exist in the military departments. The fact, which came to light during the investigation of ammunition shortages(that the physical process of ordering ammunition already in production took months was a surprise to all but the military. Ordnance officers testifying couldn't understand the consternation the senators felt.

Salt-Free Diet In Hypertension

Saltless diets have been used in the treatment of high blood pressure for more than 30 years. They are not popular, however, because when all the foods containing salt are eliminated there is little left to eat and what remains is monotonous and tiresome. To overcome the difficulty many plans have been devised for removing salt from ordinary foods. The latest suggestion is to dissolve the salt by soaking the meats and vegetables in water for eight hours. If the method works, those with high blood pressure may finally be able to eat their cake and have it too.

Ordinary table salt is made up of two parts, sodium and chloride. It is the sodium that does the damage and minute amounts exist in almost everything we eat or drink. Diets low in sodium contain small quantities and the strictest is the rice diet. It is ideal so far as salt is concerned but many of those who follow it object to the monotony of eating rice, fruit, and sugar day after day.

Dissolving the sodium with water was recommended by Doctors George G. Ornstein and Lawrence Lercher of New York City. They found that those who prepared food in this way excreted less sodium according to the Bryant urine test. A variety of foods can be placed in water which is changed approximately three times in eight hours. It is important that the foods be fresh. Smoked and salted items are forbidden. The only fresh vegetables that need to undergo this process are celery, carrots, spinach, beets, and lettuce. The rest of the vegetables and fruits are so poor in this element that they can be consumed in their natural state.

Raw meats and fish also are permissible when prepared in this manner and, according to the New York physicians, there is little loss in taste. This means that the hypertensive who is on a low salt diet may eat steak, chops, hamburger, shrimp, scallops, oysters, and lobster tails. Eggs, too, can be added to the menu provided they are hard boiled and shelled before soaking. Vitamin supplements are in order because with this process there is loss of water soluble vitamins, mainly thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, and ascorbic acid. This is not true, however, of the oil soluble vitamins A and D.

Low salt diets are not recommended for the treatment of ordinary high blood pressure. Salt restriction is indicated only when the tension is producing symptoms or has affected the kidneys and heart. At this stage, withholding sodium leads to striking improvement in symptoms. However, the salt-free diet is not a preventive nor will it affect the progress and complications of high blood pressure. It is useful only when the body is having trouble eliminating sodium and the excess amount is aggravating the blood pressure. Those who are on such a regimen over a long period must be careful not to eliminate all the sodium from the system. When this occurs cramps, weakness, nausea, vomiting and stupor develop, indicating that salt is needed.

EGOMANIA

Mrs. J. writes: My husband of 37 has always had an inflated ego but he has become so puffed up I wonder if his mind is slipping. Not only does he boast of his power over women but he claims he could become a big wheel in business if he wished. Do you think his mind is slipping?

REPLY

It's either his mind or that final thrust to gain recognition. You might remind him that it's the doers and not the talkers that make the grade.

TETANUS "SHOTS"

J. W. writes: Is it safe to have two injections against lockjaw within five years?

REPLY

Yes, and more if they are needed. By using the newer toxoid, a baby usually can receive three injections in the first year and a booster dose one year later. Thereafter, booster injections are given at two or three year intervals. In the army, troops going into combat were sometimes given a booster "shot" if they had not received one within six months.

BIKES AND CRAMPS

W. C. writes: Could riding a bike steadily for four hours every evening cause leg cramps in a boy of 16?

REPLY

I assume you refer to cramping that occurs at night after going to bed. If so, the exercise mentioned may be responsible because leg cramps occur when the muscles are injured or overstretched.

PUFFINESS AFTER "SHOT"

Mrs. Y. writes: Is it natural for a child's arm to swell after a booster tetanus "shot"?

REPLY

Not natural, but this reaction does occur occasionally.

THYROID GROWTH

C. F. writes: Does a thyroid adenoma need to be removed by operation?

REPLY

A single tumor of the thyroid is better out than in because of the danger of cancer.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Harry Dexter White Always Intensely Pro-Russian; Truman Felt White's Appointment To Monetary Fund Had Slipped By Him

TUCSON, Ariz. — Harry Dexter White, the alleged Communist spy, whom Attorney General Brownell has just exhumed from his five-year-old grave, was a Treasury official whom I knew slightly in Washington during World War II. A wizard in monetary matters, he was always intensely pro-Russian, but at first I attributed this to the fact that he had been born in Boston of Russian parents and that we were allied with Russia during the war.

At the San Francisco United Nations Conference in April 1945, however, I first began to be suspicious of Harry White. By that time the United States was having diplomatic troubles with Russia, and Stalin had sent a brusque, almost brutal note to Roosevelt one day before he died.

General Eisenhower at that time had pulled American troops back from the outskirts of Potsdam to the River Elbe, in deference to Russian protests, and I recall that, when I broke this story, Harry White, whom I saw in San Francisco in April of 1945, protested against it.

Harry Truman, incidentally, who had taken office only a few days before, was much tougher on the Russians than General Eisenhower appeared to be in Germany; and "Chip" Bohlen reported that when Molotov flew to Washington en route to San Francisco, Truman gave Molotov the dressing down of his life. Bohlen, who acted as interpreter, said he had never heard one top official scold another in such a manner.

Shortly after that I picked up the first trail of the Russian spy ring in Canada—a story which took several months to nail down. Harry White's name entered the picture. It was difficult to prove that White was involved—at least to the point of being safe from libel. But it certainly looked as if White was one of the men the Russians came to for secret information in Washington.

Information Similar

The evidence was such that I took it to my old friend, Fred Vinson, who had just been made secretary of the treasury. To the best of my recollection this was in midsummer of 1945 and before the FBI submitted its report on White to the White House and various members of the Cabinet.

I told Vinson that while I could not be certain about White, it looked to me as if he was not only intensely pro-Russian but had been linked up with the Russian spy ring in Canada. Vinson thanked me for the information, made no comment, but later I noticed that White left the Treasury. Later he turned up with the International Monetary Fund.

I never asked Fred Vinson what happened. He was appointed chief justice of the Supreme Court some time later and removed from the realm of political comment. But I did ask J. Edgar Hoover. I had learned that subsequently certain Justice Department officials considered putting White's case before a grand jury and that Hoover had been opposed.

When I asked Hoover about this he gave the perfectly plausible explanation that he had White under observation, wanted to keep him that way in order to track down any other Americans and Russians he might be doing business with. If White was prosecuted immediately, the other members of the spy ring would be alerted and it would be impossible to catch them.

About a year and a half later, White's name was placed before a federal ground jury which failed to indict him. Vincent Quinn, assistant attorney general in charge of Criminal Division, has stated that the evidence was not conclusive enough to bring an indictment.

My own information was similar. It was obtained largely from British sources, not from the story given by Elizabeth Bentley. Indirectly it came from Igor Gouzenko, the code clerk in the Russian Legation in Ottawa, who eventually spilled the beans to the Royal Mounted Police. Gouzenko indicated that there was a man in U. S. Treasury the Russians contacted for information, he was not quite clear as to who he was, though the signs pointed to White.

Appointment Upset Truman

Neither Harry Truman nor General Vaughan was among those who confided in me in great detail at that time. In fact, Mr. Truman hurled some strong words in my direction shortly thereafter because I was critical of Vaughan. Therefore I cannot speak firsthand regarding their views on White.

I did hear, however, that Mr. Truman was upset over White's appointment to the Monetary Fund and felt that it was slipped by him (in February 1946) without his knowing too much about it.

I recall most vividly, however, that the temper of the time was nowhere as anti-Russian or as suspicious as it is today. On Feb. 3, 1946, for instance, I broke the first story of the Canadian-Russian spy ring, at which time I was deluged with protests from people who said I was unfair to the Soviet.

I am quite sure that most of these letters came not from Communists, but from well-meaning people who sincerely hoped that we might get along with Russia, and felt that I was upsetting Russo-American relations. That was still the temper of the time and the letters of protest continued to pour in until Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada issued an official announcement two weeks later confirming the existence of the spy ring.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—The White House vs. the House Un-American Activities Committee (Part I)—

We've been mulling for centuries over what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object, and part of the answer may be supplied when and if Harry Truman collides with the House Un-American Activities Committee.

It will be the first physical brush between perhaps the most explosive political figure of the decade and a body which has managed to survive in the face of bitter opposition in the highest places. But there have been many long-range punches traded between these two.

"A red herring of the strongest type of smell," Truman said of the committee, after the 1948 testimony it had taken from Elizabeth Bentley, Whittaker Chambers, Alger Hiss, Alexander Koral (accused Communist courier), Victor Perlo, Gilda De Frank Burke, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, Duncan C. Lee, Maj. William Ludwig Ullman ("I refuse to answer on the ground, etc., etc."), Robert T. Miller, Henry H. Collins, Charles Kramer, George Silverman, Laughlin Currie (former aide to FDR) and Harry Dexter White.

The President repeated the "red herring" charge after the unearthing of the "pumpkin papers" and Hiss's indictment.

Then there was the Truman vs. Committee scrape involving Dr. Edward U. Condon, once director of the National Bureau of Standards on the strength of a recommendation by Henry Wallace. The advice of Drs. Vannevar Bush and Lyman Briggs, usually sought, was by-passed in Condon's elevation to the important post.

Condon had served briefly in the Manhattan Engineering District, the name by which the vast work of creating the A-bomb was known. Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (who later went to prison on a kickback charge) received a letter questioning Condon's record. The letter was from a former security officer attached to MED. Thomas turned the matter over to Robert E. Stripling, the committee's chief investigator. Stripling's office was able to secure a paraphrase of a letter which J. Edgar Hoover sent to Department of Commerce about Condon, naming some of Dr. and Mrs. Condon's friends—including Silvermaster, an associate of Harry Dexter White and named by naval intelligence and by Elizabeth Bentley as a Communist spy.

The committee made an effort to get the letter from Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, Condon's boss. Mr. Truman ordered the letter brought to the White House. A special congressional committee voted 10-to-1 urging him to release it. But to this day it has never been made public, though it has been charged in some circles that it cleared Condon, and that the committee's hastily-scrawled paraphrase of it maliciously deleted sentences that absolved Condon.

Condon was not permitted to leave the country when he sought to make a trip to Russia after the war. He was not cleared by the AEC to share in all atomic secrets even at the time he headed up many atomic scientists and technicians working at the Bureau of Standards. His office urged government scientists to join the American-Soviet Science Society, a subsidiary of the National Council for American Soviet Friendship, Inc., termed a subversive organization by the attorney general's office.

Chairman Thomas, a bear for publicity, insisted on issuing an interim report about Condon, based on the paraphrase. Other members of the committee begged him not to do so, but he handed down his decision from his Walter Reed Hospital (Wash., D. C.) wheelchair. The report called Condon the "weakest link" in our atomic security.

Condon immediately demanded a hearing. He never got one, a fact which Stripling deplored upon his resigning some time later. The Department of Commerce cleared Condon, but the committee doggedly charged that the department's loyal board had called only one witness during its ten months of hearing. And the White House never released the F.B.I. letter—a 3½-page document which may still be gathering dust there.

"Those fellas are always trying to get publicity," Mr. Truman complained cheerfully as he set off for the historic collision. The membership of the committee has, of course, changed thoroughly. But the pelt looks the same to H.S.T. and he aims to plug it before it can do anything about clawing him.

More anon.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Something seems to have happened to the old-fashioned deliberateness which men in public life used to apply to their conduct when explosive controversies of a delicate political nature suddenly confronted them.

Instead of calmly taking time to get all the facts and coming up in a few days with a cool and dispassionate appraisal, the tendency has been to go off half-cocked. This applies both to former President Truman's handling of the Harry Dexter White case and to President Eisenhower's unnecessary comments at his press conference on the way the House Un-American Activities Committee had decided to subpoena former President Truman. Also it applies to the impulsive action of the chairman of the House committee, who might better have waited to develop the case before summoning Mr. Truman.

When news first reached Mr. Truman, he said he had no recollection of the FBI memorandum mentioned by Attorney General Brownell in his speech last Friday and that anyway as soon as White's "disloyalty" was discovered, he was "fired."

HST Put Foot In Mouth

Now it turns out that James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state, discussed the White case and the FBI memorandum with Mr. Truman. Also the attorney general has given out a statement saying the Department of State found in its files confirmation of Mr. Byrnes' intervention the day before the Senate confirmed White to be U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund on February 6, 1946. Then on April 30, 1946, Mr. Truman wrote a laudatory letter to White as he was resigning his post as assistant secretary of the treasury. White's sister now makes public another such complimentary letter from Mr. Truman, written when White finally resigned as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund. It is dated April 8, 1947—14 months after the FBI memorandum of February 4, 1946.

Mr. Truman never liked to delve deeply into lengthy reports and depended on his staff to evaulate them. It is quite possible that the FBI memorandum wasn't taken seriously then, any more than it is given weight by lots of the pro-Truman and New Deal reporters here today who discount anything contributed by ex-Communists, especially if they have confessed their error. The fact that Elizabeth Bentley, for example, testified about the inside of the Soviet spy ring and turned up dozens of names and facts which the FBI investigators checked and found accurate doesn't seem to bother some of those who insist on disbelieving anybody who confesses to communistic activities.

Miss Bentley's testimony has stood up in the criminal trials where the FBI has used her statements. Juries have based their verdicts not merely on her say-so but on testimony of other witnesses who have corroborated what she has charged.

The whole tendency of some of the Truman administration officials of the New Deal type was to assume that an attack on a Communist was an attack on the New Deal or Fair Deal and hence that it was necessary for the Democratic administration to take a defensive attitude.

It would have been much better, even this week, if the Democratic leaders had expressed dismay that any espionage agent had slipped through their checks, and they might have stated frankly that the matter of who did pooh-pooh the report and how it came to be disregarded at the White House should be thoroughly studied as a lesson for the future. Instead, the cry of politics was raised, which is a political blunder in itself. For it's bad politics for the Democrats to let the public get the impression that they would defend Communists in government, whereas the Republicans are the only ones trying to ferret them out. It would have been so easy to keep the anti-Communist effort on a non-partisan basis. Instead, the Democratic strategy is playing into the hands of the Republicans and giving them an issue of prolonged effectiveness.

Actually there was a good deal of forbearance on Mr. Brownell's part. He first learned of the second FBI memorandum in mid-October and need not have waited till after the elections, if, indeed, he was interested in getting a political advantage.

Should Have Common Aim

As for President Eisenhower, he never should have stepped into the controversy at all at his press conference. He should have been briefed in advance to say only that his own attorney general was handling it. Members of Congress are not happy when the President tries to tell them whom they should or shouldn't subpoena, especially when the chairmanships are held by members of his own party. Some of the President's press conference comments implied that he was not supporting his own attorney general. It wasn't so intended, but that inference was drawn by the pro-Truman reporters who did most of the questioning. They seemed to be more concerned about technical procedures than about the fact that a Russian spy for a long time held a high post in our government.

It would have been the better part of wisdom for the President to let the controversy simmer along, with the Department of Justice and congressional committees developing the case in their own way. There would have been time enough for comment by the President when all the facts in the case had been brought out in public.

The controversy over Communists in government is a bitter one, and there are many people who feel that the political aspects of it are most unfortunate, as the sole object of both parties should be to root out the Communist agents still in government and to expose those who have escaped detection in the past, irrespective of politics.

Convertibility

LOS ANGELES — It used to be that a pound was stabilized at $4.86; a franc, 19 cents; a yen, 50 cents; a ruble, 50 cents and so on around the world. Money could be converted freely into any kind of currency, if you had the money and wanted the other kind. Trade therefore moved from one country to another, paying customs duties in such places as imposed it.

Then, during and after World War I, many moneys went bad and their value became uncertain. It is true that speculators played exchange, or arbitrage, as it was called, and some made fortunes, but trade generally suffers from bad money because when one places an order in a foreign country, he can never be sure what it will cost him in his own money and if he can get paid.

When a currency goes down, a government usually blocks it, by which is meant that it refuses to allow it to leave the country. The reason is that the more of it that goes out, the cheaper it gets on international markets. So the man who earns money in a foreign country is asked to spend it there. He is permitted to export a product but not cash. He can bring in American dollars, but he cannot take out any American dollars, but he cannot take out any American dollars or local currency.

Just before World War II, I knew of an American company that exported a steel product to Germany. It got paid in marks but could not take the marks out of Germany or convert those marks into American dollars. So, this company went into the business of exporting Hartz Mountain canaries to the United States. Those canaries were then sold to American department stores and pet shops and in that way the American company got paid for its product.

There is always a great excitement about cutting down tariffs in the United States to get trade moving, but that is only one of the impediments to a free market. A greater one is the inability freely to convert one currency into another.

During the next few years, we shall be hearing about convertibility because that is now being discussed, somewhat quietly, among nations. The politicians are afraid of it because it is a deflationary movement in an inflationary period as any tendency to stabilize money is.

Also, as the gold standard has generally been abandoned, no common denominator exists except the American dollar, which is based on nothing but confidence. In two countries, Switzerland and Canada, the American dollar has been depreciated. It would be very difficult to put all currencies on a gold standard, because most countries do not have the American dollars to buy gold.

So what is proposed is that an International Stabilization Fund be established upon which the currencies of those countries that would join the fund would be made convertible. I have heard it discussed that the United States put up somewhere between two and five billion dollars, other countries putting up smaller amounts as their ability would permit.

It is this Stabilization Fund that frightens our politicians because it will annoy our people. Although we have become accustomed to talking in billions and putting up billions for this and that, money is such a complicated subject and its workings are so little understood that it is generally expected that the people would resist the proposal.

Actually, anything that is done to make currencies convertible and stable is a move in the right direction. As long as the world is full of bad money, prices must be abnormally high and international trade out of balance. The United States has been making up other countries' deficits by exporting between five and seven billion dollars a year since the end of World War II in the form of ECA, European Military Aid and Point Four because of the economic dislocations arising from bad money. An International Stabilization Fund, making currencies convertible, might help to reduce our contributions to other countries.

Higher Benefits For Aged?

President Eisenhower's proposal to provide federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance of 10½ million more workers will come in for careful scrutiny in the current House Ways and Means subcommittee's hearings. Also high on the agenda are proposals to liberalize the "retirement test."

This latter is the requirement that to be eligible those 65 years of age or over but under 75 may not have earnings as distinguished from investment or other income — of more than $75 a month. No retirement test applies for those who have reached 75.

President Eisenhower on August 1 sent a special message to Congress asking that in 1954 it extend coverage to about 10½ million persons not now on the rolls. He recommended mandatory coverage for some 6½ million — self-employed farmers, domestic servants not now covered, professional persons. Optional coverage would be provided for an estimated four million others, including clergymen and employes of state and local governments.

The message was sent in the waning hours of the 1953 session to permit extensive study by Congress before the end of the 1954 session. Originally Social Security extension had been on the President's "must" list for 1953. In his State of the Union message the President had recommended: "The provisions of the Old Age and Survivors Insurance Law should promptly be extended to cover millions of citizens who have been left out of the Social Security system."

The Social Security Act of 1935 had as its ultimate goal the provision of retirement income, as a matter of right, for all of the nation's aged. More than 47 million workers were paying Social Security taxes as of Oct. 1, 1953, according to the Social Security Administration, with almost 64¾ million workers and dependents fully insured under the OASI program. More than 5¾ million are now receiving benefits.

Various proposals are brought forward for liberalizing the retirement test. A bill introduced at the last session by Rep. Kean (R., N. J.), a member of the Ways and Means Committee and a congressional authority on Social Security, would have increased from $75 to $100 a month the amount a beneficiary under 75 can earn.

Rep. Lane (D., Mass.) introduced a bill that would have provided "a direct federal pension of at least $100 per month to all American citizens who have been citizens for 10 years or over" The Lane proposal is in line with recommendations of Townsend Plan supporters.

The American Assembly, a conference sponsored by the Columbia University Graduate School of Business, on November 8 recommended adjustment of the retirement test "so as to reduce any possible deterrent effect on those seeking employment after retirement age." One suggestion was a "sliding-scale" test by which a worker's benefits would be reduced by only a fraction of the amount by which his earnings exceeded a specified maximum.

OASI benefits range from $25 a month to the maximum of $85 for a single person; from $45 to $168.75 for a family. "Average" current payments: single, $50.81; couple, $77.71, widow or widower, $40.81; child, $15.55.

Vice President's Role

Until recent years the office of vice president of the United States was one of dignity, titular honor and little else. Its incumbent is the presiding officer of the Senate with a deciding vote only in the event of a tie.

Many who have occupied the office have been men of distinction, deemed worthy to succeed if a president should die or be incapacitated, but have passed from the scene little noted.

Charles G. Dawes, vice president in Coolidge's full term, was an able Chicago banker. The only opportunity to cast a deciding Senate vote found him asleep at his hotel. John Nance Garner, in FDR's first two administrations (he was cast aside in 1940 for Wallace) essayed successfully the role of reconciling disaffected senators with the White House, and so did Alben W. Barkley under Truman.

This Vice President Nixon has done in the 10 months of the Eisenhower administration, and he has taken assignments beyond his constitutional duties. As the President's emissary of good will, he has created a favorable impression by explaining this country's hopes and aims in New Zealand, Australia, Malaya and Southeast Asia.

There is accumulative evidence that Vice President Nixon has been given a grooming in the duties and responsibilities of the presidential office. That certainly is worthwhile. In any dire emergency a vice president should be fitted to take over the world's most important office without too great a hiatus.

Military Fiscal Probe

Fouled up state of Pentagon accounting and business administration methods was brought to light during the congressional investigation of the ammunition shortages last spring. Corrective measures were suggested at the time, but it would be the height of optimism to suppose that affairs have changed a great deal since.

Hearings have now been started by a Senate Preparedness Investigation subcommittee to see to what extent the fiscal policies of the armed forces conform to a special section inserted in the National Defense Act of 1949. This directed the services to standardize their accounting and budgetary systems. According to Senator Flanders, who heads the investigating committee, he and his colleagues will try to discover whether the failure to follow the provisions of the 1949 law are due to faults in the law itself or in its application.

The average civilian has little comprehension of the layerings of authority, of the bureaus, the committees and the interlocks and overlaps which exist in the military departments. The fact, which came to light during the investigation of ammunition shortages(that the physical process of ordering ammunition already in production took months was a surprise to all but the military. Ordnance officers testifying couldn't understand the consternation the senators felt.

Salt-Free Diet In Hypertension

Saltless diets have been used in the treatment of high blood pressure for more than 30 years. They are not popular, however, because when all the foods containing salt are eliminated there is little left to eat and what remains is monotonous and tiresome. To overcome the difficulty many plans have been devised for removing salt from ordinary foods. The latest suggestion is to dissolve the salt by soaking the meats and vegetables in water for eight hours. If the method works, those with high blood pressure may finally be able to eat their cake and have it too.

Ordinary table salt is made up of two parts, sodium and chloride. It is the sodium that does the damage and minute amounts exist in almost everything we eat or drink. Diets low in sodium contain small quantities and the strictest is the rice diet. It is ideal so far as salt is concerned but many of those who follow it object to the monotony of eating rice, fruit, and sugar day after day.

Dissolving the sodium with water was recommended by Doctors George G. Ornstein and Lawrence Lercher of New York City. They found that those who prepared food in this way excreted less sodium according to the Bryant urine test. A variety of foods can be placed in water which is changed approximately three times in eight hours. It is important that the foods be fresh. Smoked and salted items are forbidden. The only fresh vegetables that need to undergo this process are celery, carrots, spinach, beets, and lettuce. The rest of the vegetables and fruits are so poor in this element that they can be consumed in their natural state.

Raw meats and fish also are permissible when prepared in this manner and, according to the New York physicians, there is little loss in taste. This means that the hypertensive who is on a low salt diet may eat steak, chops, hamburger, shrimp, scallops, oysters, and lobster tails. Eggs, too, can be added to the menu provided they are hard boiled and shelled before soaking. Vitamin supplements are in order because with this process there is loss of water soluble vitamins, mainly thiamin, riboflavin, niacin, and ascorbic acid. This is not true, however, of the oil soluble vitamins A and D.

Low salt diets are not recommended for the treatment of ordinary high blood pressure. Salt restriction is indicated only when the tension is producing symptoms or has affected the kidneys and heart. At this stage, withholding sodium leads to striking improvement in symptoms. However, the salt-free diet is not a preventive nor will it affect the progress and complications of high blood pressure. It is useful only when the body is having trouble eliminating sodium and the excess amount is aggravating the blood pressure. Those who are on such a regimen over a long period must be careful not to eliminate all the sodium from the system. When this occurs cramps, weakness, nausea, vomiting and stupor develop, indicating that salt is needed.

EGOMANIA

Mrs. J. writes: My husband of 37 has always had an inflated ego but he has become so puffed up I wonder if his mind is slipping. Not only does he boast of his power over women but he claims he could become a big wheel in business if he wished. Do you think his mind is slipping?

REPLY

It's either his mind or that final thrust to gain recognition. You might remind him that it's the doers and not the talkers that make the grade.

TETANUS "SHOTS"

J. W. writes: Is it safe to have two injections against lockjaw within five years?

REPLY

Yes, and more if they are needed. By using the newer toxoid, a baby usually can receive three injections in the first year and a booster dose one year later. Thereafter, booster injections are given at two or three year intervals. In the army, troops going into combat were sometimes given a booster "shot" if they had not received one within six months.

BIKES AND CRAMPS

W. C. writes: Could riding a bike steadily for four hours every evening cause leg cramps in a boy of 16?

REPLY

I assume you refer to cramping that occurs at night after going to bed. If so, the exercise mentioned may be responsible because leg cramps occur when the muscles are injured or overstretched.

PUFFINESS AFTER "SHOT"

Mrs. Y. writes: Is it natural for a child's arm to swell after a booster tetanus "shot"?

REPLY

Not natural, but this reaction does occur occasionally.

THYROID GROWTH

C. F. writes: Does a thyroid adenoma need to be removed by operation?

REPLY

A single tumor of the thyroid is better out than in because of the danger of cancer.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Harry Dexter White Always Intensely Pro-Russian; Truman Felt White's Appointment To Monetary Fund Had Slipped By Him

TUCSON, Ariz. — Harry Dexter White, the alleged Communist spy, whom Attorney General Brownell has just exhumed from his five-year-old grave, was a Treasury official whom I knew slightly in Washington during World War II. A wizard in monetary matters, he was always intensely pro-Russian, but at first I attributed this to the fact that he had been born in Boston of Russian parents and that we were allied with Russia during the war.

At the San Francisco United Nations Conference in April 1945, however, I first began to be suspicious of Harry White. By that time the United States was having diplomatic troubles with Russia, and Stalin had sent a brusque, almost brutal note to Roosevelt one day before he died.

General Eisenhower at that time had pulled American troops back from the outskirts of Potsdam to the River Elbe, in deference to Russian protests, and I recall that, when I broke this story, Harry White, whom I saw in San Francisco in April of 1945, protested against it.

Harry Truman, incidentally, who had taken office only a few days before, was much tougher on the Russians than General Eisenhower appeared to be in Germany; and "Chip" Bohlen reported that when Molotov flew to Washington en route to San Francisco, Truman gave Molotov the dressing down of his life. Bohlen, who acted as interpreter, said he had never heard one top official scold another in such a manner.

Shortly after that I picked up the first trail of the Russian spy ring in Canada—a story which took several months to nail down. Harry White's name entered the picture. It was difficult to prove that White was involved—at least to the point of being safe from libel. But it certainly looked as if White was one of the men the Russians came to for secret information in Washington.

Information Similar

The evidence was such that I took it to my old friend, Fred Vinson, who had just been made secretary of the treasury. To the best of my recollection this was in midsummer of 1945 and before the FBI submitted its report on White to the White House and various members of the Cabinet.

I told Vinson that while I could not be certain about White, it looked to me as if he was not only intensely pro-Russian but had been linked up with the Russian spy ring in Canada. Vinson thanked me for the information, made no comment, but later I noticed that White left the Treasury. Later he turned up with the International Monetary Fund.

I never asked Fred Vinson what happened. He was appointed chief justice of the Supreme Court some time later and removed from the realm of political comment. But I did ask J. Edgar Hoover. I had learned that subsequently certain Justice Department officials considered putting White's case before a grand jury and that Hoover had been opposed.

When I asked Hoover about this he gave the perfectly plausible explanation that he had White under observation, wanted to keep him that way in order to track down any other Americans and Russians he might be doing business with. If White was prosecuted immediately, the other members of the spy ring would be alerted and it would be impossible to catch them.

About a year and a half later, White's name was placed before a federal ground jury which failed to indict him. Vincent Quinn, assistant attorney general in charge of Criminal Division, has stated that the evidence was not conclusive enough to bring an indictment.

My own information was similar. It was obtained largely from British sources, not from the story given by Elizabeth Bentley. Indirectly it came from Igor Gouzenko, the code clerk in the Russian Legation in Ottawa, who eventually spilled the beans to the Royal Mounted Police. Gouzenko indicated that there was a man in U. S. Treasury the Russians contacted for information, he was not quite clear as to who he was, though the signs pointed to White.

Appointment Upset Truman

Neither Harry Truman nor General Vaughan was among those who confided in me in great detail at that time. In fact, Mr. Truman hurled some strong words in my direction shortly thereafter because I was critical of Vaughan. Therefore I cannot speak firsthand regarding their views on White.

I did hear, however, that Mr. Truman was upset over White's appointment to the Monetary Fund and felt that it was slipped by him (in February 1946) without his knowing too much about it.

I recall most vividly, however, that the temper of the time was nowhere as anti-Russian or as suspicious as it is today. On Feb. 3, 1946, for instance, I broke the first story of the Canadian-Russian spy ring, at which time I was deluged with protests from people who said I was unfair to the Soviet.

I am quite sure that most of these letters came not from Communists, but from well-meaning people who sincerely hoped that we might get along with Russia, and felt that I was upsetting Russo-American relations. That was still the temper of the time and the letters of protest continued to pour in until Prime Minister MacKenzie King of Canada issued an official announcement two weeks later confirming the existence of the spy ring.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—The White House vs. the House Un-American Activities Committee (Part I)—

We've been mulling for centuries over what happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable object, and part of the answer may be supplied when and if Harry Truman collides with the House Un-American Activities Committee.

It will be the first physical brush between perhaps the most explosive political figure of the decade and a body which has managed to survive in the face of bitter opposition in the highest places. But there have been many long-range punches traded between these two.

"A red herring of the strongest type of smell," Truman said of the committee, after the 1948 testimony it had taken from Elizabeth Bentley, Whittaker Chambers, Alger Hiss, Alexander Koral (accused Communist courier), Victor Perlo, Gilda De Frank Burke, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, Duncan C. Lee, Maj. William Ludwig Ullman ("I refuse to answer on the ground, etc., etc."), Robert T. Miller, Henry H. Collins, Charles Kramer, George Silverman, Laughlin Currie (former aide to FDR) and Harry Dexter White.

The President repeated the "red herring" charge after the unearthing of the "pumpkin papers" and Hiss's indictment.

Then there was the Truman vs. Committee scrape involving Dr. Edward U. Condon, once director of the National Bureau of Standards on the strength of a recommendation by Henry Wallace. The advice of Drs. Vannevar Bush and Lyman Briggs, usually sought, was by-passed in Condon's elevation to the important post.

Condon had served briefly in the Manhattan Engineering District, the name by which the vast work of creating the A-bomb was known. Committee Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (who later went to prison on a kickback charge) received a letter questioning Condon's record. The letter was from a former security officer attached to MED. Thomas turned the matter over to Robert E. Stripling, the committee's chief investigator. Stripling's office was able to secure a paraphrase of a letter which J. Edgar Hoover sent to Department of Commerce about Condon, naming some of Dr. and Mrs. Condon's friends—including Silvermaster, an associate of Harry Dexter White and named by naval intelligence and by Elizabeth Bentley as a Communist spy.

The committee made an effort to get the letter from Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, Condon's boss. Mr. Truman ordered the letter brought to the White House. A special congressional committee voted 10-to-1 urging him to release it. But to this day it has never been made public, though it has been charged in some circles that it cleared Condon, and that the committee's hastily-scrawled paraphrase of it maliciously deleted sentences that absolved Condon.

Condon was not permitted to leave the country when he sought to make a trip to Russia after the war. He was not cleared by the AEC to share in all atomic secrets even at the time he headed up many atomic scientists and technicians working at the Bureau of Standards. His office urged government scientists to join the American-Soviet Science Society, a subsidiary of the National Council for American Soviet Friendship, Inc., termed a subversive organization by the attorney general's office.

Chairman Thomas, a bear for publicity, insisted on issuing an interim report about Condon, based on the paraphrase. Other members of the committee begged him not to do so, but he handed down his decision from his Walter Reed Hospital (Wash., D. C.) wheelchair. The report called Condon the "weakest link" in our atomic security.

Condon immediately demanded a hearing. He never got one, a fact which Stripling deplored upon his resigning some time later. The Department of Commerce cleared Condon, but the committee doggedly charged that the department's loyal board had called only one witness during its ten months of hearing. And the White House never released the F.B.I. letter—a 3½-page document which may still be gathering dust there.

"Those fellas are always trying to get publicity," Mr. Truman complained cheerfully as he set off for the historic collision. The membership of the committee has, of course, changed thoroughly. But the pelt looks the same to H.S.T. and he aims to plug it before it can do anything about clawing him.

More anon.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Something seems to have happened to the old-fashioned deliberateness which men in public life used to apply to their conduct when explosive controversies of a delicate political nature suddenly confronted them.

Instead of calmly taking time to get all the facts and coming up in a few days with a cool and dispassionate appraisal, the tendency has been to go off half-cocked. This applies both to former President Truman's handling of the Harry Dexter White case and to President Eisenhower's unnecessary comments at his press conference on the way the House Un-American Activities Committee had decided to subpoena former President Truman. Also it applies to the impulsive action of the chairman of the House committee, who might better have waited to develop the case before summoning Mr. Truman.

When news first reached Mr. Truman, he said he had no recollection of the FBI memorandum mentioned by Attorney General Brownell in his speech last Friday and that anyway as soon as White's "disloyalty" was discovered, he was "fired."

HST Put Foot In Mouth

Now it turns out that James F. Byrnes, then secretary of state, discussed the White case and the FBI memorandum with Mr. Truman. Also the attorney general has given out a statement saying the Department of State found in its files confirmation of Mr. Byrnes' intervention the day before the Senate confirmed White to be U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund on February 6, 1946. Then on April 30, 1946, Mr. Truman wrote a laudatory letter to White as he was resigning his post as assistant secretary of the treasury. White's sister now makes public another such complimentary letter from Mr. Truman, written when White finally resigned as U.S. director of the International Monetary Fund. It is dated April 8, 1947—14 months after the FBI memorandum of February 4, 1946.

Mr. Truman never liked to delve deeply into lengthy reports and depended on his staff to evaulate them. It is quite possible that the FBI memorandum wasn't taken seriously then, any more than it is given weight by lots of the pro-Truman and New Deal reporters here today who discount anything contributed by ex-Communists, especially if they have confessed their error. The fact that Elizabeth Bentley, for example, testified about the inside of the Soviet spy ring and turned up dozens of names and facts which the FBI investigators checked and found accurate doesn't seem to bother some of those who insist on disbelieving anybody who confesses to communistic activities.

Miss Bentley's testimony has stood up in the criminal trials where the FBI has used her statements. Juries have based their verdicts not merely on her say-so but on testimony of other witnesses who have corroborated what she has charged.

The whole tendency of some of the Truman administration officials of the New Deal type was to assume that an attack on a Communist was an attack on the New Deal or Fair Deal and hence that it was necessary for the Democratic administration to take a defensive attitude.

It would have been much better, even this week, if the Democratic leaders had expressed dismay that any espionage agent had slipped through their checks, and they might have stated frankly that the matter of who did pooh-pooh the report and how it came to be disregarded at the White House should be thoroughly studied as a lesson for the future. Instead, the cry of politics was raised, which is a political blunder in itself. For it's bad politics for the Democrats to let the public get the impression that they would defend Communists in government, whereas the Republicans are the only ones trying to ferret them out. It would have been so easy to keep the anti-Communist effort on a non-partisan basis. Instead, the Democratic strategy is playing into the hands of the Republicans and giving them an issue of prolonged effectiveness.

Actually there was a good deal of forbearance on Mr. Brownell's part. He first learned of the second FBI memorandum in mid-October and need not have waited till after the elections, if, indeed, he was interested in getting a political advantage.

Should Have Common Aim

As for President Eisenhower, he never should have stepped into the controversy at all at his press conference. He should have been briefed in advance to say only that his own attorney general was handling it. Members of Congress are not happy when the President tries to tell them whom they should or shouldn't subpoena, especially when the chairmanships are held by members of his own party. Some of the President's press conference comments implied that he was not supporting his own attorney general. It wasn't so intended, but that inference was drawn by the pro-Truman reporters who did most of the questioning. They seemed to be more concerned about technical procedures than about the fact that a Russian spy for a long time held a high post in our government.

It would have been the better part of wisdom for the President to let the controversy simmer along, with the Department of Justice and congressional committees developing the case in their own way. There would have been time enough for comment by the President when all the facts in the case had been brought out in public.

The controversy over Communists in government is a bitter one, and there are many people who feel that the political aspects of it are most unfortunate, as the sole object of both parties should be to root out the Communist agents still in government and to expose those who have escaped detection in the past, irrespective of politics.

Blasts Heard In City Are At Dam Site

Those dynamite blasts heard on West Side and in downtown Cumberland are explosions being used to remove tons of rock from the bottom of Potomac River at the site of the industrial dam being constructed there.

R. E. Dexter, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers, said in some places as much as eight feet of excavation into solid limestone is required.

The bottom of the dam will be soundly based in the strata of rock, he pointed out.

The rock, when exposed as the coffer dam for the center pier was drained, by the contractor, the E. J. Albrecht Company, was smoothed from centuries of water wear.

The old dam was built by the C&O Canal Company in 1850 to impound the Potomac River for water to supply the C&O Canal.

This dam stopped the river from flowing over the rocks that are being exposed in the course of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

On the Maryland side of the river, the rock elevation was such that not much blasting had to be done. However, the pier on the Riverside Park is based a few feet in this stone.

The elevation is a little higher in the center and the plans call for the center portion of the 63-foot long dam to be based as much as eight feet down into the stone.

The rock taken from the river bed will be used for rip rap, for fill areas and the overflow to the spoil areas, Dexter explained.

Bus Drivers Nominate Morrison President

Blasts Heard In City Are At Dam Site

Those dynamite blasts heard on West Side and in downtown Cumberland are explosions being used to remove tons of rock from the bottom of Potomac River at the site of the industrial dam being constructed there.

R. E. Dexter, area engineer for the Corps of Army Engineers, said in some places as much as eight feet of excavation into solid limestone is required.

The bottom of the dam will be soundly based in the strata of rock, he pointed out.

The rock, when exposed as the coffer dam for the center pier was drained, by the contractor, the E. J. Albrecht Company, was smoothed from centuries of water wear.

The old dam was built by the C&O Canal Company in 1850 to impound the Potomac River for water to supply the C&O Canal.

This dam stopped the river from flowing over the rocks that are being exposed in the course of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control Project.

On the Maryland side of the river, the rock elevation was such that not much blasting had to be done. However, the pier on the Riverside Park is based a few feet in this stone.

The elevation is a little higher in the center and the plans call for the center portion of the 63-foot long dam to be based as much as eight feet down into the stone.

The rock taken from the river bed will be used for rip rap, for fill areas and the overflow to the spoil areas, Dexter explained.

Annulment Is Granted To Ohio Marine

A mixed up marriage with an Enoch Arden twist has been straightened out in Allegany County Circuit Court.

According to annulment proceedings filed here by Cpl. Robert P. Stettin, of Cleveland, while he was in Korea, he was married here July 15, 1952 by a local minister.

He had obtained his marriage license in the office of Clerk of Circuit Court Joseph E. Boden to wed Mrs. Geneva Irene Teague Dyson of Tennessee.

Husband Reported Dead

In the deposition filed by him, the Marine Corps non-com said Mrs. Dyson informed him prior to their marriage that she had been wed to a James B. Dyson, also of Tennessee.

Her first marriage took place March 18, 1948, in Tennessee and according to her deposition filed here, they lived together as man and wife until November 16, 1949.

Then Mr. Dyson disappeared and she said she never heard from him, although she had word from some of her friends that he was dead, the testimony showed.

Sent To Korea

Cpl. Stettin said in his statement that he and the supposedly Mrs. Stettin lived together for a short time, and then he was transferred to Texas and finally wound up in combat in Korea with the Second Marine Division.

It was in Korea that Cpl. Stettin found out some bad news—the supposedly dead Mr. Dyson turned up at his wife's residence, very much alive.

Immediately Mrs. Dyson filed for and was granted a divorce from Dyson.

Action Uncontested

The law firm of David Kauffman and Harry Kauffman, this city, handled the annulment proceedings for the corporal.

No witnesses appeared for the hearing as it was uncontested when brought before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris.

Judge Harris granted the soldier the annulment, making his marriage to Mrs. Dyson null and void.

The annulment came through just about the time the Marine arrived home from Korea. Now he's single and his wife for a while is also single.

The reason the suit was filed here was because the marriage took place here, the attorneys explained.

Parents Told

pects to enroll more than 100,000 members in 1954.

Dr. Pullen commented he had never seen so many young parents at such a meeting. It must reflect the growing concern about the public schools, he said. The elementary and high schools are not the only ones which face critical problems in the great influx of pupils, he pointed out.

Last year Maryland's public high schools graduated 12,000. By 1960 this is expected to rise to 21,000.

"Look what is ahead of the colleges and universities," Pullen said.

Dr. David Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent for finance, drew this picture of what Maryland's public schools cost:

Last year, the school year of 1952-53, they cost the state, county and city governments 90 million dollars. About 32½ million of this, or 35.9 per cent, came from the state treasury, 55½ million, or 61.1 per cent, from local governments, and about 2 million, or less than 2 per cent, from federal help.

Cost Is $223 Per Child

This cost amounted to $223 a child. The average classroom teacher's salary was $3,953.

In the current year (1953-54), the total cost is rising to about 101 million. The percentage of money supplied by the various sources will remain about the same. The cost per child will rise about $10 to $233. The average teacher's salary will climb a little more than $200 to $4,187.

Since the public school enrollment is expected to increase by about 30,000 each year from now until 1960, this means 1,000 new classrooms will be needed each of those years.

The cost of schools built in Maryland in recent years has averaged $45,000 a classroom—including some equipment and the other facilities such as cafeterias, auditoriums, gymnasiums and shops which go into a school. It figures out to 45 million a year for new schools.

The prospect led Mrs. A. K. Romoser of Clarksville to ask the financial experts:

"Must we continue to put the greater part of this burden on the real estate tax? Can we bring back to local governments some of the taxes now collected by the state?"

Finances Not Discussed

Dr. Zimmerman said it was a question which he had not studied closely but he noted there already are movements in that direction, such as the cigarette tax in Baltimore County. He pointed out there had been a suggestion that one per cent be added to the State sales tax, with the extra money being returned to the local governments.

The discussions were not confined to finances.

Dr. Spitznas, who heads the state department's division of instruction, said the extensive and intensive work done since 1945 in developing and altering the subjects taught in the schools probably ranked Maryland as a national leader in the field.

Dr. David Zimmerman, assistant state superintendent for finance, drew this picture of what Maryland's public schools cost:

Last year, the school year of 1952-53, they cost the state, county and city governments 90 million dollars. About 32½ million of this, or 35.9 per cent, came from the state treasury, 55½ million, or 61.1 per cent, from local governments, and about 2 million, or less than 2 per cent, from federal help.

Cost Is $223 Per Child

This cost amounted to $223 a child. The average classroom teacher's salary was $3,953.

In the current year (1953-54), the total cost is rising to about 101 million. The percentage of money supplied by the various sources will remain about the same. The cost per child will rise about $10 to $233. The average teacher's salary will climb a little more than $200 to $4,187.

Since the public school enrollment is expected to increase by about 30,000 each year from now until 1960, this means 1,000 new classrooms will be needed each of those years.

The cost of schools built in Maryland in recent years has averaged $45,000 a classroom—including some equipment and the other facilities such as cafeterias, auditoriums, gymnasiums and shops which go into a school. It figures out to 45 million a year for new schools.

The prospect led Mrs. A. K. Romoser of Clarksville to ask the financial experts:

"Must we continue to put the greater part of this burden on the real estate tax? Can we bring back to local governments some of the taxes now collected by the state?"

Finances Not Discussed

Dr. Zimmerman said it was a question which he had not studied closely but he noted there already are movements in that direction, such as the cigarette tax in Baltimore County. He pointed out there had been a suggestion that one per cent be added to the State sales tax, with the extra money being returned to the local governments.

The discussions were not confined to finances.

Dr. Spitznas, who heads the state department's division of instruction, said the extensive and intensive work done since 1945 in developing and altering the subjects taught in the schools probably ranked Maryland as a national leader in the field.

Three Generals Ousted From Key Moscow Posts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer of this dispatch is back in the United States after spending six years in Moscow as a correspondent of The Associated Press)

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Copies of Pravda which reached here today show that three key generals in Moscow have been removed from their posts since last May.

The three are: Col. Gen. P. A. Artemiev, commander of the armies of the Moscow Military District; Lt. Gen. K. R. Sinilov, commandant of Moscow; and Lt. Gen. N. K. Spiridonov, commandant of the Moscow Kremlin.

After the announcement of Deputy Premier Beria's arrest last July Western diplomats in Moscow heard rumors that all three of these generals had been arrested. These rumors never received any confirmation and were in part discredited when one of the three, Sinilov, appeared at a diplomatic reception in mid-July.

But it becomes public that there are three new men in these posts.

The new commander of the armies of the Moscow Military District is Gen. Moskalenko, a war hero. The new commandant of Moscow is Maj. Gen. I. S. Kolesnikov. The new commandant of the Moscow Kremlin—the walled fortress in the center of the city where the top ranking government officials have their offices is Lt. Gen. A. Y. Vedenin.

No Soviet government could feel secure if there were any question of the loyalty of the generals in any one of these three positions. Perhaps that's why the three previous incumbents were removed—in all probability in the period following Beria's arrest — and new men installed.

Boy Should Make Good Fire Chief

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12 (AP) — Charles Daniel may be only 11 but he has all the makings of a fire chief.

Charles was home alone while his mother was shopping yesterday. When he smelled smoke, he dashed into the street and enlisted the aid of four neighborhood pals, ranging from 13 to 16.

He sent one of his friends next door to get a garden hose and call firemen. Then he and his friends dragged another hose from the Daniels' basement.

By the time the two small hoses were connected the fire was roaring out of control. But, with Daniels directing the firefighting, the blaze was confined to the second floor.

Young Charles was still in the thick of things while two fire companies battled the blaze. When the last ember had been extinguished, Fire Chief Charles Adley took time out to congratulate young Daniels and his pals.

The loss of $5,000, said Adley, would have been much greater if it hadn't been for the young firefighters. Origin of the blaze was not discovered.

Counter-Courting Week Under Way At Mich. College

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. Nov. 12 (AP) — Counter-courting week—when the coeds ask for dates and foot the bill—opens at Calvin College Friday with a new refinement this year calculated to spare the girls wasted effort.

Each male student will wear a colored ribbon denoting his degree of eligibility.

Green means go ahead, fair game for all; red indicates the man is married or has a "steady" girl and doesn't want to be pursued.

Labor Racketeer Probe Aid Denied

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Federal District Judge George H. Moore said today he has been unable to obtain "adequate support" from the Department of Justice for an investigation here of alleged labor racketeering.

Judge Moore made the statement in charging a federal grand jury to press the inquiry in which 15 AFL union officials have been indicted on racketeering charges.

"I have requested without success that the Department of Justice provide the U. S. attorney with sufficient personnel and with adequate support from the investigating agencies of the government," the judge told the grand jury.

"It is proper that this grand jury request such aid if you deem it necessary. I feel quite sure that the Department of Justice will not ignore or deny such an appeal from this grand jury."

Charge Is Filed Following Crash

A 21-year-old Frederick Street man was charged with reckless driving last night after two motorists complained that a car had forced them off Braddock Road, had struck and damaged a guard rail, but had failed to stop.

The charge was filed against Leroy E. Wheeler of Benjamin Banneker Homes.

Officers E. Gordon Hite and Kenneth W. Morrissey, working from descriptions of the car and its driver, picked up Wheeler not long after the Accident, which happened at 4:50 p. m.

Wheeler was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for injuries to the ribs and other minor injuries. He was summoned to appear in answer to the charge in Trial Magistrates Court tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Salvation Army's Report Due Today

A luncheon report meeting of both the classified section and the residential group will be held today at 12:30 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, on the progress of the SA drive for funds.

Capt. Daniel Biggs said the drive chairmen hope to reach $16,000 today in their campaign. The drive has garnered approximately $15,000 of the $19,000 goal to date, he added.

AWOL Is Returned

Carl C. Miller of East Third Street, who was arrested here Wednesday night as an AWOL from military service, was turned over to Military Police from Hagerstown yesterday. He had been held at City Jail.

Vincent P. Green Hurt While At Work In B. And O. Yards

A 34-year-old local Baltimore and Ohio employe was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon suffering injuries sustained in an accident in the railroad yards here.

Vincent P. Green, of 27 Blackston Avenue, was reported last night as being in good condition. He suffered head and neck injuries, attaches said.

He was admitted at 1:30 p. m. and X-rays have been taken. Green, a World War II veteran, was reported to have been working in the lower end of Yard B. A brakeman with the railroad for about 13 years, Green was said to have been on the ladder of a boxcar when another car struck it knocking him to the ground.

Green was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. His wife reports this is his first mishap as a brakeman with the railroad.

Missing Girl Returns

Thirteen-year-old Joanne Twigg of Golden's Lane returned to her home yesterday after her stepfather had reported her missing. Police said they were told the girl had been visiting a member of her family.

the approval of plans by federal roads officials. Work on a storm sewer system could be done this winter.

As soon as the cost of the Frederick Street work is known, the city plans to complete a number of internal traffic improvements, such as the widening of one block of Franklin Street and the extension of North George Street.

This will be financed by the difference between the city's share of the Frederick Street work and a $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue authorized by the General Assembly this spring.

Definitely scheduled for construction next year is a modern bridge across the Potomac River to replace the obsolete Blue Bridge.

Plans have been approved by road commissions in Maryland and West Virginia, which will share the costs, and officials plan to let the contract for the span this winter.

Unofficial estimates set the cost of the span at some $600,000.

The city will spend about $25,000 next year in providing the Cumberland approach to the bridge.

Still a question mark is the amount to be spent on the Flood Control project next year, but the total will be about $1,000,000 if Congressional appropriations are kept at the level of the past few years.

Even if no new contracts are let, remaining work on the first phase of the Channel work, now over two thirds completed, and the rest of the work on the Industrial Dam will represent about half a million dollars.

More construction money will be pumped into the city's economy next year as some of the early phases of the State Roads Commission's 12-year-plan get under way.

Further work on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's plan for modernization and expansion of its yard and terminal facilities here could add more strength to the construction picture.

Boy Severs Tendon

Hugh Scott, 15-year-old son of Mrs. Hilda Scott, 311 Fayette Street, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital at 6:15 p.m. yesterday after he severed a tendon in his right leg while chopping wood.

As soon as the cost of the Frederick Street work is known, the city plans to complete a number of internal traffic improvements, such as the widening of one block of Franklin Street and the extension of North George Street.

This will be financed by the difference between the city's share of the Frederick Street work and a $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue authorized by the General Assembly this spring.

Definitely scheduled for construction next year is a modern bridge across the Potomac River to replace the obsolete Blue Bridge.

Plans have been approved by road commissions in Maryland and West Virginia, which will share the costs, and officials plan to let the contract for the span this winter.

Unofficial estimates set the cost of the span at some $600,000.

The city will spend about $25,000 next year in providing the Cumberland approach to the bridge.

Still a question mark is the amount to be spent on the Flood Control project next year, but the total will be about $1,000,000 if Congressional appropriations are kept at the level of the past few years.

Even if no new contracts are let, remaining work on the first phase of the Channel work, now over two thirds completed, and the rest of the work on the Industrial Dam will represent about half a million dollars.

More construction money will be pumped into the city's economy next year as some of the early phases of the State Roads Commission's 12-year-plan get under way.

Further work on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's plan for modernization and expansion of its yard and terminal facilities here could add more strength to the construction picture.

Grammer Appeal In Slaying Case Is Turned Down

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Publicity about an "almost perfect murder" did not prevent G. Edward Grammer from getting a fair trial and he should die for killing his wife, the Court of Appeals asserted today.

The state's high court upheld the conviction of Grammer in Baltimore's sensational slaying of last year which was perpetrated in the guise of a tragic auto accident.

"The nature and the facts of the crime made publicity inevitable," Judge Hall Hammond said for the unanimous five-judge court.

The decision meant the 36-year-old former New York office manager will go to the gallows for killing his 33-year-old wife, Dorothy May, unless he can gain a reversal from the Supreme Court or mercy from Gov. McKeldin.

Joseph Sherbow, former judge in Baltimore Criminal Court, declined comment but there were indications that as Grammer's lawyer he would ask the Supreme Court for a review. The governor could not disturb the sentence but has the power to spare Grammer's life.

The Court of Appeals rejected three complaints by the defense:

1. That Grammer, who chose trial by Judge Herman M. Moser in Baltimore, had been denied the right to an impartial jury because publicity inflamed the public against him.

2. That he signed a confession only after spending a sleepless night on a plywood bed in jail, going almost without food and receiving an implied promise that to talk would help him in court.

3. That at most he was guilty of second-degree murder because the crime was not planned.

The court accepted the state's argument that Grammer hammered his wife to death with an iron pipe to be free to marry a pretty red-haired Canadian who worked for the United Nations.

Silver Spring Girl Is Mauled By Lion

SILVER SPRING, Md., Nov. 12 (AP) — Six-year-old Carla S. Viers could tell playmates today she got her scratches and cuts in a fight with a lion and not be fibbing a single bit.

She was invited into the cage of "Caesar", one of two tame lions owned by Bartelle E. Ford of Aspen Hill, who rents them to carnivals and other exhibitions.

She petted Caesar, then as she turned to leave the cage the lion bumped her, knocking her to the floor.

Apparently excited by her struggle to get to her feet and movements of Ford and her father to pick her up, the lion began to maul her.

Ford was charged with violation of a Maryland law against keeping wild or vicious animals. He gave $1,000 bond for a police court hearing next week.

Burley Tobacco Quota Cuts Will Be Small

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Rep. Sutton (D-Tenn) said tonight the tobacco division of the Agriculture Department has agreed not to reduce burley tobacco quotas for next year more than eight per cent.

Sutton added that the division also agreed not to reduce dark-fired tobacco quotas more than 15 per cent.

James E. Thigpen chief of the tobacco division, agreed to scale down the quota reductions, Sutton said, after he and senators from burley producing states protested the big acreage cuts at a conference today. Sutton said the heavy acreage cuts were opposed by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn), Sen. Cooper (R-Ky), and by an aide from the office of Sen. Clements (D-Ky).

Police Hold Youth, 14, On Shakedown Charge

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Police held a 14-year-old Paul Junior High School boy today on charges of shaking down 18 fellow pupils by threatening to have them beaten up.

Officers said he collected dollar bills from each of the boys.

He was arrested when one of them tried to borrow a dollar from the school principal, and in response to questions explained he needed the money to prevent a beating.

Serviceman Held In Slaying Of Uncle, Wounding Of Aunt

ELKTON, Md., Nov. 12 (AP) — A 19-year-old serviceman tonight was charged with the murder of his 45-year-old uncle and the shotgun wounding of his aunt.

The dead man was identified as Gilbert M. Cavendar. His 44-year-old wife, Mary, was in Union Hospital here with a severe leg wound and suffering from shock.

Held without bail was Arthur Biddle Jr., Fort Dix, N.J. serviceman home on a leave that expired two days ago. The youth gave himself up after the shooting.

Biddle's mother and Mrs. Cavendar are sisters.

Police said the Cavendars were shot by a 16-guage double-barreled shotgun after an argument with Biddle. The Cavendars live in the home in which Biddle was reared and which his grandmother formerly owned.

After the death of the grandmother, Mrs. Anna Clay, Biddle and his parents moved out of the house and the Cavendars moved in. The Biddles lived just down the street, police said.

The shooting occurred just before noon today. Police said it was believed an argument over property preceded the shooting.

Medical Evidence Is Studied In Slaying

CRISFIELD, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—Investigation into the violent death of a prosperous Smith Island waterman centered around medical evidence today with no verdict reported yet.

Capt. Edwin C. Smith of Tylerton, Smith Island, was found dying about 6 a.m. Tuesday near the waterfront. He was badly battered, as if he had been hit by a car.

Nearly $1,500 in cash, most of which came from the sale of an oyster haul, was missing.

The state medical examiner's office in Baltimore today studied a piece of brain tissue, and Chief Examiner Russell S. Fisher said a report would be made to Crisfield authorities when the investigation is completed.

Kyes Says Nation Must Reassess Defense Plans In Light Of Technological Advances

KANKAKEE, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense, said tonight the nation must reassess defense plans in the light of technological advances and discard outmoded procedures and weapons.

The No. 2 man in the defense department, in an address prepared for delivery to the Chamber of Commerce here, asserted:

"We can no longer afford to prepare for every conceivable kind of war. We can no longer afford the luxury of the status quo in strategic planning.

"The day has passed when we can accept less than the most effective and efficient logistic supply and organization. Such an approach will require many courageous decisions, but it appears to me to contain all the elements of wisdom."

Kyes made his talk at a time when the Defense Department is drafting its request for the military budget in the fiscal year beginning with the "new look" the administration has ordered into the military picture.

Kyes had kind words for the JCS members who were named last summer by the Eisenhower administration. He said:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff ... are proving to be an effective team. They enjoy the respect of the military, not only in this country, but abroad as well.

Kyes said the United States "fumbled the ball" after World War II, declaring:

"Though we knew since the late 1920s that Russia had been working on a long-range program of industrial expansion and increased military strength, we abruptly permitted our wartime military might to decline immediately after World War II in the face of these facts.

"This gave the Soviet Union a favorable position as to military strength, thus neutralizing the influence of American economic superiority so far as international relations were concerned. As a result, From World War II to the present time, the Sovet Union has engulfed Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Albania, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. They tried to take over Greece and threatened Turkey.

"In Asia, because we couldn't make up our minds, and because our final decisions came too late to be effective, the militant Communists conquered China, and then started aggression in Korea.

"In my opinion, the future of the United States in world affairs lies first in our ability to set a sound and positive course for future action, and in our ability to maintain that course. ... Vacillation from a true course not only causes difficulties for ourselves, but it also creates difficulties for those who are our friends, or wish to be our friends."

Move To Delay EDC Favored By De Gaulle

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle said today France should seek on behalf of the West a "yes or no" reply from Moscow on whether the Russians can work out an agreement with the Western world.

De Gaulle made it clear at a news conference he favors such a move in order to delay and perhaps defeat the six-nation European Defense Community treaty.

De Gaulle holds no post in the government. He has disbanded his own political party, the French People's Rally (RPF).

He delivered an impassioned attack upon the idea of EDC. He urged, as an alternative, formation of an "association of nations" which could attract Britain into membership and still provide machinery for controlling a revived Germany.

Reds Denounce Election

MOSCOW, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Soviet press denounced the Philippines election and Ramon Magsaysay's victory today as a phony product of American intervention.

Mau Mau Convicts Riot

NAIROBI, Kenya, Nov. 12 (AP)—Warders opened fire on rioting Mau Mau convicts at Sakwa prison camp in Kenya today, killing three of the convicts and wounding 14. The riot started when one convict attacked a guard with a knife. His arrest was the signal for other convicts to attack.

Kyes Says Nation Must Reassess Defense Plans In Light Of Technological Advances

KANKAKEE, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense, said tonight the nation must reassess defense plans in the light of technological advances and discard outmoded procedures and weapons.

The No. 2 man in the defense department, in an address prepared for delivery to the Chamber of Commerce here, asserted:

"We can no longer afford to prepare for every conceivable kind of war. We can no longer afford the luxury of the status quo in strategic planning.

"The day has passed when we can accept less than the most effective and efficient logistic supply and organization. Such an approach will require many courageous decisions, but it appears to me to contain all the elements of wisdom."

Kyes made his talk at a time when the Defense Department is drafting its request for the military budget in the fiscal year beginning with the "new look" the administration has ordered into the military picture.

Kyes had kind words for the JCS members who were named last summer by the Eisenhower administration. He said:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff . . . are proving to be an effective team. They enjoy the respect of the military, not only in this country, but abroad as well.

Kyes said the United States "fumbled the ball" after World War II, declaring:

"Though we knew since the late 1920s that Russia had been working on a long-range program of industrial expansion and increased military strength, we abruptly permitted our wartime military might to decline immediately after World War II in the face of these facts.

"This gave the Soviet Union a favorable position as to military strength, thus neutralizing the influence of American economic superiority so far as international relations were concerned. As a result, From World War II to the present time, the Sovet Union has engulfed Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Albania, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. They tried to take over Greece and threatened Turkey.

"In Asia, because we couldn't make up our minds, and because our final decisions came too late to be effective, the militant Communists conquered China, and then started aggression in Korea.

"In my opinion, the future of the United States in world affairs lies first in our ability to set a sound and positive course for future action, and in our ability to maintain that course. . . . Vacillation from a true course not only causes difficulties for ourselves, but it also creates difficulties for those who are our friends, or wish to be our friends."

Move To Delay EDC Favored By De Gaulle

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle said today France should seek on behalf of the West a "yes or no" reply from Moscow on whether the Russians can work out an agreement with the Western world.

De Gaulle made it clear at a news conference he favors such a move in order to delay and perhaps defeat the six-nation European Defense Community treaty.

De Gaulle holds no post in the government. He has disbanded his own political party, the French People's Rally (RPF).

He delivered an impassioned attack upon the idea of EDC. He urged, as an alternative, formation of an "association of nations" which could attract Britain into membership and still provide machinery for controlling a revived Germany.

Kraut And Frank, Pickle And Laugh Weeks Scheduled

Those are among the 204 such special merchandising days, weeks and months scheduled for next year, as compiled by Printers, Ink, weekly magazine of Advertising, Management and Sales.

Reds Denounce Election

MOSCOW, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Soviet press denounced the Philippines election and Ramon Magsaysay's victory today as a phony product of American intervention.

Mau Mau Convicts Riot

NAIROBI, Kenya, Nov. 12 (AP)—Warders opened fire on rioting Mau Mau convicts at Sakwa prison camp in Kenya today, killing three of the convicts and wounding 14. The riot started when one convict attacked a guard with a knife. His arrest was the signal for other convicts to attack.

White's Influence Reportedly Caused Cut In Aid For Chiang

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The New York Times quotes Dr. H. H. Kung, banker brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-shek, as saying Harry Dexter White's influence caused a proposed 1945 transfer of 10 million dollars to China to be cut to one million.

Kung, according to the Times, emphasized that White declared it was impossible for the U.S. government to get together the 10 million as fast as the Chinese wanted it.

Kung, then governor of the Central Bank of China, was quoted as saying he had found former President Truman and then Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. "very helpful" during this period.

He also was quoted as saying that White was a "very smart, likable man," who seemed "not quite" as helpful to the Chinese Nationalists in 1944 and 1945 as he had been before.

White, who died in 1948, became the center of a new controversy last week when Atty. Gen. Brownell charged that former President Truman, having been informed of White's "spying activities" for the Russians, promoted him in the government service.

At the time of the Chinese transaction, White was assistant secretary of the Treasury.

The Times story, based on an interview with Dr. Kung, gave this account:

"Dr. Kung had been about to return to China, following two medical operations here. With wartime inflation skyrocketing, the Chinese yuan had been driven down on the black market from a rate of 20 to the American dollar in 1942 to 2,500.

"Meanwhile, Dr. Kung had reached an agreement with the Treasury Department in Washington on Jan. 23, 1945, to settle the account by which the Central Bank of China had been advancing Chinese currency for United States military and government use in China.

"Under this the Treasury Department deposited 210 million dollars to the Central Bank's account in the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Late in June, with the Treasury in control of Chinese assets, Dr. Kung, the week before he was to return, proposed to Secretary Morgenthau and Mr. White that he take 10 million dollars of this sum in American bank notes to China to battle the black market.

"Mr. White was 'cautious' and said this would need presidential approval. Dr. Kung saw President Truman two or three days before his departure, and that same day reported the agreement to the Treasury. At this point, to Dr. Kung's surprise, Mr. White insisted that there was no longer time to prepare any more than one million dollars for shipment."

Jaworek Gets Certificate As Civil Engineer

State Board Approves College Instructor

KEYSER — Walter A. Jaworek, head of the engineering department at Potomac State College, was notified recently that his application as a professional engineer of civil engineering status has been approved by the West Virginia State Registration Board for Professional Engineers, Charleston, and has been issued an individual official seal as a civil engineer.

Jaworek passed the required oral examination before the board in Charleston a few months ago. The approval gives Jaworek equal professional status with other engineers, there being now five such in Keyser.

Jaworek studied basic engineering at Brown University, prior to receiving a bachelor of science degree at West Virginia University. He also did advanced work in mathematics at the University of Illinois.

Before coming to Potomac State College as head of the engineering department in 1942, he taught drawing and mathematics at Cameron High School, and was also employed in engineering. At the Yorkville plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, he obtained a certificate for inspection and testing of construction materials.

In addition to this he worked for the Bethlehem Steel Company, in 1941-42, as hull draftsman, with design of watertight doors his major work. He did work in converting the German luxury liner, S.S. America, acquired during World War I, into a troop transport in World War II. He also assisted in the air conditioning of two training ships for the U. S. Merchant Marine, the American Mariner and the American Sailor.

He had an integral part in the engineer designing of Allied cargo ships prior to the entry of the United States into World War II. Jaworek has done both civil and mechanical engineering work at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company in construction and machine designs. Two years ago he completed a course in radiological warfare at West Virginia University and at the present time he is district monitor for Civil Defense.

Oakland Woman Gets 4-H Award From West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Mrs. Pauline Johnson Hanst, now an Oakland, Md., homemaker and Prof. Maurice Graham Brooks, Morgantown, have been named West Virginia's outstanding 4-H alumni of 1953 in the National 4-H Alumni Recognition Program, according to C. P. Dorsey, state 4-H club leader at West Virginia University. Each will receive a burnished copper Alumni Recognition Plaque mounted on walnut. Mrs. Hanst and Professor Brooks are both graduates of West Virginia University.

From the individuals named in the various states, eight individuals will be chosen later on a national basis, Dorsey explained. National awards will include a gold key and an all-expense trip to the 32nd National 4-H Club Congress, in Chicago, Nov. 29-Dec. 3, 1953.

The program is being conducted by the Extension Service of the State Agricultural College, the U. S. Department of Agriculture cooperating, and has been arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. Donor of awards is the Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Hanst was a 4-H club member at Frametown, Braxton county, for seven years. She won her 4-H pin, a gold ring, membership in 4-H All Stars; was a representative to Camp Vail, Springfield, Mass., and was lieutenant governor of the Horace Moses Leadership Training School there. She won many blue ribbons on project exhibits at county fairs.

"Polly," as she is known to thousands of 4-H'ers and leaders in West Virginia and Maryland, has been a home demonstration agent in Ritchie county; a county and state 4-H camp instructor; youth editor and contributing editor to Farmers' Wife; acting state girls' club agent at West Virginia University. She continues to answer many of the demands from 4-H groups to serve as a consultant and lead discussions on family life at county, state, and national meetings. Her home is always open to 4-H club meetings and activities, and she is serving as a local 4-H leader of a girls' club. Armistice Day Meet Held By Piedmont Legion

Samuel Widmer Is Main Speaker

PIEDMONT — Samuel W. Widmer, past post commander and past 10th District commander of the Legion, was principal speaker at the Armistice Day meeting of Kelly-Mansfield Post 52, American Legion, Wednesday at the post home.

Widmer pointed out that the local post was organized in 1919, adding that the national organization was instrumental in passing of the GI Bill.

Stressing that the Legion makes no distinction between World War I or II or the Korean conflict, Widmer said plans are being discussed to make the Armistice Day celebration a "Veterans' Day" event.

He announced that Kelly-Mansfield Post will present a minstrel program for veterans at Newton D. Baker VA Center, Martinsburg, at 7:30 p. m. December 8. Legionnaire Frank Jackson is in charge of the entertainers' group.

Floyd Davis, past post commander, presented past commander pins to G. Elmer May, 1950-51, and Julius McCabe, 1951-53.

Commander Raymond Lee announced that the local post is leading the district in membership with 300 members, over 100 over any other post in the district.

Lee urged Legionnaires to support the "Back To God Sunday," November 29, and asked all members to attend their church on that day, wearing the Legionnaire cap.

The National Department is planning to build churches in Germany at a cost of $25,000 each, but the number of buildings has not been set as yet. The Ladies Auxiliary has pledged cost of building five of the churches.

Glenn Boyd, past commander, urged members to attend funerals of veterans, and Columbus C. Fleenor, Martinsburg, deputy director of West Virginia Department of Veterans, spoke briefly. Other speakers were Dr. Robert W. Bess, Americanism officer for the post, and T. J. Martin, service officer.

Health Center Given $125

MIDLAND — Organizations of Midland have contributed a total of $215 toward the maintenance of the Medical Center here.

The funds will be used during the next year at the center located in the Ewald Building, Railroad Street. The center is fully equipped and the committee is eager to have a doctor come for a full time practice and use it as his office.

Midland is in need of a doctor as there is only one from Frostburg to Westernport, a distance of 17 miles. The well-baby and preschool clinic is held the second Friday of each month from 10 until noon in charge of Dr. Frank Harrat, Frostburg and two public health nurses, Mesdames Mary Whitfield, Lonaconing and Lois Jackson, of Frostburg.

The orthopedic clinic is held the third Wednesday of each month from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. in charge of two orthopedic nurses from Cumberland. Members of the Center Committee are David Williams, chairman; John Devlin, secretary; James G. Blair, treasurer; Thomas H. Taylor, Raymond Bampton and Mesdames Gertrude Smith, Richard Elliott, Patrick Manley and James Blair.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk By Altoona Cleric

Keyser Group Meets At Markwood Church

KEYSER — Rev. Paul Shaffer, Altoona, Pa., was the speaker at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Keyser Kiwanis Club Wednesday evening in the Markwood Methodist Church annex.

Rev. Shaffer's theme was "Remember Our Heritage," and he said "America should be more thankful than any other country because we have abundance of everything, whereas most of the other countries are lacking in many of the necessities of life, and some have not the training and the freedom of action that is enjoyed here, something that some of us do not think of very much."

Rev. Shaffer told how, at the age of 19, he joined the Army during World War II, and soon after his training period was sent to Australia.

His experiences through the war carried him through the many South Pacific islands, and to much of the fighting.

During that period he met a chaplain, and through conversations with him, decided to enter the ministry.

At present Rev. Shaffer is conducting a series of revival meetings at the Markwood Church.

McCoole School Addition Opened

McCOOLE — A new addition to McCoole Elementary School was dedicated Wednesday evening in a ceremony in the school auditorium.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., member of the county delegation to the General Assembly, who was principal speaker, said a rapid increase in the number of pupils attending the school since 1944 had brought about a crowded condition. He said the addition would provide enough room for the overflow.

At one point during his talk, the auditorium lights went out because of an electrical overload caused by having all the lights in the building on at once.

Whitworth was introduced by Miss Jane Botsford, supervisor of elementary education in county schools.

Rev. Raymond Crowe, pastor of Cresaptown Methodist Church, opened the program with invocation, and Frederick H. Sheeley, former principal who is now a visiting teacher in county schools, was master of ceremonies.

Paul Arbogast, principal, welcomed the guests to the school. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, formally presented the new building to the community. It was accepted by Homer Ambrose, trustee of the school, for the community, and by Sandra Lewis, Sixth Grade pupil, for the student body.

Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the County Board of Education, sang a solo, and Bruce High School Band of Westernport, directed by William Simpson, played several selections.

Charles Steiding, McCoole, gave the benediction.

Church Services Conducted For Area Ours, Hood Homes

KEYSER—The Spiritual Life department of the local WCTU has been conducting services in the Ours and Hood Convelescent Homes in the area, with pastors of local churches rotating each Sunday for devotionals.

Local music talent has given its services when available, but sometimes, according to those handling the program, music is not presented. However, those in charge say that Miss Shirley Snyder, has been very faithful in attendance and in offering her services. Others are needed to aid in supplying music when it is impossible for Miss Snyder to be present.

Last Sunday, Rev. W. Cecil Shepherd, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, was the speaker, and seing the need of more cooperation referred the matter to his congregation and suggested the need of a record player for the local home. A special offering was taken in his church and $48 was realized for the home. In addition, a record player was donated to the home by Mr. and Mrs. John Rice, and the money raised will now be used to purchase records of Old Time Hymns, Christmas and Easter records.

As a result of the movement started to aid in providing music for the inmates, Bersey Marple, of the Assembly of God Church, Westernport offered some records and the Pulliam Music Service in Keyser, has granted a ten percent discount on any purchase for the Home.

The plan calls for using records only when there is no local talent available. Mrs. Grace Foster, active in this work, has suggested that any local players of string instruments who would care to present some music and entertainment for these shut-ins, will be welcomed.

McCoole School Addition Opened

McCOOLE — A new addition to McCoole Elementary School was dedicated Wednesday evening in a ceremony in the school auditorium.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., member of the county delegation to the General Assembly, who was principal speaker, said a rapid increase in the number of pupils attending the school since 1944 had brought about a crowded condition. He said the addition would provide enough room for the overflow.

At one point during his talk, the auditorium lights went out because of an electrical overload caused by having all the lights in the building on at once.

Whitworth was introduced by Miss Jane Botsford, supervisor of elementary education in county schools.

Rev. Raymond Crowe, pastor of Cresaptown Methodist Church, opened the program with invocation, and Frederick H. Sheeley, former principal who is now a visiting teacher in county schools, was master of ceremonies.

Paul Arbogast, principal, welcomed the guests to the school. Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, formally presented the new building to the community. It was accepted by Homer Ambrose, trustee of the school, for the community, and by Sandra Lewis, Sixth Grade pupil, for the student body.

Kenneth R. Malcolm, president of the County Board of Education, sang a solo, and Bruce High School Band of Westernport, directed by William Simpson, played several selections.

Charles Steiding, McCoole, gave the benediction.

Morgan County Girl Gets Prize For Wool Outfit

West Virginia Girls Receive Ribbons

Patricia Stotler, Morgan County 4-H girl, was selected as the winner of the state-wide wool Outfit Contest held at Jackson's Mill, the State 4-H Camp, during the annual meeting of the West Virginia Wool Marketing Association.

Sponsored by the association, the contest was open to 4-H girls carrying the fifth-year clothing project (Your Wool Outfit). The highest-scoring girl from each county where the project is carried was eligible to participate in the state contest, which was under the direction of Miss Ruth Knoch, Agricultural Extension Service clothing specialist. Twenty-seven girls participated in the contest and modeled the wool outfits they made to meet the requirements of the project.

The Wool Marketing Association presented the winner with a cash award, and each contestant received a certificate and a ribbon in recognition of her participation in the state event.

Placings in the three ribbon groups were as follows:

RED RIBBON — Harriet Hammond, Berkeley; Norma Lou Wymer, Lewis; Velma Ellyson, Greenbrier; Elizabeth Hight, Mercer; Thelma Cunningham, Tyler; Ann Patterson, Harrison; Regina Ann Radcliff, Gilmer; Ann Smith, Doddridge; Rachel Ann Hess, Ritchie; Carol L. Bowman, Hardy, and Carol Sue Bohan, Randolph.

WHITE RIBBON — Jean Coe, Wood; Janet Wiley, Pleasants; Stella Gainer, Barbour; Lyla Jean Stump, Calhoun; Patsy Johns, Jackson; Pat Curtis, Pocahontas; Kitty Curry, Marion; Emma Anderson, Hancock, and Nina Collins, Brooke.

Church Services Conducted For Area Ours, Hood Homes

KEYSER—The Spiritual Life department of the local WCTU has been conducting services in the Ours and Hood Convelescent Homes in the area, with pastors of local churches rotating each Sunday for devotionals.

Local music talent has given its services when available, but sometimes, according to those handling the program, music is not presented. However, those in charge say that Miss Shirley Snyder, has been very faithful in attendance and in offering her services. Others are needed to aid in supplying music when it is impossible for Miss Snyder to be present.

Last Sunday, Rev. W. Cecil Shepherd, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, was the speaker, and seing the need of more cooperation referred the matter to his congregation and suggested the need of a record player for the local home. A special offering was taken in his church and $48 was realized for the home. In addition, a record player was donated to the home by Mr. and Mrs. John Rice, and the money raised will now be used to purchase records of Old Time Hymns, Christmas and Easter records.

As a result of the movement started to aid in providing music for the inmates, Bersey Marple, of the Assembly of God Church, Westernport offered some records and the Pulliam Music Service in Keyser, has granted a ten percent discount on any purchase for the Home.

The plan calls for using records only when there is no local talent available. Mrs. Grace Foster, active in this work, has suggested that any local players of string instruments who would care to present some music and entertainment for these shut-ins, will be welcomed.

Rosenmerkle Pleads Guilty To Embezzlement, Judge Delays Sentencing

A plea of guilty was entered by Harold J. Rosenmerkle, 40, formerly of this city, when he was arraigned in Circuit Court yesterday before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris on a charge of embezzlement.

Rosenmerkle was indicted by the October grand jury on five counts of embezzling funds of the Dapper Dan Club of Allegany County, Inc. in the amount of $1,165.49 from January to July of this year.

After hearing the facts in the case, Judge Harris said he would delay sentencing Rosenmerkle pending receipt of a report from David M. Steele, parole officer, on his background. The accused was ordered remanded to the custody of the sheriff until then.

Charge Serious

Judge Harris said the charge of embezzlement is a serious one, in fact, is a felony and could result in a sentence of 15 years in prison if the maximum penalty was levied.

"Embezzlements are usually a carefully planned series of transactions completed cooly and calmly," Judge Harris pointed out. "They are usually committed by persons who have positions of trust," he added.

In his outline of the case, State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, said that Rosenmerkle was elected secretary-treasurer of the Dapper Dan organization in January of 1952 and again in January of this year.

In May of this year the committee of the club which handled a circus sponsored by the organization met with Rosenmerkle and asked him about the bank balance. He allegedly told them that there was about $400 in an insurance fund and $700 in the fund for operating the Little League teams.

23 Cents In Bank

"Actually," Fletcher said, "there was at that time only 23 cents in the bank to the account of the club."

All withdrawals from the bank must be counter signed by the club president, but none of the funds handled by Rosenmerkle which were missing ever found their way to the bank, it was stated.

William L. Wilson Jr., one of Rosenmerkle's attorneys, made a plea for leniency stating that the accused had lived all his life in Cumberland and had no criminal record of any kind. He has been employed in Ohio and is willing to make restitution, Wilson said.

It was brought out at the hearing that in July the officers of the club met with Rosenmerkle and requested him to turn over the books of the club the next day. When he failed to do so the next day a sheriff's deputy accompanied the club officials to his home. He had gone to Ohio, where he was apprehended a few months later.

LaVale Water Tank Project Begins Soon

WILL SING HERE—The Boys Town Choir, of Boys Town, Neb., will be presented Tuesday at 8:15 p. m. in Fort Hill High School auditorium under the auspices of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club. Under the direction of Rev. Francis Schmitt, 50 of the 90 boys making up the choir will present a program of popular songs, sacred, classical and novelty numbers.

The last job in the second project to give LaVale an adequate water system will soon be underway, the LaVale Sanitary Commission announces.

The Pittsburgh-DesMoines Steel Company of Pittsburgh will begin erecting a 250,000-gallon tank in Allegany Grove next week.

The delivery of the large reservoir, which will cost about $23,000, has been delayed 15 months. The other portion of the second phase of the overall project, which covered LaVale west of Footer's Plant, was completed over a year ago by the contractor, the George Hazelwood Company.

That included laying larger and new mains along Route 40 from the new line that had been laid from Cumberland's city limits to Footer's Plant.

The first of two 250,000-gallon reservoirs was erected in the initial phase of the project in LaVale Orchards.

It impounds water for the eastern section of LaVale between Footer's Plant and Locust Grove.

The LaVale Sanitary Commission will have upon the completion of the second tank a modern water supply for the city's largest suburb.

Motorist Fined $10.75 For Reckless Driving

A Frostburg driver was fined $10.75 yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court after he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge resulting from a collision and property damage accident here.

Police said John Gerald Workman, 170 Maple Street, failed to observe a stop sign Sunday at the corner of Bedford and Decatur Streets and hit the car of Jack Lee Robinette, 523 Welch Avenue.

Churchill Says Red Imperialism Emerged Near War's End

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill says Communist imperialism began to emerge near the end of the war in "the deadly hiatus which existed between the fading of President Roosevelt's strength and the growth of President Truman's grip on the vast world problem."

"In this melancholy void one president could not act and the other could not know," says Sir Winston.

"Neither the military chiefs nor the State Department received the guidance they required. The former confined themselves to their professional sphere; the latter did not comprehend the issues involved. The indispensable political direction was lacking at the moment when it was most needed.

"The United States stood on the scene of victory, master of world fortunes, but without a true and coherent design."

The wartime and present British Prime Minister tells of the growing gulf between Russia and the English-speaking Allies in the fourth installment, published in Life magazine today, of "Triumph and Tragedy," the final volume of his Nobel prize winning memoirs.

Sir Winston recalls Russia had been critical of American and British efforts to bring about a surrender of German forces in Italy. President Roosevelt and Churchill also were much perturbed by what Sir Winston calls Russia's failure to live up to the Yalta understanding on a new government for Poland.

Sir Winston says he "was no longer being fully heard" by President Roosevelt whose strength then was ebbing.

Stalin, after exchanges of sharp notes with Roosevelt and Churchill, still was maintaining that any new Polish government must be friendly with Russia. An impasse had been reached when President Roosevelt died April 12, 1945.

Sir Winston says his first impulse was to fly to the United States for President Roosevelt's funeral.

"Mr. Truman's idea was that after the funeral I might have had two or three days' talk with him," recalls Sir Winston.

"Much pressure was, however, put on me not to leave the country at this critical and difficult moment, and I yielded to the wishes of my friends.

"In the after-light I regret that I did not adopt the new President's suggestion. I had never met him and I feel that there were many points on which personal talks would have been of the greatest value, especially if they had been spread over several days and not hurried or formalized.

"It seemed to me extraordinary, especially during the last few months, that Roosevelt had not made his deputy and potential successor thoroughly acquainted with the whole story and brought him into the decisions which were being taken.

"How could Mr. Truman know and weigh the issues at stake at this climax of the war? Everything that we have learned about him since shows him to be a resolute and fearless man."

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill says Communist imperialism began to emerge near the end of the war in "the deadly hiatus which existed between the fading of President Roosevelt's strength and the growth of President Truman's grip on the vast world problem."

"In this melancholy void one president could not act and the other could not know," says Sir Winston.

"Neither the military chiefs nor the State Department received the guidance they required. The former confined themselves to their professional sphere; the latter did not comprehend the issues involved. The indispensable political direction was lacking at the moment when it was most needed.

"The United States stood on the scene of victory, master of world fortunes, but without a true and coherent design."

The wartime and present British Prime Minister tells of the growing gulf between Russia and the English-speaking Allies in the fourth installment, published in Life magazine today, of "Triumph and Tragedy," the final volume of his Nobel prize winning memoirs.

Sir Winston recalls Russia had been critical of American and British efforts to bring about a surrender of German forces in Italy. President Roosevelt and Churchill also were much perturbed by what Sir Winston calls Russia's failure to live up to the Yalta understanding on a new government for Poland.

Sir Winston says he "was no longer being fully heard" by President Roosevelt whose strength then was ebbing.

Stalin, after exchanges of sharp notes with Roosevelt and Churchill, still was maintaining that any new Polish government must be friendly with Russia. An impasse had been reached when President Roosevelt died April 12, 1945.

Sir Winston says his first impulse was to fly to the United States for President Roosevelt's funeral.

"Mr. Truman's idea was that after the funeral I might have had two or three days' talk with him," recalls Sir Winston.

"Much pressure was, however, put on me not to leave the country at this critical and difficult moment, and I yielded to the wishes of my friends.

"In the after-light I regret that I did not adopt the new President's suggestion. I had never met him and I feel that there were many points on which personal talks would have been of the greatest value, especially if they had been spread over several days and not hurried or formalized.

"It seemed to me extraordinary, especially during the last few months, that Roosevelt had not made his deputy and potential successor thoroughly acquainted with the whole story and brought him into the decisions which were being taken.

"How could Mr. Truman know and weigh the issues at stake at this climax of the war? Everything that we have learned about him since shows him to be a resolute and fearless man."

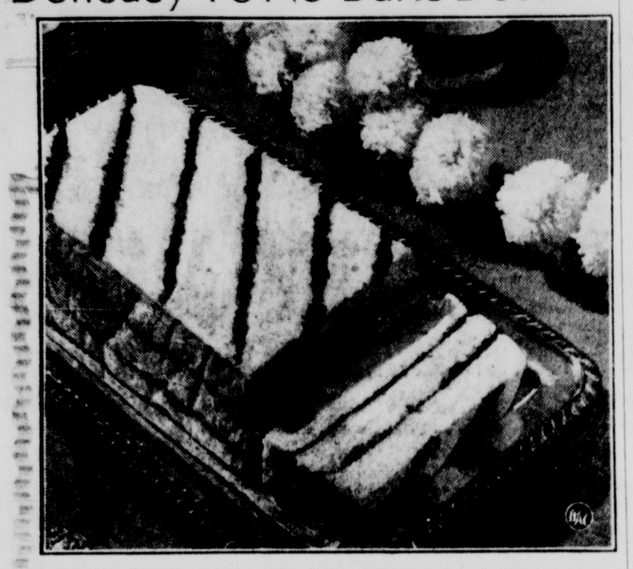
Unflavored Gelatine Gives Delicacy To No-Bake Dessert



THIS refrigerator chiffon made cake style and layered with chocolate cookies proves that you can have your cake and eat it too and still keep a waistline. See recipe elsewhere on the page for this low-calorie gelatine dessert.

Sometimes the hardest restriction to face on a diet is the cutting down on desserts . . . or eating desserts that have little eye-appeal.

A happy solution is this no-bake refrigerator cake made with unflavored gelatine. It has beauty and dessert satisfaction and very few calories into the bargain. In the first place, unflavored gelatine which creates the chiffon texture is all-protein . . . no sugar added. When the gelatine is combined with eggs, whipped evaporated milk, fresh lemon rind and non-caloric sweetening tablets the dessert adds up to only 86 calories per serving.

Low Calorie Refrigerator Chiffon Cake

(86 calories per serving)

¼ cup cold water
Non-caloric sweetening tablets (20 ¼-grains saccharine, or 20 ⅛-grams sucaryl)
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
⅛ cup lemon juice
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
3 eggs, separated
⅔ cup icy cold evaporated milk, whipped
6 chocolate cookies, finely rolled

Line an 8-cup loaf pan with waxed paper which has been cut to fit. Combine in top of double boiler, water, non-caloric sweeteening tablets, salt, lemon rind and lemon juice. Soften gelatine in liquid; stir in slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook over hot, not boiling water until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; cool, beat egg whites until stiff; fold in gelatine mixture. Fold in whipped evaporated milk. Spoon ⅓ of the mixture into prepared loaf pan; sprinkle with ½ of the crushed cookies. Repeat, ending with gelatine mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold; if desired, garnish with additional cookie crumbs.

YIELD: 10 servings.

Creamed Tuna On Rice Is Tops For Flavor

You have a real prize winner with this dish of creamed tuna on piping hot rice as you will plainly see as your family dives to this sensationally sumptuous rice and tuna main dish like hungry sea gulls. But you will be proud as a peacock as you watch your "crew" clean their plates, because you are so glad that you have made a hit with such an easily prepared and economical rice and tuna combination.

Ingredients:

¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
1¾ cups milk
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Grated rind of 1 lemon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 6½ ounce can chunk style tuna
2½ cups hot cooked rice

Preparing the fluffy white rice: To make 3 heaping cups of white, fluffy, perfectly cooked rice:

1. Put 1 cup of uncooked rice, 2 cups of cold water and 1 teaspoon of salt into a 2-quart saucepan and bring to a vigorous boil.

2. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover the saucepan with a lid. Do not remove lid nor stir rice while it is cooking.

3. Leave saucepan over this low heat for 14 minutes. Remove from the heat. The rice is now ready to use. However, leave the cover on the saucepan to keep the rice hot if you are not ready to use it immediately.

For extra convenience and economy of time and effort, cook 2 cups of rice, 4 cups of water and 2 teaspoons of salt — keeping the extra cups of unused ready-cooked rice in the refrigerator in a covered container. Use this rice as needed in quick, delicious and inexpensive soups, salads, casserole dishes, hot breads and desserts.

METHOD: Over a low heat, melt the butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in the flour. Slowly stir in the milk and blend and cook until thickened. Add the salt, pepper, lemon rind, nutmeg and tuna. Serve hot over the hot cooked rice.

This recipe makes 5 servings.

SET FOR CARVING

When dad gets ready to carve the dinner roast make sure that he has plenty of space in which to work. See that water glasses, vegetable dishes are not in his way. Place the meat platter directly in back of the dinner plates. If your platter is not several inches larger than the roast, then it's wise to have a second hot platter on which he can place the carved slices of meat. Be sure to keep garnishes simple enough so that he need not remove them before carving.

Three King Size Salads For Thanksgiving Dinner

Put your best dish forward this Thanksgiving. Cook the turkey to a golden brown. Make a king-size cranberry salad to serve with it. Here are three wonderful cranberry salads for your holiday table. One salad, tart and zippy. One rather sweet. One in between.

If you like something tart to eat with the turkey meat, choose Cranberry Lemon Mold. Here's a salad with just the zip a heavy meal needs.

CRANBERRY LEMON MOLD

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
- ½ cup cold water
- 2 Pound cans jellied cranberry sauce
- ½ cup lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind

Place gelatine in cup. Add cold water and let stand 2 minutes. Place cup in pan of boiling water until gelatine dissolves. Stir dissolved gelatine into cranberry sauce that has been crushed with a fork. Add lemon juice and rind. Spoon into a ring mold and chill until firm.

If you like some sweetness in a salad you'll choose Cranberry Cider Squares for your meal. This salad can be served right on the dinner plate.

CRANBERRY CIDER SQUARES

- 3 cups sweet cider
- 2 packages lemon or orange jello
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 pound cans whole cranberry sauce

Heat 1½ cups cider to boiling. Stir in jello until it dissolves. Add remaining 1½ cups col dcider. Stir in salt. Cool. Stir in whole cranberry sauce and pour into flat pan (6" x 10"). Chill until firm. Cut into 2-inch squares to serve.

Then there's a Cranberry Layer Salad for those who want a heavier salad . . . one that's not too tart or too sweet. Two cranberry squares sandwich a cottage cheese filling for the lettuce cup. Good to eat. Easy to make, too.

CRANBERRY LAYER SALAD

- 1 package raspberry gelatine
- 1½ cups boiling water
- 1 orange
- 1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce (crushed) or whole cranberry sauce (drained)
- ½ pint cottage cheese (seasoned to taste)

Dissolve raspberry gelatine according to directions on the package. Chill until mixture begins to jel. If jellied cranberry sauce is used, crush with a fork. If whole cranberry sauce is used, drain.

Quarter orange, remove seeds, put rind and pulp through food chopper. Fold cranberry sauce and sauce and orange into raspberry jello. Pour into square or oblong pan to ½ to ¾-inch depth. Chill until firm. Cut salad into 3-inch squares. Place one in each lettuce cup. Spread with layer of cottage cheese. Top with 2nd layer of salad to complete the "Salad Sandwich". Serve with desired dressing. Recipe serves 4 to 6.

Escalloped Oysters

- 3 cups coarsely rolled cracker crumbs
- 1 pint oysters, drained
- 1¾ cups milk
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 2 eggs, slightly beaten

Roll cracker crumbs and arrange about ¼ of them in the bottom of a well-buttered 1½ quart casserole. Place about ⅓ of the oysters on top. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Repeat layers using rolled cracker crumbs on top. Scald the milk; add butter and pour over the eggs, stirring constantly. Pour milk-egg mixture over prepared oyster casserole. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 1 hour. Serves 6.

MILLION DOLLAR BEER

That's right, Old German Beer this month will give away a natural ranch mink stole of matchless beauty, worth hundreds & hundreds of dollars. Old German, the beer that's so dry, so light, so smooth, so fine that its formula is insured for one million dollars, is giving away the one garment that provides a million dollar appearance.

No employee of the Brewery or its advertising agency nor any wholesaler or retailer or their employees selling Old German Beer is eligible to win the mink stole.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO:

Examine Old German bottle caps. Pry up the cork lining—it's easy with a key or nail file—and you'll find a letter there. Save your letters till you can spell out O-L-D G-E-R-M-A-N. Then send all nine letters or reasonable facsimiles thereof to Queen City Brewing Co., Cumberland, Md. In the same envelope complete this statement in 10 words or less "I prefer Old German Beer because . . . " Winning entry each month will be judged on basis of accuracy, cleverness and clarity. It is not necessary to buy the beer from which the caps come in order to win. The letter will be found in cap-sealed bottles or cans. Judges have no connection with Brewery and their decision is final.

Thanksgiving is a time when friends and relatives gather. If members of your family are coming home from school and you'll have other house guests, then it's time to start planning your Thanksgiving, as well as other dinner menus. Advance planning will save time later and will let you spend more leisure hours with your guests, a test of a good hostess.

For one festive dinner why not serve a generous pork loin roast? It will make such a gay appearance on the table. For a clever touch, strip the meat from the rib bones and top each bone with a tiny paper frill.

Be sure you purchase a large roast so there will be ample meat left for snack sandwich making and for an additional meal, perhaps combined in a sour cream sauce and served in noodle nests.

Roasting Pork

Roasting meat takes little of your attention. You can place the roast in a 350°F. oven and forget about it until near serving time. The modern way to roast meat is as follows: Place the meat fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not cover and do not add water to the pan.

If you have a roast meat thermometer be sure to use it. This eliminates guesswork. Inserted in the center of thickest section but not on bone or in fat, the thermometer will indicate when the roast has reached the degree of doneness you desire. You can plan on 35 to 40 minutes per pound for a center cut roast; 45 to 50 minutes per pound for an end roast. Let the roast stand in a warm place for 15 to 20 minutes after it comes from the oven to make carving easier.

Hamburgers With New Twist

Hamburgers are dressed up for this special dinner servings. For a surprisingly new flavor, the ground beef is combined with crushed corn flakes and tomatoes, then molded into patties, wrapped with bacon and broiled.

Fiesta Patties

1 pound ground beef
1 cup crushed corn flakes
1 cup cooked or canned tomatoes
1 egg
1 small onion, minced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
8 slices bacon

Combine ground beef, corn flakes, tomatoes, egg and seasonings. Shape into patties ¾ to 1-inch thick. Wrap slice of bacon around each patty and fasten with a wooden pick. Place patties on broiler rack and insert broiler rack and pan so the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. When the patties are nicely browned (10 to 12 minutes) turn and continue broiling until the other side is brown, about 8 minutes. 4 to 6 servings.

The superstition of bad luck resulting from the breaking of a mirror dates back to an ancient belief that a mirror produced a reflection of the soul. The surface therefore was guarded lest it be broken and the soul injured.

Pork Chops For Every Occasion

Pork chops go with November days. Here are some tips on pork chop buying to help you the next time you are at your market.

Your meat retailer has several types of chops—one to fit various cooking needs. The prized chop is cut from the center of the pork loin. You can compare this to beef's T-bone steak. The bone structure forms a "T" similar to beef T-bone so it is easily identified in the display case.

A second chop is the rib chop. This is excellent for serving with a stuffing. Have the chops cut thick, then using a sharp knife, cut down along the bone and into the meat. Fill the resulting cavity with a bread and onion stuffing or with a fruited combination. As the meat cooks it automatically seals the stuffing in the chop.

Pork shoulder chops or steaks are a third choice. They are especially good for cooking and serving over a casserole such as scalloped potatoes or Spanish rice. You'll often find them retailing for several cents per pound under the center-cut loin chops.

Braising is the method of preparing all of these pork chops. This means they are browned first, then covered closely and cooked slowly until done. This may be either on top of your range or in a moderate oven (350° F.).

Main Dish Beef Salad

Wise food shoppers frequently purchase a large roast with follow-up meals in mind. For example, a beef roast slowly cooked to be at its finest is a grand investment in good eating for several meals. After the first serving, wrap it closely and store in your refrigerator. Here's one tempting encore. Mince beef, combine with vegetable and toss with this spicy chili sauce dressing.

Square Meal Salad

2 cups minced leftover beef; ¾ cup chili sauce; ⅓ cup vinegar; ½ teaspoon tabasco sauce; 1 cup diced cooked potatoes; ½ cup sliced cooked beets; ½ cup cooked string beans, cut lengthwise; ½ cup sliced radishes; 1 cup chopped watercress; 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion; Salt.

Mix chili sauce, vinegar and tabasco sauce for salad dressing. Chill remaining ingredients. Combine beef, potatoes, beets, string beans, radishes, watercress, onion and salt. Add dressing and toss just before serving. 6 to 8 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?
A. Beef flank steak.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?
A. It comes from the flank section, as the name implies. This is an oval-shaped boneless steak weighing from ¾ to 1½ pounds. It is usually scored to shorten muscle fibers, and thus make it more tender.

Q. How is it prepared?
A. By braising. Dredge the meat with seasoned flour first, then brown in 2 or 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Add a small amount of liquid, cover closely and cook slowly until tender. This will be approximately 1 to 1½ hours. For a variation the steak may be rolled lengthwise like a jelly roll, skewered, then cut into individual servings for flanks steak fillets. They are prepared by the same braising method.

Sweet Potato Price Low, Supply Plentiful

Take advantage of the plentiful supply of sweet potatoes on the October market. You'll find their prices low from now to Thanksgiving.

That information comes from marketing specialist Charles Porter, University of Maryland.

Not only that, the sweet potato is a prize package of food value—rich in vitamin A with a fair quantity of vitamin C and small amounts of vitamin B and minerals. In energy value, the sweet potato surpasses the white potato. A medium sized sweet potato gives you about 150 calories to the white potato's 100. You get the most food value from sweet potatoes by cooking them in their jackets and peeling them afterwards.

Porter says the most popular commercial sweet potatoes in the state, Maryland Goldens and Porto Ricos, are now at their peak. Maryland Goldens, dry and mealy, are rather light in color, while Porto Ricos have a deep yellow or orange color and are moist.

You can tell the quality of a sweet potato by its outside appearance. Good quality potatoes are well-shaped, firm and bright. Badly misshapened potatoes and those with growth cracks or wire worm injury aren't desirable because of their wastefulness.

Sometimes you'll see small dark clay-colored spots on sweet potatoes which may unite and form dark blotches. These blotches are only skin deep and effect the appearance, not the flesh. Avoid buying a mixture of varieties because of differences in color, flavor and lack of uniformity in cooking.

Be careful how you store sweet potatoes, warns Porter. Although they are thought of as a non-perishable crop, sweet potatoes are very sensitive to temperature and moisture. According to the specialist, for home storage, sweet potatoes keep best at room temperature. Storage at a temperature below 50° for a prolonged length of time will bring about decay.

Commercial sweet potatoes are cured immediately after digging for 10 to 14 days at 80-85° in high humidity. Because of that, they aren't good keepers in home kitchens, and it's best to buy them in small lots and use promptly.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"He says I suffer from an incurable disease—the love of rich food."

Barbecued Beef Hit

Barbecued dishes have long found a popular spot in our American meals. Here's just such a barbecue dish you'll find a hit on many occasions. Beef round or arm steak is simply cut into individual pieces, rolled, then slowly braised in the savory sauce until tender.

Barbecued Beef Birds

1 beef round or arm steak, cut ½ inch thick; Salt to season; Thyme, if desired; ¼ cup lard or drippings; 2 tablespoons flour; 2 tablespoons prepared mustard; ¼ cup chopped onion; ½ teaspoon cloves; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon pepper; 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce; 1 cup juice from peach, crabapple, bread and butter or sweet pickles; 1 cup catchup.

Cut steak into pieces, approximately 3 x 4 inches. Sprinkle with salt and a few grains of thyme. Roll each piece and fasten with a wooden pick. Brown the rolls slowly in lard or drippings. Mix the flour and mustard to make a paste. Add remaining ingredients. Blend well and pour over rolls. Cover and cook slowly 1½ hours on top of range or in a slow oven (300°F.). 4 to 6 servings.

A parr is a young fish, especially a salmon.

Invite Your Friends For Chowder Supper

GATHER friends around a tureen of steaming chowder for a pleasant informal party. Nice the night before Thanksgiving or any Sunday eve. Condensed mushroom soup, diced ham and corn make the chowder. Serve with celery, cranberry sauce, hot cornbread.

A chowder supper, the night before or after Thanksgiving, can be as much of a celebration as the memorable holiday itself.

Filled with warmth and goodness, a steaming tureen seems a symbol of hospitality. A welcome to your family and friends. Everyone gathers gladly around the dining table. Or they pick up their own chowder bowls from the buffet, then settle comfortably around the living room to feast and chat.

Grand makings for the chowder come right from your kitchen shelf. Creamy rich condensed mushroom soup or chicken soup as the base. Golden kernels of corn. Cubes of rosy ham or some of the leftover turkey to round out the chowder. How's that for a bowlful of goodness to savor with relishes (cranberry sauce and celery) and hot buttery cornbread! Wedges of pumpkin pie appear as dessert.

Thanksgiving Mushroom Chowder

(4 servings. Double recipe to serve 8)

1 cup cooked ham, finely diced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 can (1¼ cup size) condensed cream of mushroom or chicken soup
1 can milk
1 can (2 cups) cream style corn

Brown ham in butter; add onion; cover and cook until limp. Blend in soup and milk; add corn. Heat but do not boil. Serve garnished with chopped green parsley.

Turkey Chowder: Cooked turkey may be used in the chowder instead of ham. Then add 1 cup turkey when adding corn. Use two tablespoons chopped pimiento for garnish instead of parsley.

Savory Meat Balls

¾ pound finely ground beef
¼ pound finely ground lean pork
½ pound finely ground veal
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups milk
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 tablespoon butter
Flour for dredging
Hot milk
1½ tablespoons flour
Buttered noodles

Combine meats and blend well. Beat eggs with the 1½ cups milk; pour over bread crumbs; allow to stand about ten minutes. Work softened crumbs into meat mixture. Add seasonings and the onion which has been cooked slightly in the butter. Shape into small balls and dredge in flour. Brown in butter in a large skillet. Add enough hot milk to just cover. Simmer about 30 minutes or until done. Thicken milk with 1½ tablespoons flour. Serve with butter-seasoned cooked noodles. Serves 8 to 10.

Hard Sauce

Cream ½ cup butter. Gradually add 1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar, blending well. Flavor with 2 teaspoons vanilla or any desired flavoring. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

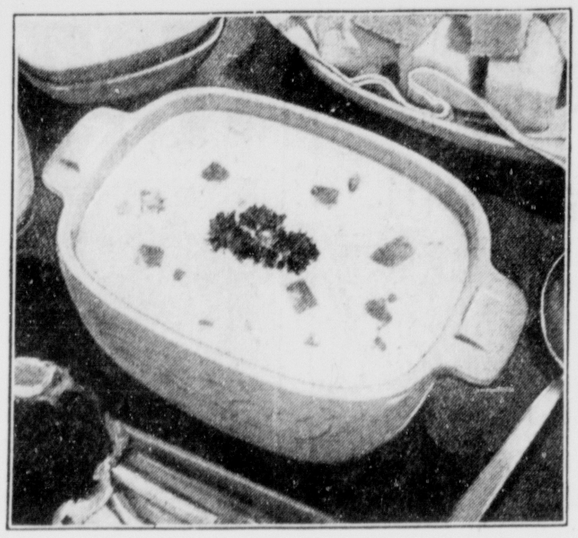
Invite Your Friends For Chowder Supper



GATHER friends around a tureen of steaming chowder for a pleasant informal party. Nice the night before Thanksgiving or any Sunday eve. Condensed mushroom soup, diced ham and corn make the chowder. Serve with celery, cranberry sauce, hot cornbread.

Savory Meat Balls

¾ pound finely ground beef
¼ pound finely ground lean pork
½ pound finely ground veal
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1½ cups milk
1 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 tablespoon butter
Flour for dredging
Hot milk
1½ tablespoons flour
Buttered noodles

Combine meats and blend well. Beat eggs with the 1½ cups milk; pour over bread crumbs; allow to stand about ten minutes. Work softened crumbs into meat mixture. Add seasonings and the onion which has been cooked slightly in the butter. Shape into small balls and dredge in flour. Brown in butter in a large skillet. Add enough hot milk to just cover. Simmer about 30 minutes or until done. Thicken milk with 1½ tablespoons flour. Serve with butter-seasoned cooked noodles. Serves 8 to 10.

Hard Sauce

Cream ½ cup butter. Gradually add 1½ cups sifted confectioners sugar, blending well. Flavor with 2 teaspoons vanilla or any desired flavoring. Makes about 1½ cups sauce.

A chowder supper, the night before or after Thanksgiving, can be as much of a celebration as the memorable holiday itself.

Filled with warmth and goodness, a steaming tureen seems a symbol of hospitality. A welcome to your family and friends. Everyone gathers gladly around the dining table. Or they pick up their own chowder bowls from the buffet, then settle comfortably around the living room to feast and chat.

Grand makings for the chowder come right from your kitchen shelf. Creamy rich condensed mushroom soup or chicken soup as the base. Golden kernels of corn. Cubes of rosy ham or some of the leftover turkey to round out the chowder. How's that for a bowlful of goodness to savor with relishes (cranberry sauce and celery) and hot buttery cornbread! Wedges of pumpkin pie appear as dessert.

Thanksgiving Mushroom Chowder

(4 servings.

Double recipe to serve 8)

1 cup cooked ham, finely diced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup finely chopped onion
1 can (1¼ cup size) condensed cream of mushroom or chicken soup
1 can milk
1 can (2 cups) cream style corn

Brown ham in butter; add onion; cover and cook until limp. Blend in soup and milk; add corn. Heat but do not boil. Serve garnished with chopped green parsley.

Turkey Chowder: Cooked turkey may be used in the chowder instead of ham. Then add 1 cup turkey when adding corn. Use two tablespoons chopped pimiento for garnish instead of parsley.

Stuffed With Corn Bread It's A Trick Of A Chick

The "tricks" that make good cooks are frequently simple. Roast chicken, always popular and demanded by many as the bird for the holiday season, provides an excellent example. Stuffed with a corn bread dressing, chicken takes on a delightfully different flavor. Ever since the early American homemakers first stuffed a wild bird with corn bread, daughters and granddaughters have carried on the tradition of frequently using this satisfying stuffing that resists sogginess and adds taste-appeal of its own.

Corn bread dressing is easy to make, because your favorite corn bread can be baked, either with plain or self-rising corn meal, a day or two in advance. Then, it just needs easy crumbling before the bread is combined with other ingredients and stuffed into the chicken.

Corn-Stuffed Roast Chicken

⅓ cup chopped onion
¾ cup bacon fat or melted butter
6 cups stale corn bread
1½ teaspoons salt
¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, well-beaten
3 to 4½ lb. young chicken, ready-to-cook weight
½ teaspoon salt

Brown onion in fat. Crumble corn bread coarsely and combine with remaining dry ingredients. Add egg, fat, and onion. Mix well. Season cavity of chicken with ½ teaspoon salt. Stuff chicken, skewer, brush skin with melted fat, and place on a rack, breast down, in open roasting pan. Roast at low temperature (325°F. 3 to 3½ hours. Turn breast up after 2½ hours of roasting. Baste occasionally with melted fat. Yield: 6 servings.

Corn Bread

¾ cup sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups corn meal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sweet milk (room temperature)
2 tablespoons melted butter

(If self-rising corn meal and flour are used, omit baking powder and salt from recipe.)

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Add corn meal and mix well. Combine beaten eggs, milk and butter and add to dry ingredients all at once. Stir only enough to just moisten the dry ingredients. Pour into greased 8-inch square pan and bake in moderately hot oven, 400°F., 20 to 25 minutes.

Although the element nitrogen is used in hundreds of different forms, its most important job by far is in fertilizers that enrich the earth.

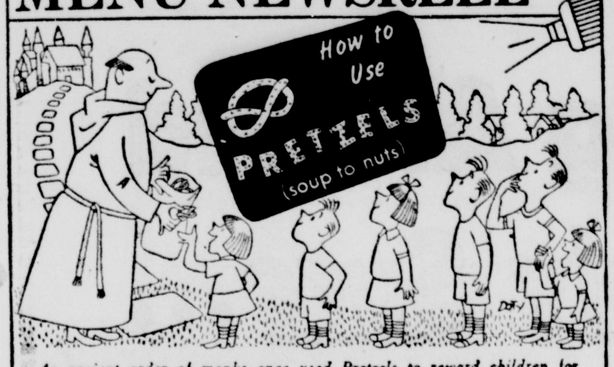
MENU NEWSREEL



An ancient order of monks once used Pretzels to reward children for good behavior. Today, you can reward all the family and your guests, too, by serving crisp pretzels with every course. They come in many different shapes, including regular pretzels, miniature pretzels, nuggets, rods and sticks.

With Appetizers: Pretzels are really good with tomato and fruit juices and add zest to the flavor of your favorite salad. Place several pretzels on each individual serving plate.

With Soups: Serve always-fresh pretzels with all your soups. They give just the right touch of salty crispness that brings out the true flavor of your favorite soup. Heap pretzels in two or three bowls placed conveniently around the table.

With Fish and Meats: Fish and oysters, shrimp and lobsters, naturally take to the salty crunchiness of pretzels. Serve the pretzels on your bread and butter plates. (They are good, too, when crushed and used in the stuffing of roast duck, chicken and turkey.)

With Desserts: Have you ever tried eating pretzels with ice cream, pies, or fruit desserts? You will be surprised how pretzels, with their large salt crystals, accent the flavor of your best desserts and make them taste better. Arrange the pretzels around each dessert plate.

So be sure to stock up with a good supply of pretzels in a variety of shapes for use with all your meals. Scientific, modern packaging keeps them fresh and crisp and ready to eat at any time.

Beef Loaf Glamour

Add glamour to meat loaf with a savory stuffing. In this case a well-seasoned bread stuffing is placed between two layers of a beef loaf mixture. Just before it goes in the oven, tomato juice is poured over the loaf.

Double-Stuffed Meat Loaf

2 pounds ground beef; 1½ teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 small onion, chopped; 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 cup dry bread crumbs; 2 eggs, beaten; ½ cup tomato juice; 1 cup soft bread crumbs; ½ teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon sage; 1 tablespoon grated onion; ¼ cup melted drippings, butter or margarine; 1 cup tomato juice.

Thoroughly combine meat, seasonings, onion, Worcestershire sauce,, the dry bread crumbs, eggs and ½ cup tomato juice. Place half meat mixture in greased 5 x 9-inch loaf pan. Make bread stuffing by combining soft bread crumbs, salt, sage, onion and melted fat; spread the stuffing over meat. Top with remaining meat mixture. Pour tomato juice over loaf. Bake in slow oven. (300°F.) for 1½ hours. 6 to 8 servings.

If Menu Is Monotonous Here's Way To Add Variety

If you're at the point where you're serving identical meals week after week, now is the time for a change. Monotony takes the fun out of cooking. There's likely to be a sign of slackened enthusiasm at mealtime on the part of your family.

It's easy to incorporate variety in your menus. For instance, you follow some of your old favorite recipes, but simply add new cooking liquids or seasonings, new garnishes. Each of these can give a grand new touch to your meat dish.

For example, when you buy round steak perhaps you habitually prepare it as Swiss steak. In addition to onion and tomatoes, you might add green pepper rings to the meat or add olives or mushrooms.

Or you might cut the steak into individual servings, top with a bread stuffing and roll. Fasten the rolls with round wooden picks, then braise the same as a Swiss steak, using water in place of tomatoes as the cooking liquid.

An instead of cooking your pot-roast with the usual stew vegetables, onions, potatoes and carrots, look to new vegetables. Try cauliflower, green pepper rings, squash, okra, sweet potatoes and fruits such as dried apricots, prunes or cranberries. Seasonings can give a new touch too—thyme, basil, chili powder. Prepare the pot-roast without vegetables and serve with potato pancakes, with Spanish rice or with noodles sprinkled with parsley.

Colorful garnishes also set off your meat dish. Let your dinner vegetables serve as a garnish — green pepper cups filled with whole kernel corn, cheese topped broiled tomato halves, big baked potatoes, slit and filled with butter or twice-baked potatoes, oven browned potatoes or French fries. Fall fruits such as apples and pears can be worked into your menu. You might fill the cavities with jelly or mincemeat.

Bite-Size Meat Balls Made With Evaporated Milk

Swedish style meat balls are the tiny, bite-size kind, made extra tender in this case because bread crumbs and evaporated milk are added in the ground beef. After browning they are put to one side while the good-flavored pan gravy is utilized in preparing the sauce for the green beans.

Canned green beans are one of our top-ranking vegetables because people are so enthusiastic about their flavor and firm texture. In addition, of course, they add interesting color and a good share of vitamins and minerals.

Individual Bean-Beef Casseroles

1 pound ground beef
½ cup evaporated milk
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onion, divided
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
¼ teaspoon pepper, divided
2 tablespoons fat
1 1-pound can green beans
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
2 cups hot cooked buttered rice

To ground beef, add evaporated milk, bread crumbs, half the onion, 1 teaspoon of the salt and half the pepper. Shape into 1-inch meat balls. Melt fat in skillet; add meat and brown; remove. Drain bean liquid into skillet in which meat was browned. Add remaining salt and pepper. Add beans and meat balls; heat to serving temperature. If desired, serve in individual casseroles or serving platter; spoon hot cooked rice around edge. YIELD: 4 servings.

Layered Beef Casserole

Casserole dishes are ever the cook's friend. Here's a simple combination that's put together in layers—whole kernel corn, ground beef mixture, sliced tomatoes, topped with buttered crumbs. Serve this casserole at a buffet affair, or take along to your next "pot-luck" supper.

Beef Vegetable Casserole

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup chopped onion
1 green pepper, sliced
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 No. 1 can whole kernel corn, drained
4 tomatoes, sliced
⅓ cup buttered bread crumbs

Brown onion and green pepper in lard or drippings for 3 minutes. Add meat and brown slowly. Season. Remove from heat. Place ½ of corn in the bottom of a 2-quart casserole. Add half of the meat mixture and then a layer of sliced tomatoes. Repeat layers. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 40 minutes. 6 servings.

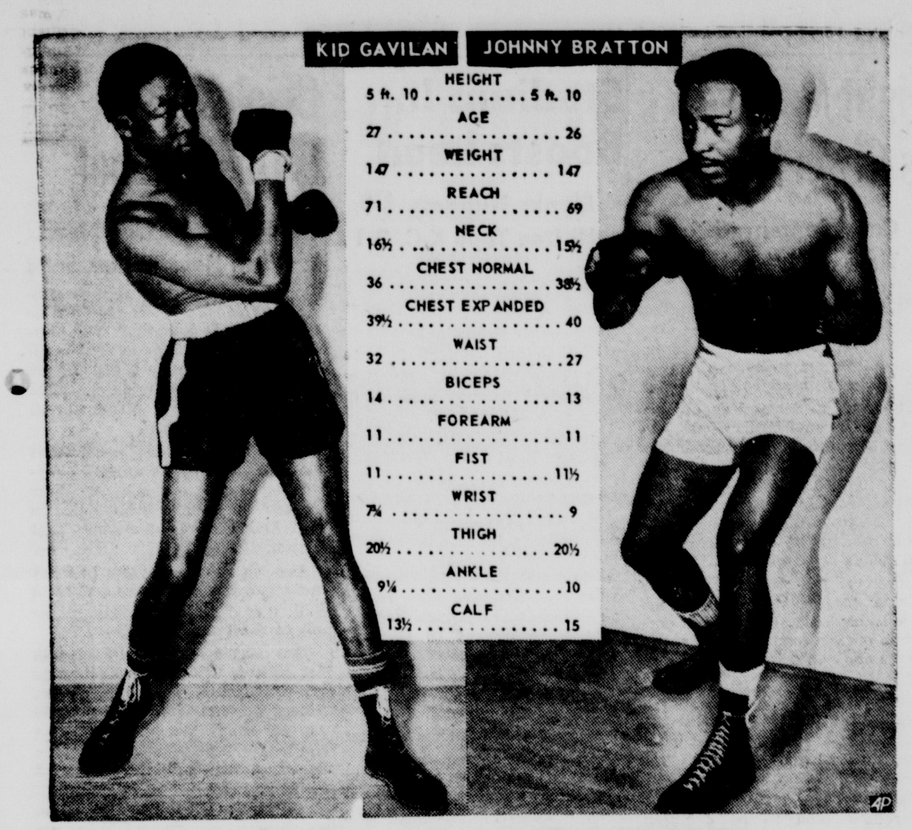
Gavilan, Bratton Clash For Welter Title



Champ Reigns 8-5 Choice In Chicago Bout

17,000 To Witness 15-Rounder; Cuban Must Make Weight

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Two of boxing's most furious little bombardiers, Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Johnny Bratton of Chicago, meet for the third time in a 15-round showdown for Gavilan's welterweight crown at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The 147-pound title fight will be televised nationally but blacked out locally—a fact expected to lure more than 17,000 into the arena where Bratton won the NBA version of the welterweight championship in March 1951.

A capacity 19,400 would produce a net gate of about $150,000. It also was in the Chicago stadium that Bratton fought a 10-round, non-title draw with Gavilan in November 1951 after the Kid had stripped Johnny of his NBA crown with a 15-round decision in New York five months earlier.

Gavilan, who has been promised a shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight title, is an 8-5 favorite to turn back Bratton's challenge.

Gavilan gets 40 per cent and Bratton 20 of the net gate and TV swag.

Gavilan is making his seventh title defense and has not had the difficulty getting down to title weight he had in his last start, an extremely worrisome effort against Carmen Basilio Sept. 18 at Syracuse, N. Y.

After that fight in which he was floored and needed all his ring artistry to get the decision, Gavilan said he was through with the welterweight division and wanted to take on Olson.

Today, Gavilan weighed a reported 149 and said he could get down to 147 by tomorrow's noon weighing.

Bratton, a natural welter, has prepared for this one. Like Gavilan he has never been knocked out and has been floored just once, one less time than Gavilan. In 112 fights, only Ike Williams and Basilio had Gavilan down. Back in 1945, one Robert Earl dropped Bratton, but then was knocked out by Johnny in the same round.

West Virginia University's Freshmen and Potomac State College will clash in football for the first time since 1948 when they lock horns today at 2 o'clock on Stayman Field, Keyser.

This is West Virginia's first freshmen team since 1950 and came into being when the Southern Conference invoked the "freshman rule" which was suspended for two years because of the Korean war.

Quentin Barnette is the head coach and his graduate assistants are Joe Berkich and Froggy Sawyers.

Roster Of Mountaineers

West Virginians who may see action are Walter Beene and Barry Blake, Mount Hope; Cecil Huss and Ernest Fuchs, Wheeling; Bill Craig, Farmington; Alex Szuch, Logan; Paul Shepherd, St. Marys and Dick Nichols, Nitro.

Today's game will be the final of the season for both Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts and the Morgantown eleven. The Mountaineer yearlings have played four games, winning two and losing a like number. Potomac State has chalked up three wins and suffered five defeats.

Eleven players will make their last appearance in Potomac State uniforms. All of the eleven have been regular starters or have given valuable assistance as substitutes.

Robert Barber, Richard Rishak and Harry Good are the ends who are finishing at State. The guards are Joe Caruso, Leonard Calandra and Bill Matthews, George Cooper is the center, and Ed Egan, Gene Gorman, Don Hobbs and Fred Lee are the backs who will be playing their last game for the Catamounts.

Play Fifth Home Game

Of the eight games played by Potomac, four were staged at Keyser and only one was a victory

Court Upholds NFL Television Blackout Rule

Home Contests Are Given Protection

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP) — The National Football League's right to "blackout" telecasting of league games which might compete with home games was upheld today by the U. S. District Court.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell promptly said the league won "its most important point" in the government's anti-trust suit attacking the league's controls over television and radio broadcasts.

But the league lost three other points. Outlawed by Judge Alan K. Grim were the league's:

Lose Three Points

1. Restrictions on telecasts of games to league cities when the home team is playing out of town.
2. Restrictions or radio broadcasts of league games.
3. Rule that Bell could veto radio and television broadcasting contracts to enforce radio and television restrictions.

What all the legal terminology means is this: For example, the league can prohibit the telecasting of the game between Cleveland and San Francisco into Philadelphia Sunday when the Philadelphia Eagles are at home against Baltimore.

When the Eagles play in New York, however, the league cannot prohibit the telecasting of a game, for instance, between the Detroit Lions and the Los Angeles Rams.

Radio Ban Illegal

The NFL constitution now prevents radio broadcasts of other games within the home area of a league team when that team is either playing at home or televising or broadcasting there a game it is playing away from home. But Judge Grim said "there is no evidence whatsoever indicating any adverse effect of radio broadcasts of outside games in the home territory of another club" and that such a broadcast "has no significicant effect on attendence at football games." He ruled the radio restrictions "illegal."

The decision came three days after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that baseball is a sport and not subject to the interstate commerce law.

Leahy Intends To Coach Irish Through 1955

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP) —Frank Leahy said today, health permitting, he intends to continue as Notre Dame's head football coach the remainder of a contract which extends through 1955.

Leahy, who collapsed with a stomach spasm Oct. 24, denied printed speculation he would quit at the end of the current season in which his fighting Irish thus far are undefeated in six games.

"I feel good physically now," said Leahy, who returned to the Irish helm last Thursday after a 12-day rest.

"I'm confident my health will permit me to finish this season and the remaining two years of my contract. If my doctor should say otherwise, that might change things, but I have never discussed the subject of the long range future with him.

"After 1955, I'll await the pleasure of the officials at Notre Dame. They always have treated me exceedingly well."

As You Were

Here is a fellow who pitched for Hyndman baseball teams for many years.

Born at Garrett, Pa., in 1893, his parents moved to Hyndman when he was a baby and since 1920 he has resided in Cumberland.

From 1915 to 1930, with the exception of the period he was in the army during the First World War, this right-hander, who possessed a good curve ball and won many games, appeared in the box scores of games played by Hyndman teams.

Can you name this former pitcher?

He is Charles D. Manges, desk sergeant for the Cumberland Police Department. Chief Robert Emmett Flynn and Officer John Henry Stutcher were pitching baseball in the days Manges was on the firing line for Hyndman teams. Manges will mark his 25th year as a member of the local police department November 24, 1953. The photo was taken in 1917.

Laminated Bats Make Debut In Organized Ball

Major Improvement First In 77 Years

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The first major improvement in baseball bats in 77 years won't turn a lot of major league ball players into Ralph Kiners, Hank Sauers and Ted Williamses, but it could help produce a new crop of home run hitters in a decade or so.

When the rules committee of professional baseball voted last week to permit use of laminated bats during the 1954 season, it was the first big change in bat specifications since the first rule was passed in 1876. It left a lot of fans wondering just what is a laminated bat and what effect will it have next season.

Sam Doak, representative of the Bancroft Racket Co., pioneer manufacturers of this kind of bat, has the answers: It's a bat with a college education and the immediate effect won't be noticeable to the fans or in the batting averages.

Gets Name From Strips

Instead of being made from a solid piece of ash wood, a laminated bat is composed of four strips of ash and one of hickory, glued together under great pressure and then turned and sanded into shape like any other bat. That's where it gets the name—from the strips, or laminae.

It's more durable than solid wood, a bit more resilient and capable of absorbing shocks, usually better balanced and has a better "feel."

But so far as producing hits, the only difference will be that a hitter isn't as likely to break a favorite stick and have to use one in which he has less confidence.

Should Help Kids

The long range effect, and one which the major league rules makers had in mind when they authorized use of the new bat, is that it should help kid players to become better hitters.

The cost factor of reduced breakage — a laminated outlasts two or three times longer than a solid one—isn't important to the big leagues. But it is to the minor leagues, colleges, high schools, sandlots and playgrounds and to the kid who buys his own.

Sign Bowl Pact Sunday

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP)—Formal signing of the two-year pact between the Orange Bowl and the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast Conferences is scheduled Sunday in Washington, D. C.

The conferences agreed in negotiations completed several weeks ago to furnish the Orange Bowl teams for the next two New Year's Day games.

Oklahoma and Maryland have dominated the two circuits so far and are favored to meet in the first game under the pact.

Gavilan, Bratton Clash For Welter Title

17,000 To Witness 15-Rounder; Cuban Must Make Weight

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Two of boxing's most furious little bombardiers, Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Johnny Bratton of Chicago, meet for the third time in a 15-round showdown for Gavilan's welterweight crown at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night.

The 147-pound title fight will be televised nationally but blacked out locally—a fact expected to lure more than 17,000 into the arena where Bratton won the NBA version of the welterweight championship in March 1951.

A capacity 19,400 would produce a net gate of about $150,000. It also was in the Chicago stadium that Bratton fought a 10-round, non-title draw with Gavilan in November 1951 after the Kid had stripped Johnny of his NBA crown with a 15-round decision in New York five months earlier.

Gavilan, who has been promised a shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight title, is an 8-5 favorite to turn back Bratton's challenge.

Gavilan gets 40 per cent and Bratton 20 of the net gate and TV swag.

Gavilan is making his seventh title defense and has not had the difficulty getting down to title weight he had in his last start, an extremely worrisome effort against Carmen Basilio Sept. 18 at Syracuse, N. Y.

After that fight in which he was floored and needed all his ring artistry to get the decision, Gavilan said he was through with the welterweight division and wanted to take on Olson.

Today, Gavilan weighed a reported 149 and said he could get down to 147 by tomorrow's noon weighing.

Bratton, a natural welter, has prepared for this one. Like Gavilan he has never been knocked out and has been floored just once, one less time than Gavilan. In 112 fights, only Ike Williams and Basilio had Gavilan down. Back in 1945, one Robert Earl dropped Bratton, but then was knocked out by Johnny in the same round.

This is West Virginia's first freshmen team since 1950 and came into being when the Southern Conference invoked the "freshman rule" which was suspended for two years because of the Korean war.

Quentin Barnette is the head coach and his graduate assistants are Joe Berkich and Froggy Sawyers.

Roster Of Mountaineers

West Virginians who may see action are Walter Beene and Barry Blake, Mount Hope; Cecil Huss and Ernest Fuchs, Wheeling; Bill Craig, Farmington; Alex Szuch, Logan; Paul Shepherd, St. Marys and Dick Nichols, Nitro.

Today's game will be the final of the season for both Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's Catamounts and the Morgantown eleven. The Mountaineer yearlings have played four games, winning two and losing a like number. Potomac State has chalked up three wins and suffered five defeats.

Eleven players will make their last appearance in Potomac State uniforms. All of the eleven have been regular starters or have given valuable assistance as substitutes.

Robert Barber, Richard Rishak and Harry Good are the ends who are finishing at State. The guards are Joe Caruso, Leonard Calandra and Bill Matthews, George Cooper is the center, and Ed Egan, Gene Gorman, Don Hobbs and Fred Lee are the backs who will be playing their last game for the Catamounts.

Court Upholds NFL Television Blackout Rule

Home Contests Are Given Protection

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP)—The National Football League's right to "blackout" telecasting of league games which might compete with home games was upheld today by the U. S. District Court.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell promptly said the league won "its most important point" in the government's anti-trust suit attacking the league's controls over television and radio broadcasts.

But the league lost three other points. Outlawed by Judge Alan K. Grim were the league's:

Lose Three Points

1. Restrictions on telecasts of games to league cities when the home team is playing out of town.

2. Restrictions or radio broadcasts of league games.

3. Rule that Bell could veto radio and television broadcasting contracts to enforce radio and television restrictions.

What all the legal terminology means is this: For example, the league can prohibit the telecasting of the game between Cleveland and San Francisco into Philadelphia Sunday when the Philadelphia Eagles are at home against Baltimore.

When the Eagles play in New York, however, the league cannot prohibit the telecasting of a game, for instance, between the Detroit Lions and the Los Angeles Rams.

Radio Ban Illegal

The NFL constitution now prevents radio broadcasts of other games within the home area of a league team when that team is either playing at home or televising or broadcasting there a game it is playing away from home. But Judge Grim said "there is no evidence whatsoever indicating any adverse effect of radio broadcasts of outside games in the home territory of another club" and that such a broadcast "has no significicant effect on attendence at football games." He ruled the radio restrictions "illegal."

The decision came three days after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that baseball is a sport and not subject to the interstate commerce law.

Leahy Intends To Coach Irish Through 1955

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP)—Frank Leahy said today, health permitting, he intends to continue as Notre Dame's head football coach the remainder of a contract which extends through 1955.

Leahy, who collapsed with a stomach spasm Oct. 24, denied printed speculation he would quit at the end of the current season in which his fighting Irish thus far are undefeated in six games.

"I feel good physically now," said Leahy, who returned to the Irish helm last Thursday after a 12-day rest.

"I'm confident my health will permit me to finish this season and the remaining two years of my contract. If my doctor should say otherwise, that might change things, but I have never discussed the subject of the long range future with him.

"After 1955, I'll await the pleasure of the officials at Notre Dame. They always have treated me exceedingly well."

As You Were

Here is a fellow who pitched for Hyndman baseball teams for many years.

Born at Garrett, Pa., in 1893, his parents moved to Hyndman when he was a baby and since 1920 he has resided in Cumberland.

From 1915 to 1930, with the exception of the period he was in the army during the First World War, this right-hander, who possessed a good curve ball and won many games, appeared in the box scores of games played by Hyndman teams.

Can you name this former pitcher?

He is Charles D. Manges, desk sergeant for the Cumberland Police Department. Chief Hobert Emmett Flynn and Officer John Henry Stitcher were pitching baseball in the days Manges was on the firing line for Hyndman teams. Manges will mark his 25th year as a member of the local police department November 24, 1953. The photo was taken in 1917.

Laminated Bats Make Debut In Organized Ball

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—The first major improvement in baseball bats in 77 years won't turn a lot of major league ball players into Ralph Kiners, Hank Sauers and Ted Williamses, but it could help produce a new crop of home run hitters in a decade or so.

When the rules committee of professional baseball voted last week to permit use of laminated bats during the 1954 season, it was the first big change in bat specifications since the first rule was passed in 1876. It left a lot of fans wondering just what is a laminated bat and what effect will it have next season.

Sam Doak, representative of the Bancroft Racket Co., pioneer manufacturers of this kind of bat, has the answers: It's a bat with a college education and the immediate effect won't be noticeable to the fans or in the batting averages.

Gets Name From Strips

Instead of being made from a solid piece of ash wood, a laminated bat is composed of four strips of ash and one of hickory, glued together under great pressure and then turned and sanded into shape like any other bat. That's where it gets the name—from the strips, or laminae.

It's more durable than solid wood, a bit more resilient and capable of absorbing shocks, usually better balanced and has a better "feel."

But so far as producing hits, the only difference will be that a hitter isn't as likely to break a favorite stick and have to use one in which he has less confidence.

Should Help Kids

The long range effect, and one which the major league rules makers had in mind when they authorized use of the new bat, is that it should help kid players to become better hitters.

The cost factor of reduced breakage — a laminated outlasts two or three times longer than a solid one—isn't important to the big leagues. But it is to the minor leagues, colleges, high schools, sandlots and playgrounds and to the kid who buys his own.

Old Germans Will Receive Seven Trophies At Dinner

Kauffman, Williams, Geatz, Deremer Get Awards On Saturday

Seven of the eight trophies offered to teams and individuals by the Bi-State Baseball League will go to the Cumberland Old Germans, pennant winners and champions, at the league's annual dinner Saturday night at 6 o'clock at the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Home, it was announced last night by Carl "Pete" Dicken, secretary-treasurer.

Tommy Donnelly, of Westvaco, who was the league's batting champion with an average of .461 for 47 hits in 102 official at bat is the only player to crash the awards column outside of the Cumberland team and its players.

Kauffman Tops Pitchers

Dicken announced that Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, of Keyser, president of the league, has advised him that Jack Kauffman, of the Old Germans, is entitled to the award for the pitcher with the highest average in 10 or more games. Kauffman figured in 13 contests and posted a 9-0 record. There had been some discussion over whether Kauffman or Bobby Raines, of Westvaco, had qualified for this award.

Bobby Williams of the Old Germans earned two of the eight awards. He was the league's home run king with five circuit blasts and batted in the most runs, a total of 34.

Pete Deremer of the Champions copped the trophy that goes to the leading base stealer by pilfering an even dozen hassocks.

George Geatz Repeats

Two ballots were necessary to determine the league's most valuable player and that honor went to George Geatz, the Old G's all-around star, who won the prize last year while playing with the Hyndman Firemen. The first vote ended in a tie while only four teams balloted the second time, McCoole and Grantsville dissenting. Geatz received the votes of Managers "Pepper" Inskeep and George Urbas of the Old Germans. Lefty Bob Crump of Mt. Savage and Jim Gaffney of the Frostburg Demons got the other votes.

Team trophies will go to the Old Germans for winning the pennant in a playoff series with Westvaco and the championship series with the Papermakers. Dicker said that the managers reached a mutual agreement prior to the pennant playoff that final league averages would include the opening game only.

Donors of trophies other than those given by the league are Wilson Hardware Company, Sports Shoppe, Queen City Brewing Company, C. O. Bender of Grantsville and Edward J. Ryan.

A gift also will be presented to Edward J. Ryan, Commissioner of the league.

Kimble Will Speak

William V. Keegan will act as toastmaster at Saturday's turkey dinner. The guest speaker will be State Senator Robert B. Kimble. William H. Buchholtz will deliver the invocation.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 12 (AP) — The University of Maryland Terrapins donned sweatsuits today to zip through a final workout for Saturday's game against Mississippi here.

The Terps will be out to avenge 21-14 licking by the Rebels last year which snapped an 18-game Maryland winning streak.

The Mississippi squad is expected to arrive in Washington at 3:20 p.m. tomorrow and has a 4 p.m. workout scheduled at nearby Griffith Stadium.

Glickfield Asks For Reversal Of Court Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — A Washington youth, convicted of trying to bribe a University of Maryland football player to hold down the score in a game last year, asked the Court of Appeals today to reverse the Prince George's County court decision.

Lawyers for Louis L. Glickfield, 22, a student at the University himself until the case broke, said the law under which he was convicted is unconstitutional and that the football star he was charged with attempting to "fix" despised him and should have been ignored.

They told the high court that testimony of the player, Tom Cosgrove, center of Maryland's team last year, also should have been disregarded because of his admission that he had been involved in the theft of examination papers at the school.

Glickfield, now on indefinite leave from the Army pending the outcome of his appeal, was convicted of offering Cosgrove a roll of $100 bills if he would foul up play to hold the winning margin to less than 21 points, the figure by which gamblers said Maryland would beat Louisiana State. Maryland won by 28 points, 34-6.

John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh presided.

The next meeting of the association is set for Wednesday, November 18 at 8 p. m. at the "Y." Coaches and others interested in the new rules are invited to be present.

Fight Manager Is Given Life

Coco Sentenced 2nd Time In Miami Court

MIAMI, Nov. 12 (INS)—Former big-time fight manager Eddie Coco of New York today received his second life sentence in Miami in the slaying of a negro car washer.

The first sentence was ordered last year by a Circuit Court jury which heard the pudgy ex-manager of former middleweight champ Rocky Graziano tried on a first degree murder charge following the shooting of Johnny Smith. Smith was killed near Coco's Miami Beach apartment Feb. 1, 1951.

However, the supreme court of Florida granted Coco a new trial on a technicality. His second conviction on a second degree murder charge came in criminal court Oct. 29.

Judge Ben C. Willard denied a motion for a new trial, but continued Coco's $25,000 appeal bond while the case is prepared for review of a higher court.

The 43-year-old defendant also entered a plea to be declared insolvent—which would make the state pay the costs of a trial if another is granted.

Judge Willard withheld action on the insolvency plea.

Dykes To Get $10,000 For Not Managing A's

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (INS) Jimmy Dykes, newly-appointed manager to the Baltimore Orioles, will receive $10,000 for not managing the Philadelphia Athletics next season.

Roy Mack, A's executive vice president, denied that the Orioles purchased Dykes contract from the Philadelphia club.

Mack said that Dykes asked for and received his outright release and is being paid $10,000 as a settlement for his managerial contract.

The local Knights, tied with Frostburg K. of C. for second place prior to last night's matches, dropped two games to the Hi Dee Club.

No report was received on the Frostburg K. of C.-Purple Heart match staged here.

Fisher and Robinette won three games from Farrady Post, American Legion, at Frostburg, and tied the Cumberland K. of C., each team owning 15-9 records.

Other results were: Cas Taylor's 2, Cumberland VFW 1; Hann's Tavern 2, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 1 and Amvets 3, Mike Miller's, Frostburg 0.

High scorers were: Al Martin, Amvets, 26; Crowe, Mike Miller's, 12; Glen Watson, Cumberland VFW 23; Bob Powers, Cas Taylor's, 19; Miller, Hi Dee Club, 16; Stitcher, Cumberland K. of C., 18; Leo Twigg, Fisher & Robinette, 16; "Sonny" Dayton, Frostburg Legion, 19; Wilson, Hann's Tavern, 19; C. Hubs Play Final Game

Hagerstown High School winds up its 1953 football campaign tonight by playing Frederick High School's Cadets in Frederick.

Mel Henry's Hubs own a 1-5-1 record while Frederick has won two and lost five.

Orioles' Pilot Is On The Spot

Team Does Not Need Much Help, Dykes Says

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP) — Jimmy Dykes knowingly put himself on the spot today as first manager of the Baltimore Orioles by declaring "I don't think we need very much help to make a real contender."

Dykes echoed others' beliefs that the St. Louis Browns weren't "anywhere nearly as bad as they looked" in finishing a sorry last in the American League the past season.

Also as others, Dykes believes the players will perform better in Baltimore with enthusiastic backing of the fans.

This was just the kind of talk Art Ehlers, Oriole general manager, apparently wanted to hear. Ehlers decided it would better to pay off Marty Marion rather than continue him as manager from the Browns after talking with him Monday.

Marion had disagreed with statements that the Browns could be built into a first division team within one year simply by moving to Baltimore.

"I felt a change was necessary for Baltimore," Ehlers said at luncheon to introduce Dykes. "I felt if I could get Dykes he could do the Orioles and Baltimore the most good. That's the reason the change was made."

The 57-year-old Dykes, who was hired yesterday after being bounced by the Philadelphia Athletics last Wednesday, talked right down Ehlers' enthusiastic alley.

"The Browns had a nucleus of a good club and it wasn't as bad as pictured," he said, conceding his optimism "may come back and hit me in the face, but that's what I believe."

Old Germans Will Receive Seven Trophies At Dinner

Kauffman, Williams, Geatz, Deremer Get Awards On Saturday

Seven of the eight trophies offered to teams and individuals by the Bi-State Baseball League will go to the Cumberland Old Germans, pennant winners and champions, at the league's annual dinner Saturday night at 6 o'clock at the Cumberland Loyal Order of Moose Home, it was announced last night by Carl "Pete" Dicken, secretary-treasurer.

Tommy Donnelly, of Westvaco, who was the league's batting champion with an average of .461 for 47 hits in 102 official at bat is the only player to crash the awards column outside of the Cumberland team and its players.

Kauffman Tops Pitchers

Dicken announced that Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, of Keyser, president of the league, has advised him that Jack Kauffman, of the Old Germans, is entitled to the award for the pitcher with the highest average in 10 or more games. Kauffman figured in 13 contests and posted a 9-0 record. There had been some discussion over whether Kauffman or Bobby Raines, of Westvaco, had qualified for this award.

Bobby Williams of the Old Germans earned two of the eight awards. He was the league's home run king with five circuit blasts and batted in the most runs, a total of 34.

Pete Deremer of the Champions copped the trophy that goes to the leading base stealer by pilfering an even dozen hassocks.

George Geatz Repeats

Two ballots were necessary to determine the league's most valuable player and that honor went to George Geatz, the Old G's all-around star, who won the prize last year while playing with the Hyndman Firemen. The first vote ended in a tie while only four teams balloted the second time, McCoole and Grantsville dissenting. Geatz received the votes of Managers "Pepper" Inskeep and George Urbas of the Old Germans. Lefty Bob Crump of Mt. Savage and Jim Gaffney of the Frostburg Demons got the other votes.

Team trophies will go to the Old Germans for winning the pennant in a playoff series with Westvaco and the championship series with the Papermakers. Dicker said that the managers reached a mutual agreement prior to the pennant playoff that final league averages would include the opening game only.

Donors of trophies other than those given by the league are Wilson Hardware Company, Sports Shoppe, Queen City Brewing Company, C. O. Bender of Grantsville and Edward J. Ryan.

A gift also will be presented to Edward J. Ryan, Commissioner of the league.

Kimble Will Speak

William V. Keegan will act as toastmaster at Saturday's turkey dinner. The guest speaker will be State Senator Robert B. Kimble. William H. Buchholtz will deliver the invocation.

Sixty players participated in the annual foursome tests.

Prizes earned at the men's spring and fall tournaments will be presented.

Mississippi Gridders Will Arrive Today

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 12 (AP) — The University of Maryland Terrapins donned sweatsuits today to zip through a final workout for Saturday's game against Mississippi here.

Spirit remained high and injuries low. "They're really pepped up for this one," said an aide to Coach Jim Tatum following today's drills.

The Terps will be out to avenge 21-14 licking by the Rebels last year which snapped an 18-game Maryland winning streak.

The Mississippi squad is expected to arrive in Washington at 3:20 p.m. tomorrow and has a 4 p.m. workout scheduled at nearby Griffith Stadium.

Glickfield Asks For Reversal Of Court Decision

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 12 (AP) — A Washington youth, convicted of trying to bribe a University of Maryland football player to hold down the score in a game last year, asked the Court of Appeals today to reverse the Prince George's County court decision.

Lawyers for Louis L. Glickfield, 22, a student at the University himself until the case broke, said the law under which he was convicted is unconstitutional and that the football star he was charged with attempting to "fix" despised him and should have been ignored.

They told the high court that testimony of the player, Tom Cosgrove, center of Maryland's team last year, also should have been disregarded because of his admission that he had been involved in the theft of examination papers at the school.

Glickfield, now on indefinite leave from the Army pending the outcome of his appeal, was convicted of offering Cosgrove a roll of $100 bills if he would foul up play to hold the winning margin to less than 21 points, the figure by which gamblers said Maryland would beat Louisiana State. Maryland won by 28 points, 34-6.

Jim Roby Is Reelected Basketball Secretary

James M. "Jim" Roby was reelected secretary of the Eastern West Virginia and Western Maryland Basketball Officials Association last night at a meeting in the Central YMCA.

Roby will serve as a clearing house for cage officials and coaches will contact him when referees are sought for games.

John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh presided.

The next meeting of the association is set for Wednesday, November 18 at 8 p. m. at the "Y." Coaches and others interested in the new rules are invited to be present.

Cresaptown Firemen Annex Shuffle Match

Cresaptown Firemen won two out of three games from the Hi Dee Club last night in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

The win gave Cresaptown an 8-10 record. Hi Dee Club has won 10 and lost eight.

W. Ware paced the winning team with 27 points while A. Gibson led Hi Dee with 26.

Fight Manager Is Given Life

Coco Sentenced 2nd Time In Miami Court

MIAMI, Nov. 12 (INS)—Former big-time fight manager Eddie Coco of New York today received his second life sentence in Miami in the slaying of a negro car washer.

The first sentence was ordered last year by a Circuit Court jury which heard the pudgy ex-manager of former middleweight champ Rocky Graziano tried on a first degree murder charge following the shooting of Johnny Smith. Smith was killed near Coco's Miami Beach apartment Feb. 1, 1951.

However, the supreme court of Florida granted Coco a new trial on a technicality. His second conviction on a second degree murder charge came in criminal court Oct. 29.

Judge Ben C. Willard denied a motion for a new trial, but continued Coco's $25,000 appeal bond while the case is prepared for review of a higher court.

The 43-year-old defendant also entered a plea to be declared insolvent—which would make the state pay the costs of a trial if another is granted.

Judge Willard withheld action on the insolvency plea.

Dykes To Get $10,000 For Not Managing A's

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (INS) Jimmy Dykes, newly-appointed manager to the Baltimore Orioles, will receive $10,000 for not managing the Philadelphia Athletics next season.

Roy Mack, A's executive vice president, denied that the Orioles purchased Dykes contract from the Philadelphia club.

Mack said that Dykes asked for and received his outright release and is being paid $10,000 as a settlement for his managerial contract.

Stadium Inn Boosts Lead

Blanks Nuggets, 3-0; Hi Dee Tops K-C, 2-1

Stadium Inn of Frostburg increased its lead over the Cumberland K. of C. to four games by defeating Golden Nugget, 3-0, last night in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League. Stadium Inn now has a 19-5 record.

The local Knights, tied with Frostburg K. of C. for second place prior to last night's matches, dropped two games to the Hi Dee Club.

No report was received on the Frostburg K. of C.-Purple Heart match staged here.

Fisher and Robinette won three games from Farrady Post, American Legion, at Frostburg, and tied the Cumberland K. of C., each team owning 15-9 records.

Other results were: Cas Taylor's 2, Cumberland VFW 1; Hann's Tavern 2, Mt. Savage V.F.W. 1 and Amvets 3, Mike Miller's, Frostburg 0.

Hubs Play Final Game

Hagerstown High School winds up its 1953 football campaign tonight by playing Frederick High School's Cadets in Frederick.

Mel Henry's Hubs own a 1-5-1 record while Frederick has won two and lost five.

Orioles' Pilot Is On The Spot

Team Does Not Need Much Help, Dykes Says

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP) — Jimmy Dykes knowingly put himself on the spot today as first manager of the Baltimore Orioles by declaring "I don't think we need very much help to make a real contender."

Dykes echoed others' beliefs that the St. Louis Browns weren't "anywhere nearly as bad as they looked" in finishing a sorry last in the American League the past season.

Also as others, Dykes believes the players will perform better in Baltimore with enthusiastic backing of the fans.

Two nearby West Virginia schools will occupy the spotlight today as Richard "Dick" McElwee's Romney Pioneers battle Fred "Tack" Clark's Keyser Golden Tornado for the football championship of the Potomac Valley Conference.

Romney will be the scene of action and the game is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock.

One year ago the same teams met for the title and Keyser nosed out the Hampshire countians by holding the Pioneers to a 14-14 tie. The fact that Keyser had played one more game and scored one more victory than Romney gave the Mineral eleven the championship.

Schools Have 4-0 Records

Today the schools will go into battle on more even terms as each boasts 4-0 records in the conference. The winner will be recognized as champion of the nine-school circuit. There will be co-champions, however, if the battle ends in a tie.

Romney is undefeated this season and puts a 9-game winning skein on the line. The McElwee-coached outfit has whipped Franklin, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Petersburg in conference tilts. Keyser has knocked off Ridgeley, Moorefield, West Virginia School for the Deaf and Petersburg in PVC competition and owns an overall record of 7-2. The only setbacks came at the hands of two Cumberland teams, LaSalle and Allegany.

Last fall Romney owned a 4-0 record and Keyser had won five straight before their championship battle.

The Pioneers always have found Keyser a tough foe. In fact, the last time Romney beat KHS was 11 years ago. Since then the schools have met eight times, Keyser has won six while two contests ended in ties.

Courrier Versus Parker

The game brings together two of the top scorers in the tri-state area as well as the P.V.C. Ernie Courrier of Keyser paces the area and also the conference point getters with 104 and 56, respectively. Roger Parker, of Romney, is fourth in the P.V.C. with 37 and second in the area with 86. Courrier was the top scorer in the P.V.C. last season.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Bantam Title Bout Set For Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 12 (AP)—Jimmy Carruthers, Australia's inexperienced champion, and Pappy Gaulta, a so-far unimpressive challenger from Spartanburg, S.C., meet here tomorrow for the world bantamweight championship.

And, in spite of his lack of big time experience, Carruthers is favored to retain the title he won from South Africa's Vic Toweel a year ago.

The outdoor fight at the Sydney Sports Ground is expected to draw some 30,000 spectators at prices ranging up to $21 a head. Starting time is 9:15 p.m. local time (6:15 a.m. EST.)

Ed Cereghino, pitcher for the Yankees' farm in Binghampton, N. Y., hit two home runs in one game during 1953. His second homer broke a 3-3 tie against Schenectady.

Charles Town Race Meet Opens Dec. 5

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 12—Just about everybody wants to race at the Charles Town course. At least that is the way it seems, according to the long list of applications by eastern horsemen for stalls for the 13-day meeting that gets underway Saturday, December 5. Past time will be 1 p. m. daily for the first race. Eight events are to be run off each weekday.

Space requests for almost 1,500 horses have been received. In all likelihood 1,100 or so animals will be quartered hereabouts for the session that rings down the curtain on the sport in the East.

Two nearby West Virginia schools will occupy the spotlight today as Richard "Dick" McElwee's Romney Pioneers battle Fred "Tack" Clark's Keyser Golden Tornado for the football championship of the Potomac Valley Conference.

Romney will be the scene of action and the game is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock.

One year ago the same teams met for the title and Keyser nosed out the Hampshire countians by holding the Pioneers to a 14-14 tie. The fact that Keyser had played one more game and scored one more victory than Romney gave the Mineral eleven the championship.

Schools Have 4-0 Records

Today the schools will go into battle on more even terms as each boasts 4-0 records in the conference. The winner will be recognized as champion of the nine-school circuit. There will be co-champions, however, if the battle ends in a tie.

Romney is undefeated this season and puts a 9-game winning skein on the line. The McElwee-coached outfit has whipped Franklin, Moorefield, Ridgeley and Petersburg in conference tilts. Keyser has knocked off Ridgeley, Moorefield, West Virginia School for the Deaf and Petersburg in PVC competition and owns an overall record of 7-2. The only setbacks came at the hands of two Cumberland teams, LaSalle and Allegany.

Last fall Romney owned a 4-0 record and Keyser had won five straight before their championship battle.

The Pioneers always have found Keyser a tough foe. In fact, the last time Romney beat KHS was 11 years ago. Since then the schools have met eight times. Keyser has won six while two contests ended in ties.

Courrier Versus Parker

The game brings together two of the top scorers in the tri-state area as well as the P.V.C. Ernie Courrier of Keyser paces the area and also the conference point getters with 104 and 56, respectively. Roger Parker, of Romney, is fourth in the P.V.C. with 37 and second in the area with 86. Courrier was the top scorer in the P.V.C. last season.

Here are the probable starting lineups:

Pos.	Keyser	Romney
LE	Wilson	Coleman
LT	Raines	C. Hott
LG	Landes	R. Saville
C	Mason	Keister
RG	Athey	Quinn
RT	Blackburn	Green
RE	Burns	Lyons

LH	Harber	Ray Haines
RH	Morris	Landis
FB	Courrier	Parker

Bantam Title Bout Set For Australia

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 12 (AP) — Jimmy Carruthers, Australia's inexperienced champion, and Pappy Gaulta, a so-far unimpressive challenger from Spartanburg, S.C., meet here tomorrow for the world bantamweight championship.

And, in spite of his lack of big time experience, Carruthers is favored to retain the title he won from South Africa's Vic Toweel a year ago.

The outdoor fight at the Sydney Sports Ground is expected to draw some 30,000 spectators at prices ranging up to $21 a head. Starting time is 9:15 p.m. local time (6:15 a.m. EST.)

Ed Cereghino, pitcher for the Yankees' farm in Binghampton, N. Y., hit two home runs in one game during 1953. His second homer broke a 3-3 tie against Schenectady.

Charles Town Race Meet Opens Dec. 5

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 12—Just about everybody wants to race at the Charles Town course. At least that is the way it seems, according to the long list of applications by eastern horsemen for stalls for the 13-day meeting that gets underway Saturday, December 5. Past time will be 1 p. m. daily for the first race. Eight events are to be run off each weekday.

Space requests for almost 1,500 horses have been received. In all likelihood 1,100 or so animals will be quartered hereabouts for the session that rings down the curtain on the sport in the East.

Call It A Day

This is one of those double doubts when a man wants traveler's insurance for looking at his shoes.

The ancient Greeks wouldn't go anywhere on Friday the thirteenth. But if they happened to be there it was all right.

All this superstitious business goes back to the oily days of Wall Street. When the 56-cent dollar had cream on the top. In those days a dollar was a dollar no matter who had it.

But two dollars were also two dollars and the sweetest music in the world is the jingle of speculation.

So the first black Friday was 84 fiscal seasons ago on September 24, 1869. President Grant's boy friends had their feet under the table and were pulling more strings than a piano tuner.

Jay Gould and the uptown mob started cornering everything in the roundhouse. They boosted the price of gold to 162 and ½. That was like holding fire in a celluloid factory. Somebody pulled the plug and school was out.

We've had 'em since. The burned child dreads the hot stove. But where else are you going to cook?

People have learned their lesson and don't go down to the street to take advantage of the reciprocal transportation system. You walk in and get carried out.

London had its black Friday just three years ahead of us in 1866. It sent over an expert to set one up for us.

This prospectus is no offer of stock. Just a roadmap in case you want to run the blockade with a loaf of bread under your arm.

Ping-pong or table tennis was first played at the end of the 19th century. It was originated by a sporting goods dealer in London, England.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 12—(INS)—With Richard English's radio program "Last Man Out," a startling expose of the lives of ex-Communists, attracting more and more attention, it's no surprise that the idea will be brought to the screen as a factual-episodic drama.

Dick, who leaves for New York next week, will meet with the heads of three releasing organizations, United Artists, RKO and MGM.

Just before he left, English received the following letter from J. Edgar Hoover: "I heard your very fine program 'Last Man Out' and was deeply impressed . . . You are to be commended on the simplicity with which you reached your point . . . I feel your program is rendering a great public service in the authenticity of presenting the machinations of the Communists."

Among the ex-Communists whose stories have been dramatized by English are Elizabeth Bentley and Edward Dmytryk.

Jack Warner announces Rex Harrison for Sir Walter Scott's "The Talisman." It will be of interest to those who both like and dislike Harrison that he will make his Cinemascope debut here, thus furnishing a larger target of Rexie to either like or dislike.

His wife, Lili Palmer, is not in the picture. Whether she accompanies him to Hollywood hasn't yet been uncovered by the scouts.

The Harrisons have not been in Hollywood since the filming of "Four Poster," a moderately successful Stanley Kramer venture. They have been appearing on Broadway in "Loves Of Four Colonels."

The addicts of Eartha Kitt, and from the looks of the jam-packed Mocambo her opening night, there are plenty, came to hear her (en)-chant "C'Est Si Bon" and her other recorded hits.

They remained to see one of the best little actresses who ever emoted a song. Eartha acts with her hair, teeth, eyebrows, elbows and, of course, her mischievous face and body with such delightful innuendo she could hold her own with some our best Oscar winners.

Opening night, I'm afraid some of her best whisperings were lost on the boys and girls in the back part of the room. A simple remedy—a stepped-up "mike" — will take care of this.

Steve Cochran is selling the high-speed German sports car which got him in so much trouble with the police. They had to shoot at the tires to stop him.

After being so proud of the car at first—his first date was taking Chata Wayne riding — he can't stand the sight of it. Maybe it's just as well.

After calling it off and on—it was on again with Susan Ball and Dick Long at the Captain's Table.

Ah, the busy Pete Lawford! He met Sharman Douglas at the airport and took her to lunch at Romanoff's. Sharman's has a cuite new hair-cut, very short.

Dimitri Tiomkin is so personally sold on the fine work accomplished by Dick English's Commie-expose show that he conducts the music for $46 per week. And Tiomkin is an Oscar winner!

First-Nighters grew limp chasing between the Johnnie Ray opening at Cio's and Eartha Kitt at the Mocambo the same night.

The Sid Kullers (he writes the Donald O'Connor show) are expecting a baby.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

HEADING west from movie work in Italy, actress Dawn Addams wears blue jeans as she boards a plane in New York for a flight to Hollywood to make a movie. (International)

SCREEN STAR Eleanor Parker is shown in a Los Angeles courtroom after receiving an uncontested divorce from Bert Friedlob, film producer. She charged he made fun of her at a party while she was awaiting the birth of a third child. (International Soundphoto)

The newest coiffure is the naturally-contoured, smoother version of the wind-blown gamin cut.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Italian coiffure, a rather shaggy or gamin cut that made its appearance in high fashion circles a year ago, has become a most popular style. However, the leading hair salons are modifying it to give their clients a newer look and interpretation. The latest versions have much to recommend them since they make the pet hats of the season—the profile, cloche, level or deep styles of millinery—more wearable and becoming.

Key to these new cuts is the "small head look" with the natural contour of the head revealed. The haid does not stand away from the head quite so much as it did in the touseled, all-over shaggy cut. The "disordered" look takes on a little more order with some softness around the face in the shape of wispy fringe bangs, sideburns or a tendril or two. Part of the hair goes forward on the face toward temple, cheekbone or just above the ear.

Careful Casualness

There is less of the rising pompadour effect and more flattening of the hair in front. Hair is kept short in back but left long enough to turn.

To attain the natural windblown effect yet keep the carefully casual look, the sculptured effect, rather than the shaggy impression, calls for expert work. The hair must be well-tapered with the natural contour of the head dictating the shaping. The hair may be waved or not. But one thing is definite—the waves must be smooth and close to the head.

This hairdo is best when the hair is rather wiry, spiky and defiant. Baby soft hair is less suitable to the coiffure. Those with hair of the soft, fine texture might be interested in trying this suggestion from one of New York's best hair experts:

Fine, Soft Hair

Unusually fine and soft hair should not be permanented with the idea of keeping the hair curled up all around. That, he states, calls for winding the hair too tightly, which in turn results in frizzing and breaking. Instead, large curlers should be used during the permanent. This, he contends, gives the hair the body that it needs yet leaves plenty of life in the tresses.

It's the consensus among leading hair stylists and millinery designers that the trend toward short hair and the small hat — the neat, sculptured, small-head look — has not yet reached its peak. It is expected to continue all through at least the next year. So ... cut if you like!

YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same—YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Time For Thought

It's all very well for us to criticize what is on the air, an occupation that is becoming increasingly barren. But what is far more important, as time goes on, is to examine in some measure what should be on the air, what is lacking.

John Crosby

This is asking quite a lot of a critic. So far as I know, critics since time immemorial have been required simply to assess what's in front of them, not to go off baying at the moon at what might have been. But then critics never before had to contend with broadcasting, a field that resists ideas with illimitable savagery.

Not long ago, Robert Saudek, director of the radio-TV workshop of the Ford Foundation, delivered himself of some high grade discontent on the same subject. "It disturbs me," said Saudek who has been in radio as well as television, "when, riding in a commuter's train, I hear two young television salesmen sitting behind me and discussing this enormous new business in exactly the same terms that radio salesmen used in the same commuter train 20 years ago.

"Where are the inventive minds? Where are the original ways of doing business? Why should television, one of the newest, shiniest, most glamorous callings of the 20th Century be lagging so far behind aviation, for instance, which has in the past 20 years moved from the fabric-covered biplane through the DC-3 and the Constellation to the turbo-prop and now the jet-propelled aircraft?"

Why, indeed?

"Nothing interesting has happened to radio and television scheduling since the Hoover administration," declared Saudek. "There is a program manager, a script editor, a production manager, a traffic manager and an announcing staff. There always was. This group has charge of a big basket that contains a disorderly assortment of half hours, quarter hours and minutes starting in the early hours and ending late at night. It is disorderly because there is no pattern to it, there is no logic to it, there is no plan behind it, there is no danger to it.

"Just suppose, for a minute, that the four television networks

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

WHAT IS WORST LEAD?

IF YOU tried to teach defense by first explaining what usually are the worst opening leads, would you rate the underlead of an ace against a suit contract as the nadir? Or would you consider the opening of the dummy's suit as the depth of depths? Of course, on rare occasions, when special conditions have been advertised by the bidding, either of those may be a good lead. But in all ordinary circumstances, both of them are so bad that they constitute throwing of your partner.

	♠ A K Q J 9 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 10 5 ♣ 7 4 2
♠ 10 7 6 4 ♥ A J 8 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ Q 8 3	N W E S	♠ 8 5 3 2 ♥ 9 6 2 ♦ K J 9 ♣ K 9 6
	♠ None ♥ K Q 10 4 ♦ A 8 7 4 3 ♣ A J 10 5

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT

South's bidding so clearly advertised his distribution as five diamonds, four hearts and four clubs, to a kibitzer behind North's hand, that the observer was startled when that worthy bid his spades a third time, with only a five-card suit. He fully expected South to be in plenty of trouble after bidding 3-No Trumps with no spades at all. But then he was astonished when West led the spade 4.

There was nothing to it from there in. South ran five spade tricks and added two tricks in hearts plus one in each minor to have his game.

East then queried West about the logic that caused the spade lead. "Isn't it supposed to be wise to lead through strength?" asked West. He then received a lesson from his partner, who said the entire rule is "Lead through weakness and up to strength." The important part, he stressed, was the "up to strength." If you know you are leading toward strong cards in your partner's hand, such a lead may be all right, but not when there is no indication of such a fact.

West also admitted, in answer to his partner's question, that he could read the exact distribution of South's hand. He also conceded, however, that the contract would have been ruined by any other lead.

Tomorrow's Problem

If the heart K and A take tricks and the 10 is returned, how should South play for 3-No Trumps?

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Time For Thought

It's all very well for us to criticize what is on the air, an occupation that is becoming increasingly barren. But what is far more important, as time goes on, is to examine in some measure what should be on the air, what is lacking.

John Crosby

This is asking quite a lot of a critic. So far as I know, critics since time immemorial have been required simply to assess what's in front of them, not to go off baying at the moon at what might have been. But then critics never before had to contend with broadcasting, a field that resists ideas with illimitable savagery.

Not long ago, Robert Saudek, director of the radio-TV workshop of the Ford Foundation, delivered himself of some high grade discontent on the same subject. "It disturbs me," said Saudek who has been in radio as well as television, "when, riding in a commuter's train, I hear two young television salesmen sitting behind me and discussing this enormous new business in exactly the same terms that radio salesmen used in the same commuter train 20 years ago.

"Where are the inventive minds? Where are the original ways of doing business? Why should television, one of the newest, shiniest, most glamorous callings of the 20th Century be lagging so far behind aviation, for instance, which has in the past 20 years moved from the fabric-covered biplane through the DC-3 and the Constellation to the turbo-prop and now the jet-propelled aircraft?"

Why, indeed?

"Nothing interesting has happened to radio and television scheduling since the Hoover administration," declared Saudek. "There is a program manager, a script editor, a production manager, a traffic manager and an announcing staff. There always was. This group has charge of a big basket that contains a disorderly assortment of half hours, quarter hours and minutes starting in the early hours and ending late at night. It is disorderly because there is no pattern to it, there is no logic to it, there is no plan behind it, there is no danger to it.

"Just suppose, for a minute, that the four television networks

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

WHAT IS WORST LEAD?

IF YOU tried to teach defense by first explaining what usually are the worst opening leads, would you rate the underlead of an ace against a suit contract as the nadir? Or would you consider the opening of the dummy's suit as the depth of depths? Of course, on rare occasions, when special conditions have been advertised by the bidding, either of those may be a good lead. But in all ordinary circumstances, both of them are so bad that they constitute throwing of your partner.

	♠ A K Q J 9 ♥ 7 5 3 ♦ 10 5 ♣ 7 4 2
♠ 10 7 6 4 ♥ A J 8 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ Q 8 3	N W E S	♠ 8 5 3 2 ♥ 9 6 2 ♦ K J 9 ♣ K 9 6
	♠ None ♥ K Q 10 4 ♦ A 8 7 4 3 ♣ A J 10 5

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
3 NT

South's bidding so clearly advertised his distribution as five diamonds, four hearts and four clubs, to a kibitzer behind North's hand, that the observer was startled when that worthy bid his spades a third time, with only a five-card suit. He fully expected South to be in plenty of trouble after bidding 3-No Trumps with no spades at all. But then he was astonished when West led the spade 4.

There was nothing to it from there in. South ran five spade tricks and added two tricks in hearts plus one in each minor to have his game.

East then queried West about the logic that caused the spade lead. "Isn't it supposed to be wise to lead through strength?" asked West. He then received a lesson from his partner, who said the entire rule is "Lead through weakness and up to strength." The important part, he stressed, was the "up to strength." If you know you are leading toward strong cards in your partner's hand, such a lead may be all right, but not when there is no indication of such a fact.

West also admitted, in answer to his partner's question, that he could read the exact distribution of South's hand. He also conceded, however, that the contract would have been ruined by any other lead.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 7 6 5 2 ♥ 8 4 ♦ 8 4 3 ♣ A 8 7 6
♠ Q 10 4 ♥ A 10 6 5 ♦ K J 7 ♣ 5 4 2	N W E S	♠ J 9 3 ♥ K 7 3 2 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ 9 3
	♠ A K 8 ♥ Q J 9 ♦ A Q 9 ♣ K Q J 10

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

If the heart K and A take tricks and the 10 is returned, how should South play for 3-No Trumps?

CHRYSLER

1948 Chrysler New Yorker Club Coupe. Perhaps you hadn't planned to trade in your car ye. but we have something very special for you. (We even keep it garaged). This luxury auto has just had a complete motor overhaul and the price of that would have been $206) and transmission rebuilt ($72), completely Winterized, new water pump, new tires and was ready to give the local owner years more of service (he couldn't resist the 235 h.p. 1954 Chrysler). The equipment includes: 8-tube Motorola radio, heater and air conditioner, directional lights, backup lights, air foam seats, undercoated, automatic 4 - speed transmission, oil bath air cleaner, changeable oil cartridge, safety-rim wheels, and a powerful 145 h.p. engine. If you could buy a trouble-free Used Car and find no need to spend money for repairs, wouldn't you consider it economical for only . . .

Steels Provide Buoyancy As Market Moves Upward

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Steels gave the stock market a touch of buoyancy today as the first advance of the week was registered.

The market started lower and quietly. In the second hour the steels came to life and encouraged an advance that spread to all sections of the list. As the close of trading approached, many stocks retreated from their best under profit-taking sales.

Advancing along with the steels were the railroads, oil, coppers, chemicals and rubbers.

Radio-televisions were backward in the midst of industry nervousness over price cuts. Westinghouse Electric, which announced cuts on television sets ranging to 40 per cent, added a small fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 20 cents at $107.60. It was off 80 cents on Tuesday before the market recess for Armistice Day. The industrial component of the average added 30 cents railroads gained 10 cents, and utilities held unchanged.

RKO theater, Tuesday's most active issue, was at the top of the list again today unchanged at 4⅜ with 37,300 shares traded. It was followed by U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 37⅜. Du Pont up ⅛ at 102⅝. Pepsi-Cola up ⅛ at 13¾, and American Telephone up ⅛ at 155½.

Steels Provide Buoyancy As Market Moves Upward

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Steels gave the stock market a touch of buoyancy today as the first advance of the week was registered.

The market started lower and quietly. In the second hour the steels came to life and encouraged an advance that spread to all sections of the list. As the close of trading approached, many stocks retreated from their best under profit-taking sales.

Advancing along with the steels were the railroads, oil, coppers, chemicals and rubbers.

Radio-televisions were backward in the midst of industry nervousness over price cuts. Westinghouse Electric, which announced cuts on television sets ranging to 40 per cent, added a small fraction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 20 cents at $107.60. It was off 80 cents on Tuesday before the market recess for Armistice Day. The industrial component of the average added 30 cents railroads gained 10 cents, and utilities held unchanged.

RKO theater, Tuesday's most active issue, was at the top of the list again today unchanged at 4⅜ with 37,300 shares traded. It was followed by U. S. Steel up ⅛ at 37⅝. Du Pont up ⅛ at 102⅝, Pepsi-Cola up ⅛ at 13¾, and American Telephone up ⅛ at 155½.

Many Heavy Construction Jobs Slated Here In 1954

Backlog Of Work In City Exceeds $2½ Million Mark

Valley Street Bridge Bids Due December 7

By C. W. BLACKBURN

Heavy construction, which should create considerable employment for the building trades in Cumberland during 1954, is virtually assured to the tune of more than $2,500,000, city officials and other observers noted yesterday.

Work already let for bids, and other work well in the planning stage includes such items as the bridges across Wills Creek, the new bridge across the Potomac River to Ridgeley, W. Va., and a number of street and road improvements.

This two and a half million dollars worth of new construction is exclusive of the overhead bridge proposal, or its suggested alternate, a sewage disposal plant and other major projects which cannot be started before 1955, if approved.

Ask Bids On Bridge

Bids on the Valley Street Bridge, which engineering estimates indicate should cost about $258,700, will be opened by the Mayor and Council on December 7.

The bridge consists of one composite girder span and two composite beam spans on concrete piers and abutments, with concrete deck and paved approaches.

The J. E. Greiner Company, designer of the span, has scheduled the construction to get under way in February and be completed in November.

The firm is expediting plans for the Market Street Bridge, which will be scheduled to begin as soon as the new Valley Street span is opened for traffic next November.

Other Bridges Planned

The last estimates of the cost of the Market Street project was $172,000 and present-day costs would be about $200,000, based on a 15 per cent boost in construction costs since the cost was estimated early in 1952.

Both of these spans are to be built in connection with Wills Creek channel improvement work on the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection project.

The major part of the costs will be met from local funds advanced for the flood work, but the city will probably have to furnish about $200,000 extra for the Valley, Market and Baltimore Street bridges, since modern spans are planned. The funds set aside for the flood work called for merely replacing the center of spans in order to remove piers from the creek bed.

Two other spans are to be built in connection with the flood job. They are the replacement of the city's Baltimore Street bridge and then a new Western Maryland Railway bridge at that point.

These are to be built, officials said, when the channel work on Wills Creek reaches Baltimore Street, and the Corps of Engineers want to finish the creek channel as one of the last parts of the project.

Street Job Slated

The cost of this project has been estimated at about $500,000, shared equally by the city and the Bureau of Public Roads.

Former Guard "CO's" Feted

Man Confesses Cashing Forged Checks In City

A College Park man, who telephoned the State's Attorney's Office and said he had cashed five forged checks in Cumberland, yesterday was lodged in Allegany County Jail.

A warrant charging Roy Edward Rhodes, Route 1, Box 256, College Park, with false pretense, was sworn out by authorities yesterday afternoon before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

In a statement taken by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Rhodes said he had taken a book of blank checks from a firm in College Park where he was employed.

He added he was employed by Shields Trailer Sales in College Park, and when he was discharged recently, he had taken a book of blank checks printed with the firm's name.

Later in Cumberland, Rhodes said, he forged the name of his former employer on five checks and passed them to a number of local business establishments.

Wednesday night, Rhodes called Lilya and confessed his actions. A statement was taken by Lilya yesterday.

Authorities said they were investigating the case further.

Episcopalians Plan Loyalty Sunday

Emmanuel Episcopal Church has scheduled its fourth annual Loyalty Sunday for November 15.

Each year, in mid-November, since Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson became rector the church has held a Loyalty Sunday at which time all parishioners are asked to make their pledges for the coming year.

In this manner much of the Every Member Canvass is completed without the necessity for calls to the homes of church members.

The Weather

With only 39 days to winter, Old Man Weather came up with a spring-like day in Cumberland yesterday. Winter begins December 21 when the North Pole is tilted away from the sun and the heat received by day on this side of the world fails to make good the heat lost during longer nights. Despite statistics, however, high temperature here yesterday was officially 59 degrees; low was 32 and at 7:30 p. m. thermometers stood at 44. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 57 per cent. Little change is expected today.

Citizenship Class Witnesses Trial At Court House

A citizenship class, composed of juniors from Allegany High School, taught by Miss Mary E. Murray, sat in on a trial in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday in which a man was being sued for damages resulting from a traffic accident.

Not all of the students stayed all day. Those who did had a lesson in the difficulty faced by a jury. After the jury retired to consider its verdict, Associate Judge George Henderson asked the students to consider the five issues faced by the jury. The students divided into two groups and each reached a decision. However, the two groups failed to agree.

Students Study Farms In County

Some 25 Frostburg State Teachers College students in a conservation class taught by Alfred Taylor have a better understanding now of soil conservation as a result of the all-day tour which took them to a number of farms in the eastern end of Allegany County.

At each stop in the route the students' guides explained various points of interest. The guides were Kenneth M. Stone, conservationist, and Martin M. Gordon, conservation aid, both of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Dale Arner, wildlife technician of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, and Assistant District Forester Harry M. Hartman.

The students saw multi flora rose, used for a windbreak; woodlot harvest cutting; contour strip cropping, orchard on contour, cover cropping, crop rotation, soil types, windbreak in orchard, a limestone quarry, an underground stream, severe erosion of pastures, fencing, proper land use, tile drainage, farm pond, tree planting and wildlife management.

Included in the tour were visits to the farms of Theodore Stegmaier, Stonestreet Brothers, Eston Heavner, Ora Thompson, Lester Cobb, and Carl Browning, an orchard of Consolidate Orchards Company, the Billmyer Game Refuge and Green Ridge State Forest.

Sixth Sneak Boat License Sold Here

The sixth sneak boat license sold in Allegany County this year was sold yesterday to H. R. Brant, 216 Roberts Street, in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

At the last session of the General Assembly, a bill was introduced and passed making it legal to use sneak boats on the Potomac River in Allegany County in hunting migratory birds. Previously, such boats had been legal only in Montgomery, Frederick and Washington counties.

WTBO Request For Television Gets Approval

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington yesterday authorized a television station in Cumberland.

A construction permit was awarded to the Maryland Radio Corporation, operator of station WTBO, for Channel 17, one of the ultra high frequency channels.

However, Charles E. Smith, manager of WTBO, noted last night that a number of other problems must be settled before the station can start presenting television programs here.

The first step will be negotiating with the various networks for affiliation. Additional engineering data must be obtained before the station can determine upon a transmitting point. Some difficulty has been found at Dan's Rock, where the Maryland Radio Corporation had leased some land for a tower.

Negotiations must be undertaken for certain equipment which WTBO will need for television. Then, there will be the question of starting construction of a building and tower.

Smith would not offer an estimate last night as to when the TV station can start operation. When it does, the manager said, it will offer programs originating locally as well as network presentations.

Both WTBO and WDYK applied for Channel 17 when the ultra high frequency channels were opened in June 1952, by the FCC. Last week the stockholders of the Western Maryland Broadcasting Company, operators of WDYK, voted to drop their application thereby relieving WTBO of competition for the permit.

Progress Reported On Water Tank

Construction of the 75,000 gallon North End water tank is in the final stages, officials reported yesterday.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, said the pump house for the tank will be almost complete by the end of the week.

Sections of the tank being prepared on the site, will be lifted in place and welded next week.

Father Of Four Dies Of Gunshot Wound In Head

Clifford Junkins Found By Daughter

A 39-year-old Danville man died yesterday in a Keyser, W. Va., hospital, six hours after his daughter found him lying outside his home with a bullet wound in his head.

Clifford Ellsworth Junkins, 39, died at 1:40 p. m. in Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser. Police said the bullet wound apparently had been self-inflicted.

Junkins' 12-year-old daughter told authorities she got up at 7:30 a. m. yesterday and found her father lying on the ground about 30 feet from their house. There was a bullet wound in the center of his forehead.

State Police Trooper J. F. Lewis said Junkins apparently had shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle. But, said Lewis, relatives of the dead man could give no explanation for the shooting.

Junkins, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad storekeeper helper at the Keyser office, was a native of Antioch, W. Va., and was a son of William Frank and Victoria Shelton (Rush) Junkins.

He spent most of his service time during World War II in the European Theatre of Operations. Junkins had worked for the B&O for 17 years, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Surviving, besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Audrey (Orndorff) Junkins; four daughters, Carolyn, Sharon Lee, Sharma and Helen, all at home; four sisters, Mrs. Pauline Kitzmiller, RFD 3, Keyser; Mrs. Louise V. Kyle, Black Oak; Mrs. Anna Lee Dayton, Keyser, and Mrs. Delores M. Ellis, Westernport.

The body will be at Rogers Funeral Home in Keyser until time for a service Saturday at 2 p. m. at Dawson Methodist Church, U. S. Route 220. Burial will be in the Thrush Cemetery at Antioch.

Wife Awarded $1,500, Husband Gets Only $100

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury, after deliberating two hours yesterday afternoon, awarded a Mineral County (W. Va.) man only $100 damages for injuries sustained in a traffic accident but gave his wife, who was a passenger, $1,500.

Tony Garcia and his wife, Margaretta, who live on Knobley Mountain some eight miles from Short Gap, sued Donald Edward Smith, Williams Road, for damages. Ecedro Auqualo, Garcia's foster son, also sought damages but Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial, granted a defense motion for dismissal of this case because Auqualo was unhurt in the crash.

The suits resulted from a crash on Thomas Street last November 26 involving Garcia's old truck and an automobile owned and driven by Smith.

Five issues were decided by the jury of five women and seven men on which Mrs. Winna M. Starcher was the foreman. On the first, the jurors ruled that Smith was guilty of negligence. On the second they concluded that Garcia was not guilty of negligence. The third issue, the extent of Garcia's damages, the answer was $100. In the fourth issue the jury decided that Mrs. Garcia was not guilty of contributory negligence and finally on the fifth issue set her damages "for pain and suffering" at $1,500.

Attorneys Earl E. Manges, this city, and Vernon P. Rankin of Keyser, W. Va., represented the Garcias. Smith's attorneys were W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist, this city.

Local Man Fined For Metal Theft

James Lofton, 107 Fifth Street, was fined $50 and given a suspended sentence of 90 days in the County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of stealing scrap metal from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick suspended the jail sentence on condition the defendant be of good behavior and make restitution for the stolen property.

Authorities said Lofton, on November 4, stole a number of tie plates, angle bars and other scrap metal from B&O property. Lofton pleaded guilty.

Parents Told School Costs Are Mounting

$270 Million Needed For Buildings

By HUELL WARREN

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Parents of school children turned out in record numbers today for the annual convention of the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

They heard warnings the taxpayer must dig much deeper to pay for public schools.

They heard an estimate Maryland will need about 270 million dollars worth of new school buildings in the next six years, in addition to the 225 million dollars worth built in the last five years.

They got an estimate the annual bill for public schools—just for current expenses, not including new buildings—will mount from about 100 million this year to about 110 million next year and 160 million by 1960.

Division heads from the State Department of Education projected these estimates on the basis of population figures and birth statistics.

The enormity of the problem led Dr. James E. Spitznas to propound this question:

"Do you want a high school education only for a select group of youngsters, or do you want it for all the children of all the people?"

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent of schools asked:

"Are we to turn the clock back and say we should not have free education for all?"

Then he added:

"There is no reason to be frightened or alarmed. Intelligent and educated people will face these facts. We will reaffirm our faith in education. We will face the task courageously. We will not be detered by the alarmist or the weak of heart."

More than 550 delegates from the 472 local P-TA units in the state registered for the convention before this afternoon's sessions were over. Convention registration last year was about 400. Today's crowd overflowed the auditorium, more than reflecting the 15 per cent growth in the organization last year. The Maryland congress ex-

Youth, Seriously Ill, Is Expected To Recover

Nine-year-old James Nairn of Frostburg, who was rushed by ambulance to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore yesterday suffering from an illness diagnosed as encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, is expected to recover, according to hospital attaches.

The youth, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Nairn, 90 Walnut Street, first became ill last Friday and was admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg on Tuesday.

An attending physician made arrangements to have the boy taken to the hospital for treatment and observation. Nairn accompanied his son in the State Police ambulance driven by Trooper Joseph V. Stakem, and at noon yesterday Mrs. Nairn left for Baltimore to be with her son.

Call Is Received

Mrs. Jennie Carder, the youth's grandmother received a call from Nairn yesterday evening saying attaches expected him to recover from the illness.

Reported in a semi-conscious condition the boy was unable to recognize his parents at the hospital, Mrs. Carder added.

The youth, a pupil in the Fourth Grade at Hill Street School, attended classes Friday and following the evening meal at his home he complained of feeling ill and nauseated. The family at that time believed he had the 'flu' as there were a number of people in the neighborhood who were affected with the same symptoms.

On Monday the boy was very ill, complaining of a severe headache and aching at the back of his neck. Monday night a physician was called and the boy was taken to Miners Hospital.

Condition Critical

Yesterday morning the boy was in a semi-conscious condition, the doctor said, and it was decided to take him to Johns Hopkins where there are facilities for treatment of sleeping sickness. The physician said the Nairn boy was in a critical condition.

The boy has two brothers, John, 11, and Gerald, seven-months-old. Before he became ill last Friday he had been normal and in an apparent healthy condition and had attended school and the Methodist Church Sunday School regularly.

"Turkey In The Straw" Dance Scheduled Today

Tonight the annual "Turkey in the Straw" dance, sponsored by Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, will be held at the Council Home.

Proceeds from the event, according to Thomas E. Simon and William E. McCleary, will be turned over to the Keating Memorial Day Nursery. Each guest will be admitted by furnishing a can or package of fruit or vegetables. The dance, which will get underway at 9 p. m., is an "old clothes" affair but costumes are optional. Prizes will be awarded, including a live turkey. The Hi-Hatters orchestra will furnish the music.

Chest Directors Hear Report On Fund Campaign

Expenses For Drive Less Than Last Year

A total of $94,535.90 was pledged during the 1953-54 Cumberland Chest fund drive, it was reported at a Chest board of directors meeting last night in the Chest Office.

The amount is slightly over the campaign goal of $94,492.75. A breakdown shows the Advanced Gifts Section turned in $56,020; Classified Section, $26,839, and the Sales Army, $5,349.

At the same time, expenses for this year's fund drive were less than half of expenditures for last year's campaign. The 1953-54 campaign cost $3,763.26 compared to $7,667.74 for the 1952-53 drive.

Also at last night's meeting, the board of directors approved the regular budgets of the eight agencies, set up by the budget committee prior to the campaign.

The agencies' monthly reports were heard and approved by the board.

The treasurer's report for October, read last night, showed that Chest receipts for the month from 1952-53 pledges amounted to $3,930.56. Total disbursements for October amounted to $7,947.13, with $6,879.14 going to the agencies.

Balance in the bank on November 1 showed $708.75. However, officials said that since first of the month, $5,300 in 1952-53 pledges have been received and at least $3,000 is yet to be received.

William H. Buchholtz, this year's campaign director, last night again thanked volunteer workers and supporters of the Chest drive, for their untiring work in making the campaign a success.

Eves And Jacobs Attend Council

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Maryland mayors got together here today and passed a resolution calling upon Gov. McKeldin and the General Assembly "to establish and finance a committee to study municipal-county fiscal relations."

Mayors and commissioners from all parts of Maryland were here for three days of business meetings and conferences as a part of the sixth annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League.

Mayor Herbert W. Reichelt of Mount Rainier said the resolution was designed to ease a situation in which municipalities, in their proportional payment of county taxes, pay for many county services not rendered.

He said the league seeks an adjustment of municipal tax rates to take care of such situations.

Attending league council meetings were Mayors Roy Eves, Cumberland; A. H. Stevens, Snow Hill; Ross H. Beville, Takoma Park; Henry Kratz Jr., Mount Airy; Vincent Simmel, Cottage City; Russell Smith Jr., Cambridge; Jesse Jacobs, Frostburg; Donald Rice, Frederick, and L. R. Willis, Easton.

The group this afternoon heard a discussion of traffic problems by Henry A. Barnes, Baltimore traffic engineer.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Roberta D. Lambert, an infant, by her father and next friend, Raymond C. Burkhart, vs. Gerald N. Lambert and Theodore A. Hausman vs. Thelma C. Hausman.

Education Week Programs Held At Cresaptown

Cresaptown School has been observing American Education Week extensively all this week.

National Education Association booklets were read and studied by the pupils. Pupils also made posters and distributed them to the community. Invitations combining work in art and language arts were prepared by all children and sent to the parents, urging them to visit the school this week.

As a result of the invitation, 125 parents visited the school Tuesday. Books, audio-visual aid machines and physical education equipment emphasized exhibits in the auditorium and explained Book Week and American Education Week.

The week's activities were climaxed last night when Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of county schools, discussed "Good Schools Are Your Responsibility," the theme for Education Week. Room visitations preceded the meeting.

A junior high assembly program terminated the week's activities. A play entitled "Beachhead For Freedom" was presented by ninth graders. Mrs. Mary Alderton functioned as PTA-AEW chairman and Mrs. Annetta Gerson as PTA library chairman.

County Ranks 9th In Savings Bonds Sales

Allegany County ranks ninth in sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in Maryland at the end of October, Lynn C. Lashley, county chairman reports.

Sales of bonds reached $5,165,887 for October, Lashley said, in Maryland including $422,500 of series H bonds. This is the maximum amount sold in any one month since June of 1952 when H bonds first became available, Lashley continued, and marked the second time the state had gone over $5,000,000 in a single month.

To date sales of E and H bonds through the first 10 months this year have reached $2,078,347 of Allegany County's quota of $2,900,000 for the year. The county sold $209,975 in October.

Garrett County sales placed the westernmost part of the state 19th in sales of savings bonds. Garrett's quota for the year is $380,000. Washington County ranks second in sales with 87.2 per cent compared to Allegany's 71.5 per cent and Garrett's 53 per cent. Washington's quota for the yearly sales is $2,326,000.

Harford county ranks first in the state with 90.5 per cent of its $2,090,000 quota for the year met. Somerset County is third with 79.6 pe. cent; Baltimore City fourth with 78.7 per cent; Worcester fifth, 76 per cent; Cecil, sixth, 75 per cent; Prince George's, seventh, 72.5 per cent; Anne Arundel, eighth, 72 per cent; Carroll, 10th, 71.2 per cent.

Wiley Ford Army Officer Appears In Scene In Movie Showing At Maryland Theater

The two women were shopping in Cumberland yesterday and decided to take in a movie during the afternoon.

So Mrs. John Long, Wiley Ford, W. Va., and her aunt, Miss Mary Goodrich, stepped into the Maryland Theatre where an army picture, "Take The High Ground," is showing.

During a scene showing young soldiers at a training session with guided missiles Mrs. Long suddenly excitedly watched the film with avid interest. So did Miss Goodrich, for there on the big silver screen was Mrs. Long's son, Lt. John F. Long, U. S. Army, Fort Bliss, Texas.

It Was A Shock

"It was such a shock," Mrs. Long explained later, "I was so surprised at first I wasn't sure it was John." She then said the 32-year-old Army lieutenant has a brief speaking part and fires a guided missile in the movie.

"It was very clear and there was no mistaking him," Mrs. Long explained. But to make certain the two women remained to see the picture again to definitely identify the former Wiley Ford man as the missile instructor in the scene.

"It was almost like he was standing beside me, very thrilling," Mrs. Long continued. "It's the first time I've seen him in over two years." She went on to say her son appeared in the background in other scenes.

"John wrote to tell me he was going to appear in a Hollywood movie that was being filmed at Fort Bliss where he is stationed," Mrs. Long went on, "but I had no idea it was this picture. I was so surprised."

Lt. Long enlisted in the army the day after Pearl Harbor was bombed, joining many other volunteers who signed up for the duration at Cumberland Post Office on that eventful day.

LT. JOHN F. LONG

A flight engineer, Long flew 51 missions with a bomber crew over Africa, Egypt and Europe. After the second World War, then a Master Sergeant, Long was sent to Officer Candidate School in Kentucky in 1948 and received his commission.

Returns From Germany

Twice in the past five years the lieutenant has been stationed in Germany, returning home in February of this year to be assigned to his present work at Fort Bliss.

The Wiley Ford soldier intends to make a career of the army, his mother said. He attended Wiley Ford school and was working in the steel mills in Baltimore when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor.

While fighting in World War II Lt. Long received the Distinguished Flying Cross with oak cluster and the Air Medal with several clusters.

Upon his return to the United States following his second sojourn to Germany where he had been an artillery instructor Lt. Long was given his choice of three jobs and picked the position as company instructor in guided missile work at Fort Bliss.

Have Four Sons

Married to the former Mary E. Clifford, of South Bend, Ind., Lt. Long is the father of a 5-months-old daughter, Gail Annette. His parents have lived in Wiley Ford, where he was born, for over 33 years. His father works in the Western Maryland freight house.

Mr. and Mrs. Long also have three other sons, A/3c Earl J. Long and Pfc. Robert Long, who recently met while serving in the army in Korea, and Leroy Long at home.

Many Heavy Construction Jobs Slated Here In 1954

Backlog Of Work In City Exceeds $2½ Million Mark

Valley Street Bridge Bids Due December 7

By C. W. BLACKBURN

Heavy construction, which should create considerable employment for the building trades in Cumberland during 1954, is virtually assured to the tune of more than $2,500,000, city officials and other observers noted yesterday.

Work already let for bids, and other work well in the planning stage includes such items as the bridges across Wills Creek, the new bridge across the Potomac River to Ridgeley, W. Va., and a number of street and road improvements.

This two and a half million dollars worth of new construction is exclusive of the overhead bridge proposal, or its suggested alternate, a sewage disposal plant and other major projects which cannot be started before 1955, if approved.

Ask Bids On Bridge

Bids on the Valley Street Bridge, which engineering estimates indicate should cost about $258,700, will be opened by the Mayor and Council on December 7.

The bridge consists of one composite girder span and two composite beam spans on concrete piers and abutments, with concrete deck and paved approaches.

The J. E. Greiner Company, designer of the span, has scheduled the construction to get under way in February and be completed in November.

The firm is expediting plans for the Market Street Bridge, which will be scheduled to begin as soon as the new Valley Street span is opened for traffic next November.

Other Bridges Planned

The last estimates of the cost of the Market Street project was $172,000 and present-day costs would be about $200,000, based on a 15 per cent boost in construction costs since the cost was estimated early in 1952.

Both of these spans are to be built in connection with Wills Creek channel improvement work on the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection project.

The major part of the costs will be met from local funds advanced for the flood work, but the city will probably have to furnish about $200,000 extra for the Valley, Market and Baltimore Street bridges, since modern spans are planned. The funds set aside for the flood work called for merely replacing the center of spans in order to remove piers from the creek bed.

Two other spans are to be built in connection with the flood job. They are the replacement of the city's Baltimore Street bridge and then a new Western Maryland Railway bridge at that point.

These are to be built, officials said, when the channel work on Wills Creek reaches Baltimore Street, and the Corps of Engineers want to finish the creek channel as one of the last parts of the project.

Street Job Slated

Another major construction job which is slated to get underway early next year is the improvement of Frederick Street.

The cost of this project has been estimated at about $500,000, shared equally by the city and the Bureau of Public Roads.

Man Confesses Cashing Forged Checks In City

A College Park man, who telephoned the State's Attorney's Office and said he had cashed five forged checks in Cumberland, yesterday was lodged in Allegany County Jail.

A warrant charging Roy Edward Rhodes, Route 1, Box 256, College Park, with false pretense, was sworn out by authorities yesterday afternoon before Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick.

In a statement taken by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Rhodes said he had taken a book of blank checks from a firm in College Park where he was employed.

He added he was employed by Shields Trailer Sales in College Park, and when he was discharged recently, he had taken a book of blank checks printed with the firm's name.

Later in Cumberland, Rhodes said, he forged the name of his former employer on five checks and passed them to a number of local business establishments.

Wednesday night, Rhodes called Lilya and confessed his actions. A statement was taken by Lilya yesterday.

Authorities said they were investigating the case further.

Episcopalians Plan Loyalty Sunday

Emmanuel Episcopal Church has scheduled its fourth annual Loyalty Sunday for November 15.

Each year, in mid-November, since Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson became rector the church has held a Loyalty Sunday at which time all parishioners are asked to make their pledges for the coming year.

The Weather

With only 39 days to winter, Old Man Weather came up with a spring-like day in Cumberland yesterday. Winter begins December 21 when the North Pole is tilted away from the sun and the heat received by day on this side of the world fails to make good the heat lost during longer nights. Despite statistics, however, high temperature here yesterday was officially 59 degrees; low was 32 and at 7:30 p. m. thermometers stood at 44. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 57 per cent. Little change is expected today.

Citizenship Class Witnesses Trial At Court House

A citizenship class, composed of juniors from Allegany High School, taught by Miss Mary E. Murray, sat in on a trial in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday in which a man was being sued for damages resulting from a traffic accident.

Not all of the students stayed all day. Those who did had a lesson in the difficulty faced by a jury. After the jury retired to consider its verdict, Associate Judge George Henderson asked the students to consider the five issues faced by the jury. The students divided into two groups and each reached a decision. However, the two groups failed to agree.

Students Study Farms In County

Some 25 Frostburg State Teachers College students in a conservation class taught by Alfred Taylor have a better understanding now of soil conservation as a result of the all-day tour which took them to a number of farms in the eastern end of Allegany County.

At each stop in the route the students' guides explained various points of interest. The guides were Kenneth M. Stone, conservationist, and Martin M. Gordon, conservation aid, both of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Dale Arner, wildlife technician of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, and Assistant District Forester Harry M. Hartman.

The students saw multi flora rose, used for a windbreak; woodlot harvest cutting; contour strip cropping, orchard on contour, cover cropping, crop rotation, soil types, windbreak in orchard, a limestone quarry, an underground stream, severe erosion of pastures, fencing, proper land use, tile drainage, farm pond, tree planting and wildlife management.

Included in the tour were visits to the farms of Theodore Stegmaier, Stonestreet Brothers, Eston Heavner, Ora Thompson, Lester Cobb, and Carl Browning, an orchard of Consolidate Orchards Company, the Billmyer Game Refuge and Green Ridge State Forest.

Sixth Sneak Boat License Sold Here

The sixth sneak boat license sold in Allegany County this year was sold yesterday to H. R. Brant, 216 Roberts Street, in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

At the last session of the General Assembly, a bill was introduced and passed making it legal to use sneak boats on the Potomac River in Allegany County in hunting migratory birds. Previously, such boats had been legal only in Montgomery, Frederick and Washington counties.

WTBO Request For Television Gets Approval

The Federal Communications Commission in Washington yesterday authorized a television station in Cumberland.

A construction permit was awarded to the Maryland Radio Corporation, operator of station WTBO, for Channel 17, one of the ultra high frequency channels.

However, Charles E. Smith, manager of WTBO, noted last night that a number of other problems must be settled before the station can start presenting television programs here.

The first step will be negotiating with the various networks for affiliation. Additional engineering data must be obtained before the station can determine upon a transmitting point. Some difficulty has been found at Dan's Rock, where the Maryland Radio Corporation had leased some land for a tower.

Negotiations must be undertaken for certain equipment which WTBO will need for television. Then, there will be the question of starting construction of a building and tower.

Smith would not offer an estimate last night as to when the TV station can start operation. When it does, the manager said, it will offer programs originating locally as well as network presentations.

Both WTBO and WDYK applied for Channel 17 when the ultra high frequency channels were opened in June 1952, by the FCC. Last week the stockholders of the Western Maryland Broadcasting Company, operators of WDYK, voted to drop their application thereby relieving WTBO of competition for the permit.

Progress Reported On Water Tank

Construction of the 75,000 gallon North End water tank is in the final stages, officials reported yesterday.

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, said the pump house for the tank will be almost complete by the end of the week.

Sections of the tank being prepared on the site, will be lifted in place and welded next week.

Father Of Four Dies Of Gunshot Wound In Head

Clifford Junkins Found By Daughter

A 39-year-old Danville man died yesterday in a Keyser, W. Va., hospital, six hours after his daughter found him lying outside his home with a bullet wound in his head.

Clifford Ellsworth Junkins, 39, died at 1:40 p. m. in Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser. Police said the bullet wound apparently had been self-inflicted.

Junkins' 12-year-old daughter told authorities she got up at 7:30 a. m. yesterday and found her father lying on the ground about 30 feet from their house. There was a bullet wound in the center of his forehead.

State Police Trooper J. F. Lewis said Junkins apparently had shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle. But, said Lewis, relatives of the dead man could give no explanation for the shooting.

Junkins, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad storekeeper helper at the Keyser office, was a native of Antioch, W. Va., and was a son of William Frank and Victoria Shelton (Rush) Junkins.

He spent most of his service time during World War II in the European Theatre of Operations. Junkins had worked for the B&O for 17 years, and was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Surviving, besides his parents, are his widow, Mrs. Audrey (Orndorff) Junkins; four daughters, Carolyn, Sharon Lee, Sharma and Helen, all at home; four sisters, Mrs. Pauline Kitzmiller, RFD 3, Keyser; Mrs. Louise V. Kyle, Black Oak; Mrs. Anna Lee Dayton, Keyser, and Mrs. Delores M. Ellis, Westernport.

The body will be at Rogers Funeral Home in Keyser until time for a service Saturday at 2 p. m. at Dawson Methodist Church, U. S. Route 220. Burial will be in the Thrush Cemetery at Antioch.

Wife Awarded $1,500, Husband Gets Only $100

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury, after deliberating two hours yesterday afternoon, awarded a Mineral County (W. Va.) man only $100 damages for injuries sustained in a traffic accident but gave his wife, who was a passenger, $1,500.

Tony Garcia and his wife, Margaretta, who live on Knobley Mountain some eight miles from Short Gap, sued Donald Edward Smith, Williams Road, for damages. Ecedro Auqualo, Garcia's foster son, also sought damages but Associate Judge George Henderson, who presided at the trial, granted a defense motion for dismissal of this case because Auqualo was unhurt in the crash.

The suits resulted from a crash on Thomas Street last November 26 involving Garcia's old truck and an automobile owned and driven by Smith.

Five issues were decided by the jury of five women and seven men on which Mrs. Winna M. Starcher was the foreman. On the first, the jurors ruled that Smith was guilty of negligence. On the second they concluded that Garcia was not guilty of negligence. The third issue, the extent of Garcia's damages, the answer was $100. In the fourth issue the jury decided that Mrs. Garcia was not guilty of contributory negligence and finally on the fifth issue set her damages "for pain and suffering" at $1,500.

Attorneys Earl E. Manges, this city, and Vernon P. Rankin of Keyser, W. Va., represented the Garcias. Smith's attorneys were W. Earle Cobey and C. William Gilchrist, this city.

Local Man Fined For Metal Theft

James Lofton, 107 Fifth Street, was fined $50 and given a suspended sentence of 90 days in the County Jail yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on a charge of stealing scrap metal from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Magistrate J. Milton Dick suspended the jail sentence on condition the defendant be of good behavior and make restitution for the stolen property.

Authorities said Lofton, on November 4, stole a number of tie plates, angle bars and other scrap metal from B&O property. Lofton pleaded guilty.

Chest Directors Hear Report On Fund Campaign

Expenses For Drive Less Than Last Year

A total of $94,535.90 was pledged during the 1953-54 Cumberland Chest fund drive, it was reported at a Chest board of directors meeting last night in the Chest Office.

The amount is slightly over the campaign goal of $94,492.75. A breakdown shows the Advanced Gifts Section turned in $56,020; Classified Section, $26,839, and the Sales Army, $5,349.

At the same time, expenses for this year's fund drive were less than half of expenditures for last year's campaign. The 1953-54 campaign cost $3,763.26 compared to $7,667.74 for the 1952-53 drive.

Also at last night's meeting, the board of directors approved the regular budgets of the eight agencies, set up by the budget committee prior to the campaign.

The agencies' monthly reports were heard and approved by the board.

The treasurer's report for October, read last night, showed that Chest receipts for the month from 1952-53 pledges amounted to $3,930.56. Total disbursements for October amounted to $7,947.13, with $6,879.14 going to the agencies.

Balance in the bank on November 1 showed $708.75. However, officials said that since first of the month, $5,300 in 1952-53 pledges have been received and at least $3,000 is yet to be received.

William H. Buchholtz, this year's campaign director, last night again thanked volunteer workers and supporters of the Chest drive, for their untiring work in making the campaign a success.

Eves And Jacobs Attend Council

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Maryland mayors got together here today and passed a resolution calling upon Gov. McKeldin and the General Assembly "to establish and finance a committee to study municipal-county fiscal relations."

Mayors and commissioners from all parts of Maryland were here for three days of business meetings and conferences as a part of the sixth annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League.

Mayor Herbert W. Reichelt of Mount Rainier said the resolution was designed to ease a situation in which municipalities, in their proportional payment of county taxes, pay for many county services not rendered.

He said the league seeks an adjustment of municipal tax rates to take care of such situations.

Attending league council meetings were Mayors Roy Eves, Cumberland; A. H. Stevens, Snow Hill; Ross H. Beville, Takoma Park; Henry Kratz Jr., Mount Airy; Vincent Simmel, Cottage City; Russell Smith Jr., Cambridge; Jesse Jacobs, Frostburg; Donald Rice, Frederick, and L. R. Willis, Easton.

The group this afternoon heard a discussion of traffic problems by Henry A. Barnes, Baltimore traffic engineer.

Equity Suits Filed

Two equity suits have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Roberta D. Lambert, an infant, by her father and next friend, Raymond C. Burkhart, vs. Gerald N. Lambert and Theodore A. Hausman vs. Thelma C. Hausman.

Wiley Ford Army Officer Appears In Scene In Movie Showing At Maryland Theater

The two women were shopping in Cumberland yesterday and decided to take in a movie during the afternoon.

So Mrs. John Long, Wiley Ford, W. Va., and her aunt, Miss Mary Goodrich, stepped into the Maryland Theatre where an army picture, "Take The High Ground," is showing.

During a scene showing young soldiers at a training session with guided missiles Mrs. Long suddenly excitedly watched the film with avid interest. So did Miss Goodrich, for there on the big silver screen was Mrs. Long's son, Lt. John F. Long, U. S. Army, Fort Bliss, Texas.

It Was A Shock

"It was such a shock," Mrs. Long explained later, "I was so surprised at first I wasn't sure it was John." She then said the 32-year-old Army lieutenant has a brief speaking part and fires a guided missile in the movie.

"It was very clear and there was no mistaking him," Mrs. Long explained. But to make certain the two women remained to see the picture again to definitely identify the former Wiley Ford man as the missile instructor in the scene.

"It was almost like he was standing beside me, very thrilling," Mrs. Long continued. "It's the first time I've seen him in over two years." She went on to say her son appeared in the background in other scenes.

"John wrote to tell me he was going to appear in a Hollywood movie that was being filmed at Fort Bliss where he is stationed," Mrs. Long went on, "but I had no idea it was this picture. I was so surprised."

LT. JOHN F. LONG

Lt. Long enlisted in the army the day after Pearl Harbor was bombed, joining many other volunteers who signed up for the duration at Cumberland Post Office on that eventful day.

A flight engineer, Long flew 51 missions with a bomber crew over Africa, Egypt and Europe. After the second World War, then a Master Sergeant, Long was sent to Officer Candidate School in Kentucky in 1948 and received his commission.

Returns From Germany

Twice in the past five years the lieutenant has been stationed in Germany, returning home in February of this year to be assigned to his present work at Fort Bliss.

The Wiley Ford soldier intends to make a career of the army, his mother said. He attended Wiley Ford school and was working in the steel mills in Baltimore when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor.

While fighting in World War II Lt. Long received the Distinguished Flying Cross with oak cluster and the Air Medal with several clusters.

Upon his return to the United States following his second sojourn to Germany where he had been an artillery instructor Lt. Long was given his choice of three jobs and picked the position as company instructor in guided missile work at Fort Bliss.

Have Four Sons

Married to the former Mary E. Clifford, of South Bend, Ind., Lt. Long is the father of a 5-months-old daughter, Gail Annette. His parents have lived in Wiley Ford, where he was born, for over 33 years. His father works in the Western Maryland freight house.

Mr. and Mrs. Long also have three other sons, A/3c Earl J. Long and Pfc. Robert Long, who recently met while serving in the army in Korea, and Leroy Long at home.
